By DAVID SPURR

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Snipers with automatic weapons fought police through the night and dawn today, turning a major section of the city's predominantly Negro East Side into a battleground.

An assault force of 2,600 National Guardsmen, using armored personnel carriers and borrowed trucks from Brink's, Inc., moved into the area at sunrise with orders to "shoot to kill snipers."

Ten persons were killed by gunfire, including three police officers, three snipers and four Negroes apparently caught in the crossfire.

Eighteen other persons, 10 of them policemen, were wounded. Two of the wounded officers were in critical condition.

Police made 48 arrests. Firebombing, looting and assaults on civilians were widespread.

It was the nation's worst racial disorder since the destructive Washington rioting which followed the assassination of Martin Luther King in April.

Apartments, stores and cars were set afire. For two miles along both sides of Superior Avenue, a major thoroughfare, firemen braved sniper fire to battle flames ignited by Molotov cocktails.

The flames ranged from East 105th Street, in the area where the snipers were holed up, to the city limits two miles away.

The shooting lasted more than five hours Tuesday night and early today. It subsided during a driving rainstorm, then erupted again at an intersection in the heart of a five-block area where the disturbances first broke out.

Sees Plot

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, the first Negro ever elected head of a major American city, believed the violence may have been planned.

Police said the snipers were using automatic carbines, at least one machinegun, M1 rifles and shotguns.

Fred "Ahmed" Evans, a black nationalist leader arrested by three policemen before dawn, told officers he and 17 others instigated the shooting.

"If my carbine hadn't jammed I would have killed you three," police quoted him as saying. "I had you in my sights when my rifle jammed."

Patrolman David Hicks said Evans boasted that he and 17 others men began firing at officers because "you police have bothered us too long."

When told that three snipers had been slain, Evans said, "They died for a worthy cause," according to Hicks.

"We asked him where his weapon was," said Sgt. Ronald Heinz, "he pointed to buses in front of a house. We found a street twitching as bullets whizzed over him.

"A young girl darted out and scurried over to the man and managed to drag him to safety," the reporter said.

Stokes was under heavy police guard when he addressed a news conference at the peak of the disturbance.

His voice choked with emotion, Stokes told newsmen after the wild shooting had subsided "There is a definable group involved."

"Most of them have been arrested," he said. "It's not a riot. It has not reached that kind of proportions."

Elected Negro

Cleveland, the nation's eighth largest city, experienced a major riot in 1966. The election of Stokes last year had given rise to hopes the city would be spared racial disturbances during his tenure.

Police said the disturbances first began about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday with a surge of gunfire at the intersection of Lakeview and Arbonale Avenues.

Witnesses said a group of five Negroes armed with carbines and automatic rifles poured bullets into a police cruiser and a tow truck that pulled up to the intersection to pick up an abandoned car.

Within 30 minutes, the violence flared in a five-block area around the intersection. Police were pinned down by heavy fire from apartment houses ringing the intersection.

Witnesses said one of the five gunmen, who retreated into an apartment unit, shouted, "We'll shoot anything that's white."

Moments later, the sounds of gunfire rolled across the hot, sultry night and large bands of Negroes gathered at various intersections. Stores were fire-bombed and looted.

Police deployed their men, who were fired at as they crouched behind cars and utility poles. Gunfire was so heavy at times police could not go to the aid of wounded comrades.

A UPI reporter was trapped for two hours by crossfire between police and snipers in an apartment building a few blocks away. He said a young man in his 20s was lying on the ground, twitching as bullets whizzed over him.

"A young girl darted out and scurried over to the man and managed to drag him to safety," the reporter said.

Stokes was under heavy police guard when he addressed a news conference at the peak of the disturbance.

His voice choked with emotion, Stokes told newsmen after the wild shooting had subsided "There is a definable group involved."

"Most of them have been arrested," he said. "It's not a riot. It has not reached that kind of proportions."

Two Men, Girl Killed In County Mishaps

By LYNN MULVANEY

Two men and a three-year-old girl met death on Ulster County highways in three separate accidents yesterday.

One occurred at 10:15 in the morning when a truck, driven by Thomas Francis Conroy, 56 of Ward Street, Montgomery, went out of control on Hansburg Road about five-tenths of a mile north of Rt. 52 in Cragmoor.

Brakes Fail

According to state police at Ellenville, the truck was traveling south down a steep hill when the brakes apparently failed causing the driver to lose control. The vehicle overturned, ejecting Conroy who was pinned between the truck and the ground.

Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson who ruled the death accidental, said Conroy died of a crushed chest, a fractured skull and laceration of the brain.

Investigator F. C. Cooper and Trooper W. E. Hubert were in charge of the investigation.

Another morning accident claimed the life of a New Jersey man who apparently suffered a heart attack while driving south on the Thruway at Mile-post 75 near New Paltz.

William W. Calvert, 72, of 124 Herbert Street, Union Beach, N. J., traveling in the driving lane, ran off the road and struck a sign. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where he was declared dead on arrival.

The accident which occurred at 9:15 a. m. was investigated by Trooper Bruno Schinkowsky of the Newburgh Barracks.

The three-year-old Town of Ulster girl, Kelly Schabot, was reportedly killed when she ran in front of a car outside her home yesterday afternoon at 4:25. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schabot, 1060 Stoll Court.

According to State Police, the accident occurred when Patricia Woehlke, 24, of 1085 Stoll Court, was driving south on Stoll Court. The child reportedly ran from the left side of the road into the path of the vehicle. She was hit by the front center of the car.

Dead on Arrival

Taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance, and given oxygen enroute, the child was declared dead on arrival.

The investigation was conducted by Investigator Godfrey Molloy and Trooper Robert Molloy.

The three deaths bring Ulster County's fatality toll to 27

so far this year. The number is slightly behind last year's record when that number was reached on Aug. 20.

The Schabot girl's death was the sixth pedestrian fatality and the third involving a child.

In January a Woodstock five-year-old boy died when he was run over by a school bus and in June, a four-year-old Ellenville girl was killed when a truck overturned and spilled a load of bricks on her as she stood with two other girls alongside the road.

Two men and a woman also met death while walking on the highway.

Second in County

The Thruway accident was the second to occur in the county on that highway this year. In February, a New Hampshire man, a passenger in a car being driven just north of Kingston, was killed when the vehicle went out of control and flipped over. The driver survived.

One-car fatal accidents this year number 12. In all other instances, another vehicle was involved in collision.

Meanwhile, three persons were injured in a head-on collision on the Cottekill Road in the Town of Marlbtown last night.

The accident occurred when the operator of one car had his view obstructed by the vehicle's open hood and the car's owner perched on the front fender adjusting the distributor cap at the time of the mishap, state police report.

Taken to Kingston Hospital in Doctors Ambulance was Larry Baney, 16, of Cottekill Road, Cottekill, driver of the car in collision with the open-hooded vehicle. He was treated for abrasions of the nose and left forearm.

Admitted to Kingston Hospital were two passengers in the Baney car: Dennis Baney, 17, lacerations of the chin and a concussion and Penny Lynn Baney, 4, with multiple lacerations of the head and a possible concussion.

Three summonses were issued the driver of the open-hooded car, Kevin Osterhoudt, 16, of RD 1, Stone Ridge. He was cited for having an obstructed view, being an unsupervised learner and for having unsafe tires.

The car's owner, Steven Bauer, 17, of High Falls, who was perched on the fender, was issued a summons for permitting unlicensed operation of his vehicle.

The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. when the car driven by Osterhoudt was traveling east on Cottekill Road and the Baney car was traveling west, according to Trooper John Kohlman who investigated.

Osterhoudt and Bauer are scheduled to appear before Justice Edmund Ruffner of the Town of Marlbtown to answer the summonses.

Consider Weak Gun Resolution

By RAYMOND LAHR

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The National Governors Conference today considered a bland gun control resolution at its windup session after hearing President Johnson Tuesday call for increased cooperation between states and the federal government.

Consideration of the gun resolve came as morning newspapers told of five deaths in a raging gun battle in Cleveland. A man was arrested here Tuesday for carrying a loaded revolver in the governors' headquarters hotel.

Johnson told the governors that state and federal governments must deal with a number of problems in partnership or the national government will be compelled to act alone.

The resolution for today's session proposed that gun laws be left to the individual states. It had the unanimous recommendation of the nine-member executive committee and the law enforcement committee headed by Gov. David Cargo of New Mexico.

Cargo told a news conference Tuesday that a sizable group of governors wanted to call for licensing of individual gun owners. After the executive committee action, however, he said he doubted that there would be much dispute today over the resolution.

Gov. John Chafee of Rhode Island was reported to have withdrawn a resolution calling on the major political parties to agree to support the high man among presidential nominees if George C. Wallace's American Independent party candidacy drains away enough votes to deny anyone a majority of the Electoral College vote.

The President flew from Texas Tuesday night to accept a plaque applauding him for doing more than any president to improve relations between state and federal governments. He spoke while Gov. James A. Rhodes was getting a report on the five deaths from gunfire in Cleveland.

Johnson said the Constitution and traditions gave state and local government responsibility for law and order but that many citizens look to the federal government when the crime rate rises. He said the federal government had never sought the responsibility for policing the streets and he hoped it would never accept it. He also urged the governors to review their state tax systems and employment services.

Demand Federal Action

The President said people will demand action by the federal government unless it and the states work together to provide jobs, carry out the model cities program, protect infants against disease and provide higher education for all who want it. "The answer must never lie with the federal government alone," he said.

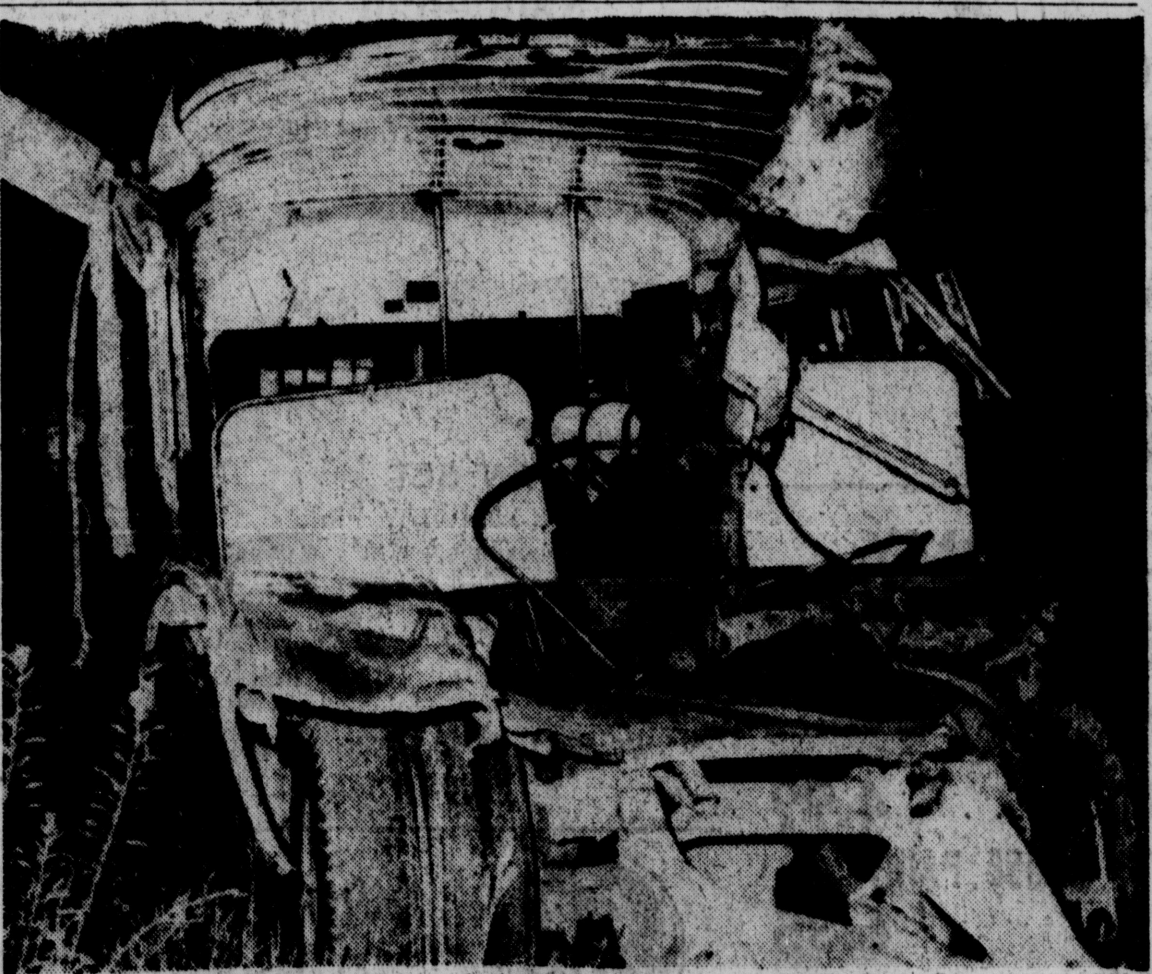

Of Vietnam, he said all Americans wanted peace but that some of them ignored the presence of an irreconcilable enemy.

"We are doing everything we can to get the enemy to meet us at least half way," he said. "Up to now they have shown no disposition to do that. We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go. But we are not going to impose a coalition government or any kind of government on the people of South Vietnam."

"And with all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it regardless of the pressures and strains of this political year."

Bus Stalls on Tracks

9 Migrants Killed by Train

BUENA VISTA, N.J. (UPI)—Mrs. Mary Howell and three of her 10 children had earned a total of $10.10 for a 12-hour day of picking blueberries Tuesday.

At day's end, they wearily boarded a rickety yellow schoolbus with 38 other migrant farm laborers for the journey back to their home in Wilmington, Del. The Howells excitedly discussed plans for spending their wages at a church picnic Thursday.

"Suddenly, the bus seemed to stall at the railroad tracks," Mrs. Howell recalled. In the next instant, a passenger train taking commuters from Philadelphia to their Atlantic shore homes slammed the bus broadside.

the air, overturning it several times. Bodies flew out the torn sides of the vehicle, some landing as far as 200 feet from the railroad crossing. Nine of the migrant laborers were killed, 23 others injured. None of the 100 passengers aboard the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore line train was injured.

Mrs. Howell, 50, was knocked out of her shoes but escaped injury. So did her daughter, Yvonne, 12.

"But I didn't see my boys right away, so I went looking—up the track," she sobbed in the emergency room of Kessler Memorial Hospital. "Yes, I saw them lying there. Oh, Lord, my boys. I thought, I screamed. I turned around. I couldn't stand it."

Mrs. Howell's two sons who picked berries with her Tuesday, Eugene, 15, and Andre, 13, were among the nine dead.

The accident occurred at 6:25 p.m. EDT at a quiet crossing in this small community halfway between Philadelphia and Atlantic City in the heart of the lush New Jersey farmland, where approximately 8,000 migrant farm laborers are working this season.

The bus in which Mrs. Howell and her family was riding was owned by Charles Bradley of Chester, Pa., a "crew leader" for the Crescent properties at Mays Landing, N.J., where Mrs. Howell and the others worked. The bus driver Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, was among the injured and was under sedation at the hospital.

State police said the bus recently had passed safety inspection after two successive failures.

Over Newburgh Housing Project

NAACP Head, City in Disagreement

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—The city of Newburgh will "create a ghetto" if it goes through with plans to build a low-income housing project in the city's market area, the chairman of the Newburgh chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged Tuesday.

Samuel A.T. Hodge Jr., whose organization has been conducting a running battle with city officials over the location of the proposed Diebold project, made his charge in telegrams sent to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and

State Housing Commissioner James E. Gaynor. Hodge said the city had been "enjoined some time ago by the commission from building on Water Street because it would constitute a ghetto." He said Dixon street, where construction is now planned, "would be the same."

Wants Different Site
Hodge said he and the NAACP want the project constructed at a site on Lake Street. The City Council prefers the market area because it feels that the project should be an industrial asset. "Gov. Rockefeller has created a billion-dollar corporation, called the State Urban Development Corp., designed to bypass adamant city councils who have failed in low-income housing," Hodge said.

"Newburgh is a prime example of a 13-year delay. We feel that if he (the governor) comes here or sends his experts to make an analysis, the city of Newburgh will be enjoined from building on Dixon Street—and Lake Street would be the only other choice."

Mayor George F. McKneally said of Hodge's comments: "We are convinced that the regional market site is the only logical one and we are proceeding on this without delay."

"I think the real answer to Mr. Hodge is that he's been given entirely too much attention," the mayor said.

"Now he has convinced himself that his opinion makes or breaks the location of a project, and that if he doesn't get his way he'll punish anyone that he can. And I think it's about time that people stood up to be counted and put Mr. Hodge in his proper place."

Hodge announced Monday that the NAACP was extending a Negro boycott of local stores and would picket selected stores. The boycott, which he calls "selective buying," began Saturday.

Extending Boycott
Hodge said Tuesday that the boycott "will proceed," but added: "We are not making an analysis at this point because we have not escalated it to the point where it will really show its fangs."

Retired General Dies

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Hugh Barclay, a retired Army brigadier general and father of State Sen. Douglas Barclay, died Monday at a Syracuse hospital. He was 75.

Barclay, who once served as military attaché at the American Embassy in Rio de Janeiro, retired from the active duty in 1945.

In recent years, he operated a farm in nearby Pulaski.

Soviet Leaders Ready For Showdown With Czechs

Through the maneuvering troops went the 11 rulers of Russia, the Soviet Communist party presidium bound for a showdown meeting in Czechoslovakia with the party reformers in the former statelike.

East European sources here said the world would learn of the meeting and what it accomplished probably only when it is over. On the other hand, the Soviet press trumpeted the massing of troops and called up civilian reservists along the 1,000 miles of this nation's western frontier.

The maneuvers were not routine. The Kremlin made that clear when it commandeered farm vehicle for the troops despite the current harvest work. Further, the Soviet press stressed both the size of the exercises and the nearness of the war games to Czechoslovakia.

It stressed the Soviet no-

Israeli Prisoners, Jet Still Being Held

PARIS (AP)—The Algerian government still held a hijacked Israeli jetliner and 21 or 22 Israeli citizens today after releasing 23 non-Israeli passengers.

The El Al Boeing 707 was diverted to Algiers on a flight from Rome to Israel early Tuesday by three members of the Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab sabotage organization. The front asked the Algerian government to hold the Israelis aboard the plane as hostages for Arab commandos held prisoner in Israel, but there was no public response from Algiers and no demand for a swap.

Twenty of the released passengers were flown to Paris. They included two Americans, Rina Uziel, 23, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Gabriel Gaiz, 17, a student from Long Beach, Calif., who finally arrived in Tel Aviv today with four other passengers.

Three Jewish passengers who were not Israeli citizens, were flown to Marseille.

Reports of the number of Israelis held in Algiers differed. El Al, the Israeli national airline, said 10 crew members and 12 passengers were detained. The Algerians said they were holding 11 passengers along with the 10 crew members.

The three hijackers also apparently were in Algiers. The Israeli government asked U.N. Secretary General U Thant and the Italian government to intercede with the Algerians for release of the $6 million jetliner.

Retired Union Leader Feted

A retirement testimonial was held recently for Joseph Rodden, at Jake's Restaurant.

Rodden is retiring as president of Boilermakers Local 270 of Kingston after 25 years service. More than 25 persons attended the event. The honored guest was presented with a plaque. Participating in the ceremonies were Edward Donohue, financial secretary; James Donohue, vice president; John Bridges, recording secretary; Charles Carl, trustee; and Raymond Conlin, president of the local.

Reagan, Rocky In Tune

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Ronald Reagan and Nelson A. Rockefeller found themselves in agreement today on a surprising point: Both saw growing support for Reagan's unannounced presidential candidacy. Rockefeller, governor of New York, told newsmen at the National Governors Conference at Cincinnati Tuesday that he knows of 55 delegates, most of them in the South, who have switched from support of Richard M. Nixon as the Republican presidential candidate. Rockefeller said 37 have lined up behind Reagan and the rest behind his own, announced candidacy. No Specific Figures
 Despite conceding this shift to Reagan, Rockefeller insisted that only he can win for the Republicans in November. Reagan, appearing at a separate news conference, didn't have any specific figures. But the California governor said "rather sizeable movements" have sprung up designed to make him a candidate. "I can't ignore them. It's there," Reagan said. At the same time he reaffirmed his intention to lead the California delegation to the GOP convention as a favorite son and not as an announced national candidate. The governors conference provided a focal point for Tuesday's nationwide political doings which included a demonstration-marched visit by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to New York City, a pitch for

Moral Support for Czechs

The United States has told Russia in the form of a protest that it is not guilty of Soviet charges of interfering in the Czechoslovakian affair or other East European matters. Secretary of State Rusk has filed objections to the continuing series of allegations that the United States has involved itself in events in Czechoslovakia.

While our sympathies are with the Czechs and their struggle to gain greater freedom it would be imprudent for Washington to go further than to indicate our moral support.

There are two reasons for not getting entangled. First: Any support by the United States of the Czechs will be used by the Soviets to build an argument that the liberal movement is inspired by Washington. The thrust of the movement for democratizing Czech communism is from within and to taint this with the suspicion of outside influence would be just what the Russians want. Second: After our performance, or rather lack of performance, during the abortive Hungarian uprising of 1956 the natural question to ask is, just what would we do—or perhaps more appropriately, could we do—about it if the Russians did use tanks and troops to eliminate the Dubcek regime? Militarily the Russians hold all the trump cards—Czechoslovakia is surrounded by Soviet satellites and the United States straining to meet the demands of the Vietnam conflict, can be of little help. To make any military support commitment, implied or otherwise, would not help the Czechs and our inability to deliver would be disastrous to our image.

Washington can and should continue to carefully endorse and applaud the Czech's courageous determination to gain a more democratic form of government. But to do more would serve no constructive purpose and very likely be harmful to the interests of both countries.

The Traffic Toll

After registering a gain in the Independence Day four-day holiday weekend, it is sad to find that the first five months this year saw a thousand more traffic deaths than the similar period last year. We seem to fall back a step every time we gain one.

The holiday weekend killed 619 persons, final figures of the National Safety Council showed. Insofar as this fell below the council's estimate that 700 to 800 Americans might lose their lives in those days, the report was good.

It compared with 553 deaths in a nonholiday weekend of equal length. It seems we don't have to wait for long holidays, and the pressure of covering a lot of space in a short time, to see highway fatalities rise. We destroy an average of 134 persons a day, any day, now.

Through May 31, the council counted 20,380 deaths this year as against 19,270 during the first five months of 1967. That was a rise of 6 per cent in one year. The Vietnam war losses, so greatly deplored, amount to a mere 3,000 a year (average) by comparison.

Nor are we elated that, because there are more vehicles, the number of fatalities per 100 million miles had dropped slightly from 5.1 per cent to an even 5 per cent at present.

Traffic continues to be the nation's worst killer. We are spending $1.5 billion a month on the war in Vietnam, where one object is to save the lives of American fighting men. We hope and pray the day will come when we can and will spend the money needed to save the lives of Americans fighting their way through traffic on the highways. That will be worth while.

Discipline on Campus

The rash of rebellions on college campuses across the country were not protected by the First Amendment and are subject to normal university discipline, it may be deducted from a Federal court decision refusing to enjoin Columbia University from disciplining students who took part in campus disorders last spring.

The plaintiffs seeking the injunction claimed that their "non-violent occupation of five university buildings was fully protected by the First Amendment guarantee of the right to petition government for redress of grievances and to assemble and speak. They argued that the rhetoric and tactics of the American Revolution were the guides by which the First Amendment must be construed.

U.S. Judge Marvin E. Frankel dismissed this plea with the statement that "It is nonsense of the most literal kind that a court of law should subordinate the 'rule of law' in favor of more 'fundamental principles' of revolutionary action designed to forcibly oust governments, courts and all."

With this judgment, everyone interested in maintaining the educational system of the country against insensitive attack must agree. Now, let's get back to classes and get an education, the reason for going to college in the first place.

The Greatest Show on Earth

David Lawrence Says

'Separation of Powers' Doctrine Is Fuzzy

WASHINGTON — There is more confusion than ever now as to what is meant by "separation of powers" in our constitutional system of government. The two nominees for the Supreme Court of the United States who have just appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee have refused to answer many questions asked of them concerning past decisions.

Judge Homer Thornberry, who has been nominated by the President to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, did answer a question about his delay in taking office five years ago even though he had been confirmed by the Senate. His reply leaves an air of mystery.

Thus, Mr. Thornberry, while serving as a member of the House Rules Committee, was appointed by President Kennedy to become a judge of the U.S. District Court. He was confirmed in July 1963, but he remained in the House of Representatives five months while the White House withheld his commission. Senator Robert Griffin, Republican of Michigan, last week called the attention of the Judiciary Committee to reports that the move was "designed to insure Mr. Thornberry's vote on legislative issues during the interim."

Mr. Thornberry now says that he decided to remain a congressman for those five months because he "had the hope Congress would soon adjourn," but that, when it became apparent the session would drag on for the rest of the year, he felt it was his duty to continue serving the people of his district, rather than leave them without representation. It is not unusual, however, for vacancies in congressional districts to remain unfilled for intervals before special or regular elections are held.

Mr. Thornberry's failure in 1963 to take the oath of office as a federal judge caused the postponement of action on many pieces of legislation and cases then pending in court. The question is whether the administration or Mr. Thornberry was responsible for the delay. There has never been any explanation as to why the White House held up the commission.

So it appears that the doctrine of "separation of powers" is a bit fuzzy in that a member of Congress can sometimes continue to serve in the legislative branch even though he has been confirmed as a judge of the U.S. District Court.

But when it comes to answering questions about opinions participated in by members of the Supreme Court or of the lower courts, both Justice Fortas and Judge Thornberry took the position that they have a right not to discuss before congressional committees the decisions which they have rendered.

The executive branch of the government, through the Department of Justice, on the other hand, has just taken an unusual step by issuing a memorandum backing up the opinions of Justice Fortas and defending him against the criticisms of his decisions made by members of the Senate Judiciary Committee when he testified last week.

Congress has the power to limit the authority of the Supreme Court as to the jurisdiction of cases that may be handled by the high court. Yet when a congressional committee today seeks to discuss with nominees to the high court the viewpoints of prospective judges, a refusal to testify is supported by an executive department of the present administration.

This is not so much a question of "separation of power" as of "application of power" by Congress. For the legislative body has the right to determine for itself whether a nominee for the federal bench has shown — by his record — the ability, judgment and impartiality necessary to deal fairly with the cases that may come before him. As matters stand today, the nominee for the post of chief justice has conceded that, while serving on the high court during the last three years, he has continued to act as a personal adviser to the President of the United States. No "separation of powers" has been recognized in that instance.

So Congress sooner or later will have to define the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in its interpretations of the Constitution as well as the obligations of its new justices to respect the doctrine of a "separation of powers." The legislative branch may find it necessary, moreover, to draw a line prohibiting any participation by members of the Judiciary — including the Supreme Court of the United States — in the activities or operations of the executive branch of the government.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The quadrennial madness is upon us. Politics does not make conversation because what is one man's Meade is another man's Persian. It puts a new chill on an old friendship. You can hear it on the golf course, in the office, under the dryer, at dinner, in a tavern, church or a bus. Everyone says: "How does it look?"

The man I watch with fascination lives at 1142 South Perry Street in Montgomery, Alabama. He is, of course, George Corley Wallace — the poor man's Huey Long. Mr. Wallace is going to surprise a lot of people on election night. He won't win anything, and he knows it. But, if he can take 10 per cent of the electoral vote — 54 votes — the ex-governor may decide who will be President.

He can do more than take 10 percent. Mr. Wallace can cut Nixon just enough in some states, like California, to dump the Golden Gate into Humphrey's lap. This man flies around in a seedy-looking DC-6 making one night stands. He's a demagogue out of the old Chautauqua circuit, roaring invective through flashing teeth, dredging old venom from the bottom of hearts and asking one and all to spread the Wallace gospel.

America tends to forget that it has a Democratic vote, a Republican vote and a Hate vote. It is probable that one out of every 20 votes is cast against someone. To freeze them in one bloc, a candidate must be shrill in his opposition to such things as the United States Supreme Court, desegregation, spending, Vietnam, foreign aid, centralization of federal government and, conversely, heartily favor expansion of state's rights.

Five years ago, George Wallace came on the American scene almost timidly, as the newly elected governor of Alabama. He was forbidden by law from succeeding himself and, in 1966, successfully sponsored a subterfuge in running Mrs. Wallace as his successor. She died in office, but Wallace remains the biggest man in a politically unhappy state.

It was in Birmingham, on July 17, 1948, that the opponents of Harry Truman's civil rights program met in rump convention and nominated J. Strom Thurmond and Fielding L. Wright on a States' Rights ticket. Of 525 electoral votes, Thurmond got 39, seven and a half percent, although only 2.4 per cent of the people voted for him.

In 1960, when Kennedy was running against Nixon, electors of the states of Alabama and Mississippi gave Harry F. Byrd 15 electoral votes although less than one percent of the people espoused his cause. The military are fond of using a word "polarized." It means to magnetize into a solid bloc. I would surmise that George Wallace has "polarized" those who oppose the Republican and Democratic parties.

If the nominees are to be Humphrey versus Nixon, Mr. Wallace is prepared to say that they could be placed on the same ticket — that the people are not being given a choice. The election does not have to be as close as the Kennedy-Nixon photofinish in 1960 for Wallace to become the balance of power.

He is almost certain to round up a majority of the conservative wing of the Republican Party — the 1964 Goldwater votes. If so, Wallace stands an excellent chance of nailing down Alabama's 10 votes; Georgia's 12; Mississippi's 7; Florida's 8, and possibly, Florida's 14. (Goldwater lost Florida by 906,000 to 948,000.) That is 61 out of 538 votes.

No one can buy the little man off. Ideologically, no one would approach him from either major party. The damage he can do is not limited to electoral votes. The ex-governor is going to take a couple of million anti-Administration votes which would go to the Republican nominee. Many will be in states where, if Wallace wasn't siphoning the cream from the top, the Republican Party could expect to win.

Ironically, on a recent trip east and Midwest, I spoke to politicians from both major parties and they worry about Rockefeller and Eugene McCarthy. Or they wonder what happened to all those Bobby Kennedy people.

I asked what the politicians thought of that Alabama ambush called Wallace. Not much. Some shrugged. Some laughed.

Drew Pearson Says Sen. Ellender's Movie-Taking Costs Taxpayers $20,687

WASHINGTON — The Senate's most indefatigable sightseer, 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has worked out a unique scheme for letting the taxpayers pay for his amateur movies.

Ellender totes a movie camera around the world and takes dozens of reels for the wonderment of those at home who, out of respect for his Senate seniority, let themselves be collared into attending his illustrated lectures. He also packs a supply of little black notebooks, in which he jots his most trivial impressions, later to be published at the taxpayers' expense as official Senate reports.

It had always been thought that Ellender's movie-making was a personal hobby paid out of his own pocket. But the secret has now leaked out that the taxpayers also help foot the bill for "Ellender's Productions."

As Senate Agriculture chairman, Ellender has enormous influence over the destiny of the Agriculture Department. It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that one of the Agriculture Department's unmentioned services for the nation's farmers is to process Ellender's movies.

The Agriculture Department splices Ellender's fascinating footage, and adds a sound track featuring the voice of none other than Allen Ellender narrating his own traveltogue. For three films this has now cost the taxpayers $20,687.

The Agriculture Department is prohibited from doing work for individuals, so Ellender arranged for the department to bill the Senate Recording Studio. This is a technicality which saves the taxpayers exactly nothing.

Ellender's first effort to make a travelogue out of his home movies, back in 1963, cost the taxpayers $7,840. The taxpayers paid $11,000 last year for a lengthier Ellender Production. And he has just completed a short documentary of his latest trip for $1,847. He expropriated the Senate caucus room the other day for a preview, which was attended by dutiful Senate employees, a few Senators who couldn't think of an alibi and one or two devoted Ellender fans.

New Protection in Miami

The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in a crowded hotel has caused secret security reappraisals at the Miami Beach hotels where the Republican candidates will be staying. Both the Hilton Plaza Hotel, where Richard Nixon has reservations, and the Americana Hotel, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will stay, have arranged elaborate new security precautions. The entire floors where the candidates' rooms are located will be sealed off. Both hotels have also given their employees a thorough new screening since the Kennedy assassination.

Congressional Vacations

What most people don't know is that Senators and Congressmen are absent from Washington much of the time — for holiday, long weekends and foreign junkets at the taxpayers' expense. The only group which does more vacationing is the international "jet set."

Industrial members object to this gold-bricking, which has become a way of life to most of their senior colleagues. Hard working young Reps. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, circulated a petition some time back for a five-day work week. They got nowhere. Scheuer and Mink wanted to outlaw the "Tuesday-Thursday Club," whose members, chiefly from New York and the East, leave town on Thursday and return Tuesday.

Result is that work which should be done early in the year piles up near adjournment. Senate and House members are now complaining about the backlog of legislation that is holding up adjournment. But the truth is that they themselves created the backlog by neglecting their duties earlier in this session.

Official holidays, as distinct from long weekends, begin in February, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Many go home again for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners in the spring. Then there is Easter, when Congress takes a recess, followed by a long weekend on Memorial Day and another on the Fourth of July.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, who foot the bills for all this, the political conventions, which bring the longest vacation of all, occur only once every four years.

HHH's Empty Chest

Lack of campaign funds has slowed down Hubert Humphrey's campaign for President. He was unable to come up with the down payment that his New York advertising agency, Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, had required to start an advertising barrage. As a result, the campaign is already three weeks behind schedule.

At first, the money poured into Humphrey's campaign chest, largely from businessmen who were afraid of Robert Kennedy and not enthusiastic about Richard Nixon. Since Kennedy's death this money has dried up. Businessmen are bank-rolling Rockefeller instead.

Humphrey's treasurer, Sidney Weinberg, who raised funds for the Eisenhower campaign and is now working for Humphrey, is coming up almost empty-handed.

Incidentally, Humphrey has told friends that he definitely intends to speak to Sen. Ted Kennedy about the vice presidential nomination. Humphrey didn't want to rush matters after Bobby's death. But the Vice President is on warm terms with Ted Kennedy and thinks Kennedy would add the most strength to his ticket. The man he would really prefer as his running mate, however, is Sen. Ed Muskie of Maine.

Honolulu Talks Offered Little Hope of Early Peace

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Neither the peace advocates in this country nor the Hanoi negotiators in Paris could find comfort in the Honolulu conference between Presidents Johnson and Thieu. If their official statements were a reliable guide to the private conversations, unattended by interpreters or advisers, an early peace in Vietnam was dismissed as wishful and impractical unless Hanoi has a dramatic change of heart.

The two presidents, who met for 10 hours or so on Friday and Saturday, seemed far more interested in Nguyen Ban Thieu's political problems in Saigon than in the fortunes of the Democratic Party this November.

In domestic political terms, the Honolulu talks could only have dismayed those in Vice President H. Humphrey's camp searching for a more moderate line on which to base his presidential bid. On the other hand, the mutually firm, near-defiant positions reflected in the communique gave GOP aspirant Richard M. Nixon little to shoot at.

The unusually long and often ambiguous communique ruled out an imposed "coalition government" on Saigon; dealing with the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong political instrument, as an entity; any cease-fire not fully and effectively safeguarded.

Moreover, it was written as if to refute earlier press accounts of a contemplated bombing halt and other conciliatory moves by President Johnson in his eagerness to break the impasse of the Paris talks.

The President himself, whose obnoxious dislike of advance speculation about his moves often leads him to switch signals, and do the opposite, felt obliged to appear before the press at Camp Smith in the hills above Pearl Harbor, and to describe the "big rumors" as "just pure absolute tommyrot and fiction."

Nobody had a chance to ask him why his defense secretary, Clark Clifford, in denying a published report that he discussed a bombing halt and the question of negotiating with the NLF with Thieu during his Saigon visit, said those matters were "particularly omitted" in the Saigon talks so the two presidents could take them up at Honolulu.

While both Mr. Johnson and Thieu denied the issues were discussed, other officials on both sides insisted that they were, in the context of the "important elements of mutual escalation" which, according to the communique, the United States "is attempting to discover in Paris."

Behind the uncompromising tone of the Honolulu meeting, officials say, was the negative response from Hanoi that led to the partial reduction in bombing to the limits of the 20th parallel. Attempts in Paris and other capitals as well have brought no clear "signal" for the North Vietnamese.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese officials, to a man, agreed at Honolulu that the present lull in the fighting is more ominous than encouraging, saying the enemy is simply being rested, refitted and re-supplied for other "major offensives" in the coming weeks and months.

An example of the hardened attitude of the allies was Thieu's remark that if Hanoi plans to match U.S. bombing restraints on the ground, it should declare its plan and purpose. Heretofore, the United States has said, among other vague conditional responses, that it would "assume" the enemy would not take advantage of a complete bombing halt.

The man who emerged as a bona fide spokesman for the fragmented, war-torn, intrigue-ridden government was Thieu, who had no reason to be abashed, upon his return to Saigon, when he faced the South Vietnamese hawks and those "unscrupulous politicians," as he identified them, who said he swam embarked upon a "sell-out."

Previously overshadowed by the more assertive and colorful Nguyen Cao Ky, whose eclipse in the vice presidency has been marked, Thieu came into his own in Hawaii. He yielded nothing to the Americans, missed no nuance at his news conference, and obtained assurances no less firm than those given by the United States in February, 1966, at the first Honolulu conference, when both sides still thought the war could be won on the ground.

The outcome at Honolulu this time suggested no early end to the fighting, no lessening of the U.S. burden in manpower and money for at least a good year — unless, of course, Hanoi forces the peace issue with a clear-cut concession to meet the U.S. bombing halt condition.

Soviet Stands to Lose Czech

Chicago Daily News Service

ROME — Joseph Stalin captured Czechoslovakia 20 years ago without a single soldier on Czech soil. Today's Soviet leaders are losing the lizard-shaped country with 20,000 soldiers on the ground.

This intolerable contrast is what puts the old guard of Russian leaders, Leonid Brezhnev and Alexander Kosygin, in such a vulnerable position internally in Russia. They dare not fail in an enterprise where Stalin triumphed with no bayonets.

New young Russians are waiting to brush the two Soviet leaders aside, in a showdown before the Soviet party's Central Committee, if they fail to "save" Czechoslovakia. The whole Red Belt of the East, fractured by the defections of Yugoslavia and Romania, is in peril.

The urgent, repeated insistence of the Soviet leaders

on immediate meetings, with the Czechs on Soviet soil reflects an anxiety that they may be humiliated before Communist history as the men who lost Central Europe. They may become even lower "non-men" than Khrushchev, who lost power though he "saved" Hungary with tanks.

In 1948 Stalin prepared minutely and beautifully the plan to deliver Czechoslovakia into the hands of the Communist Party, skillfully exploiting the trust and fear of Russia in ailing President Edward Benes. Benes was paralyzed by guilt, he had innocently sent Stalin a gastaopax that caused Stalin to butcher scores of Red Army generals.

The man who might carry out today, once more, the Benes role, ex-president Antonin Novotny, has been expelled from power. He controls less than 20 members of the Central Committee. His trigger man, ex-minister of interior Rudolf Barak, is up for trial.

Stalin's base of power, substituting for the lack of Red Army troops on Czech soil, was the "people's militia." It was these Communist-organized factory guards who bypassed the Czech Army and police, and arrested all resistance, even cabinet members.

But the "people's militia" have gone over from Novotny to the new party secretary Alexander Dubcek. So they cannot be used again.

And the Czech Army command is boldly exposing the Soviet failure even to give them accounts of their evacuation.

Believe War Likely in 5 Years

PRINCETON, N. J., July
23—Six in every 10 Americans think another full-scale war between the Israelis and Arabs is likely to occur during the next five years.

Although most observers see few signs of a major outbreak of fighting between now and our November election, it should be pointed out that similar crises in the past have had a measurable impact on Presidential races.
Surveys showed that the Suez crisis and the Hungarian revolt, occurring just ten days before the 1956 election, increased Eisenhower's vote by about 3 million.

Main Causes of Trouble
In order to see how well-informed the American people are about the situation and to see what they think should be done in case of a full-scale war in the Middle East, a series of questions was asked of 1537
people in personal interviews
between June 29 and July 3.

The first question, which sought to find out what people think are the main causes of trouble between the Arabs and Israelis, revealed that few Americans are informed about the situation.

Only a small proportion,
for example, mention as causes the present difficulty over ownership of land or the recognition of Israel as a nation. As many as 4 in 10 could offer no explanation of the conflict.

(51 per cent) with no opinion.
The most frequent suggestion

Strangely, only a small pro-

While the present survey and earlier surveys (conducted at the time of the fighting in June, 1967) show the sympathies of the U. S. public overwhelmingly on the side of Israel, most Americans hope
we will not become involved with either side in the Middle East if war were to break out.

The Vietnam war has led many people to believe that the U. S. should no longer try to be the "policeman of the world."

The following question was asked to get at public thinking on this issue:

"If a full-scale war were to start there in the next year or two, what should the U. S.

In Event of War

The next questions in the series dealt specifically with the matter of sending troops (and arms and material) to the Israelis and the Arabs:

"If a full-scale war were to start there, do you think the U. S. should or should not supply arms and material to Israel (to the Arabs)?"

14 Bottom Rail on Top

If there was anything Southern whites feared more than bad Negro government, it was good Negro government. If there was anything they feared more than an ignorant Negro, it was a brilliant one.

—Lerone Bennett Jr.

The history of Reconstruction has been viewed largely through Southern-made glasses
—ignorant blacks, abetted by carpetbaggers
(Northern white opportunists) and scalawags
(Southern white traitors), lording it over whites in the statehouses, wasting the people's money on such things as gold-plated spittoons and making a mockery of Western parliamentary law.

The facts speak otherwise.

There was some corruption, to be sure, but no worse than the South knew before and not as bad as it was to know later. It could not compare with the graft-ridden government of post-Civil War New York or the federal government during the Grant administration.

Once given the chance, Negroes took to politics on local, state and national levels with alacrity and an amazing ability to learn. Between 1869 and 1901, 20 Negroes served in the U.S. House of Representatives and two in the Senate. One of the latter, Blanche Kelso Bruce, occupied the seat of ex-president of the Confederacy Jefferson Davis.

Among many other important posts, Negroes
served as lieutenant governors in Mississippi,
South Carolina and Louisiana. P.B.S. Pinch-back briefly held the office of governor of Louisiana.

Although the freedmen had a saying—"the bottom rail is on top"—in no state did Negroes

control the government, although in South
Carolina they had a majority in the house.
There was a notable lack of desire for revenge against the whites. Senator Bruce, for one, championed the re-enfranchisement of former rebels.

It was in their remaking of the state constitutions that the black politicians left their lasting mark. Voting qualifications and imprisonment for debt were abolished, free public
rights of women were enhanced.

Ironically, it was the white population that was to benefit from all this when Reconstruction was finally overthrown. Except for Negro rights, white supremacy governments were to retain many of the advances made during this short period of experimentation with democ-

Move Towards Peace Talks

By BRUCE OUDES
(Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

NIAMEY, Niger — Nigeria
and Biafra moved a cautious
step closer yesterday to the resumption of a full-scale
peace conference with the brief announcement that they have agreed on an agenda for the talks.

A communique issued after three and a half hours of preliminary discussions under the auspices of the Organization of African Unity
said the two sides had studied
"concrete proposals" for civilian relief.

Biafran leader Lieut. Col.
Odumegwu Ojukwu agreed
during a dramatic 10-hour
visit here Friday to resume
the formal peace talks broken off June 1 by the Biafrans.

The conference is to be held in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, "as soon as possible."

Ojukwu, meanwhile, has spent at least two nights in the Ivory Coast, which has recognized Biafra, keeping in close touch with the officially low level talks here, according to reports from Abidjan.

He is understood to have refused to stay longer in Niger, a country he considers hostile territory.

Niger — which has not recognized Biafra — has a large percentage of Muslim Hausas, the people who also dominate neighboring Northern Nigeria.

Conflicting reports about Ojukwu's plans to return home were thought possibly to be an attempt to keep the Nigerians off balance and unable to intercept his plane
as he heads into Biafra.

Meanwhile, soldiers who said they have orders to shoot
anyone, including newsmen
who try to approach the Biafran delegation's quarters
here, have helped considerable to impose a tight curtain around details of the talks.

A three-man delegation from the World Council of Churches yesterday presented a message to the conference
calling for an early peace.

After yesterday's talks,
Allison Ayida, leader of the Nigerian delegation, took an executive jet back to Lagos
for consultations with the Federal leader, Maj. Gen.

Yabaku Gowon, before the talks resume here today.

The jets, modern telecommunications and the increasing pressure of world
public opinion for a settlement
of the war blended incongruously with the languid flow
of the Niger River and life through the isolated capital of this landlocked Saharan country.

The Biafran delegates wore
red and green badges, which said "Save Biafra" as the French-speaking Niger
government as host manfully struggled with the problems of servicing discussions taking place in English, Nigeria's language.

Among those who have arrived in town to apply moral pressures are two British representatives of a London-based "Biafra Aid Group" who hope to launch a large-scale airlift of starving Biafran babies to Britain.

This contrasted with a report from a Red Cross
official that only one plane-load of relief supplies
has gone into Biafra from the Spanish island of Fernando Poo
in the past three weeks.

GARFIELD CADETS

New Jersey Bugle Corps At POW WOW

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps is happy and proud to announce that the Garfield Cadets will be competing for the $600 first prize and the championship flag at the 4th annual POW WOW of Junior Champions to be held at Dietz Stadium on Saturday evening, Aug. 10. This drum and bugle corps contest, which has filled the stadium with enthusiastic spectators each year, will this year have seven corps from the United States and Canada in competition, and both the Kingston Indians and their feeder unit, the Troop 12 Indians will give exhibitions.

The Garfield Cadets of Garfield, N. J., have been in continuous operation for a period of thirty-four years, making them one of the oldest junior drum and bugle corps in the country. Organized in 1934 as the Holy Name Cadets, they reorganized as the Garfield Cadets in 1958. Winning titles too numerous to mention, it should be noted that the Cadets have been the American Legion Junior National Champions on ten separate occasions, a record still unmatched in junior competition. They have the distinct honor of being the first junior drum and bugle corps to be elected to the National Drum Corps Hall of Fame.

Resplendent in West Point inspired uniforms of maroon, white and gold, the Cadets were completely refitted last season. They are as famous for their discipline, traditions and esprit de corps, as for their field accomplishments. The Cadets are known throughout the drum corps world as the "model corps." Many times imitated, they have never been duplicated.

The 1968 musical repertoire includes: "March of the Olympians," "French National De-file," "American Salute," "It's Today," "Take Five," "Mission Impossible," "My Blue Heaven," "March Bravura," "Going Out of My Head," and "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You."

Instructors are Jimmy Costello on drill, Ray Capicille on color guard, Danny Raymond on drums, and James D'Amico on bugles, who is also Corps Director. The two Drum Majors are Bobby Knapp and Danny Panessa.

Hearing Set for Ulster Dog Law

An amendment is under consideration for the newly enacted dog ordinance of the Town of Ulster and a public hearing for that purpose has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. in Lake Katrine Grange Hall. The dog ordinance was enacted June 28.

The proposed amendment to Section 3—Owner's responsibility should read as follows: "No person shall own or harbor a dog within the Town of Ulster unless licensed pursuant to the provisions of Article 7 of the

Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York.

"Licenses shall not be required for dog under the age of six months which are not at large. It is further provided that the clerk of the Town of Ulster at the time of issuing the license shall require the applicant to present a certificate certified by a duly licensed veterinarian showing that the dog has been vaccinated to prevent rabies, provided however that in lieu thereof, the applicant may present a certificate duly certified by a licensed veterinarian stating that because of old age or other reasons, the life of the dog would be endangered by the administration of vaccine.

"The town clerk shall make or cause to be made from the certificate a record of such information and file the same with the application."

At the public hearing, an opportunity will be given to all interested persons to speak in favor or against said proposed amendment.

Nixon Appears Shoo-In But Others Are Making Inroads

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)

From the Rockies to the Hawaiian Islands, the Republican presidential nomination drive of Richard M. Nixon is harvesting GOP National Convention votes.

But Gov. Ronald Reagan of California is growing some grassroots of his own from his power base in the nation's most populous state.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York must depend on a dramatic, almost monumental mistake by Nixon to make any substantial inroads.

Geographic Domination

Geographically speaking, Nixon on as Reagan surrounded. He dominates all the Western state delegations to the Miami Beach convention except those from California and Utah.

But on the basis of votes—for at least the first ballot—the former vice president and the California governor are at almost a Western standoff. Rockefeller has only two certain votes.

The biggest single Western vote bloc is California's 86—and they're all committed to Reagan as a favorite son. Nixon has Rockefeller, believes at least 9 of the delegates favor the New York governor.

Former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, the party's 1964 nominee, holds the key to the only in Oregon, where he won Arizona delegation, although the primary.

Of 10 Western states, Nixon has legally firm commitments on veep should be up to the presidential candidate.

One exception is Utah. That the vice presidential nominee, eight-man delegation reportedly, unanimously favors Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Most political figures turn practical by saying a decision who has close religious ties to helping the party win in November. But his current strategy must be to say he wouldn't accept it.

Unquestionably GOP leaders in many Western states would like to see Reagan in the No. 2 spot. Other possibilities raised include Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Ted Kennedy Future—Question of the Hour

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — What the future holds for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the last surviving brother of the Kennedy clan, is one of the major political questions of the hour. The question grows as the time draws near for the Democratic National Convention. There has been speculation whether he will become a candidate for vice president, or even whether he will remain in the Senate.

A meeting Monday at the Kennedy compound overlooking Nantucket Sound brought together some of the leading figures in the campaign and administration of the late President John F. Kennedy, and in the brief campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy which ended with an assassin's bullet June 5.

Gathering to discuss creation of a memorial to Robert Kennedy were such men as Robert S. McNamara, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Theodore C. Sorensen, and Kenneth P. O'Donnell. There were about a dozen others for the meeting on the memorial plans.

McNamara was secretary of defense in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations until his appointment as president of the World Bank.

Schlesinger, former Harvard historian, and now at City College of New York, was a White House staff member.

Sorensen was a White House aide to President Kennedy and had been on his Washington staff when Kennedy was a senator.

O'Donnell has been a Kennedy campaigner for years, and also was in the White House.

Also at the meeting was Frank Mankiewicz who was on Robert Kennedy's staff. He said on his return to Washington that the meeting was the second of a series to plan a "living" memorial to the senator.

Colgate Prexy Slates Feb. 1 For Retirement

HAMILTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Vincent M. Barnett Jr., will resign Feb. 1, 1969 as president of Colgate University, the school's board of trustees announced Tuesday.

Chairman of the Board Wellington Powell said that "Dr. Barnett has accepted a distinguished chair in political science at another institution."

A spokesman for Colgate said the announcement of where Barnett will be teaching will come later from the institution itself.

Powell said the board accepted the resignation "with deep regret."

Barnett, 54, is a native of Whittier, Calif., and earned his degrees from UCLA and Harvard.

"A committee of the trustees has been appointed to begin the search for President Barnett's successor and will be in consultation with committees of the faculty and alumni and other members of the Colgate community," Powell said.

A minute is long enough, lady. More than enough to steal your car when it's sitting there, unlocked, keys in the ignition. (76% of stolen cars were left unlocked—nearly half also had ignition keys.) The worst that may happen to you is to have to walk home carrying the groceries. But remember this, stolen cars have 200 times more accidents. Most cars are stolen by teen-agers less than 18. Your carelessness is their temptation. Your car might be the stolen car that doesn't stop at the school crossing.

CP Summer Fund Campaign Launch

A summer campaign for funds to support services for handicapped children in the Ulster-Greene County area will get underway immediately according to Edward deGroff, president of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County. The agency hopes to raise $9,000 in the drive which will take place in the townships outside the Community Chest area. Townships included are: Denning, Gardner, Hardenburgh, Lloyd, Marlboro, Olive, Plattekill, Rochester, Shandaken, Shawangunk, Wawarsing, and all of Greene County. This money completes the annual budget for the treatment center.

DeGroff named Paul Modjeska and William Klein, both of Kingston as co-chairmen for the drive. The chairmen said the success of the drive would depend greatly on attaining the volunteers to work in the fund raising. Anyone interested in offering their services may telephone the center at 400 Broadway, Kingston.

"By investing just a little time to help us gain the full support of the community, volunteers will make an important contribution toward helping UCP secure the funds needed to continue and expand services for the handicapped children. No investment could bring greater return," deGroff said.

United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County treats children for cerebral palsy, birth defects, speech and hearing defects and muscular disorders. The center offers a part-time nursery for pre-schoolers, physical therapy, speech and hearing therapy, brace and orthopedic fittings for adults as well as children, psychological testing and counseling. Children from Ulster and Greene Counties attend the center, some as many as 5 times a week for treatment, as it is the only qualified center in the area which provides these much needed services.

Send More Police To Lower East Side

NEW YORK (AP) — Police reinforcements were called to the Lower East Side Thursday for the fourth consecutive night after a residents' parade against use of Tactical Patrol Force units in their neighborhood dissolved into a bottle-throwing attack on police.

Some 250 members of the TPF, which is specially trained in riot and crowd control, cleared the streets adjoining Avenue C and 6th Street at 10 p.m.

After several hours of relative quiet, another bottle-throwing spree led plainclothes detectives to sweep along 6th Street telling people to get inside the tenements that fill the predominantly Puerto Rican area.

At one point, plainclothesmen entered a tenement with guns drawn and arrested six persons, including one woman. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Seven other arrests were made, including two for burglary at a local supermarket. No injuries were reported.

Earlier, two policemen were struck by thrown bottles in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn, hours after Mayor John V. Lindsay walked through the tense neighborhood, which had suffered three straight nights of unrest.

"It's very discouraging," Lindsay said. "We thought we had been able to bring them together — the whites, the Puerto Ricans, the blacks...I hope we can cool it."

Neither policemen were seriously injured and the Brooklyn neighborhood was quiet for the rest of the night.

The Lower East Side parade began with several hundred residents gathered at 4th Street near Avenue C to protest against TPF units.

A leaflet announcing the parade read: "We are not animals. We do not need the TPF force in this neighborhood. To show our human dignity, come to 4th Street at Avenues C and D at 6:30 p.m. tonight."

As the parade began to disband, many youths began to hurl bottles at pairs of TPF plainclothesmen along Avenue C. The

Tokyo Reds Won't Be Seduced by Soviet

Foreign News Commentary
By LEON DANIEL

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japan Communist Party (JCP) was beginning to look like a tired old woman before the recent upper house elections, but now the Japanese Reds are batting their eyelashes at the Kremlin—and vice versa.

The JCP, showing increasing signs that it is not unwilling to be "seduced" by the Soviets, announced it will send a delegation to Moscow later this month to discuss "normalization" of relations between the party and the Soviet Communists.

Relations Better

Actually, those relations have been improving for some time, particularly since February when Mikhail Suslov, secretary of the Soviet Central Committee, came to Tokyo for a series of closed-door conferences with JCP leaders.

The ideological dispute between Communist China and the Soviet Union played a key role in separating and later bringing together the Japanese and Russian Communist parties.

In 1963 the JCP was firmly being Peking in the Sino-Soviet war of polemics. The JCP broke off its relations with the Russians when the Soviets signed the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

But the JCP realized in 1967, after Mao Tse-tung launched his Cultural Revolution, it could not go along with Peking's hardline policy. Peking now lists the JCP as one of its major "enemies" behind "U.S. imperialism, Soviet modern revisionism and reactionary Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato."

During his visit, it is known that Suslov attempted to persuade the JCP to send representatives to the international conference of Communist parties in Budapest last February. The JCP turned him down.

But the Soviet and Japanese Communists found areas of agreement in the Tokyo meeting and those talks led to the forthcoming meeting in Moscow.

The most powerful political force in Japan is the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), which after the July 7

upper house elections appears to have a firm grip on the reins of power. Its major opposition is the Peking-oriented Japan Socialist Party (JSP), which dropped seven seats in the balloting for the 250-member House of Councillors.

Way down there among the minor parties is the JCP, which wins a few and loses a few but in the long haul seems to be gaining.

The JCP boosted its strength in the balloting for seats in the upper house from four to seven and in the January voting for seats in the 486-member lower house from four to five.

Jaycees Investigating School District Problems

A special meeting of the Woodstock Jaycees was held recently at Deane's Restaurant, Woodstock, to learn the facts concerning the present Ontario School Budget problem. Speakers were Dr. Harold Snyder, Ontario Central Schools; Mrs. Vivian Moscovitz, Ontario Citizens Committee; Walter Schuman, president, Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association; W. Jack Kahn, Ontario School Board; Richard Nixdorf, Ontario Teachers Association.

The purpose of the meeting was to determine what action, if any, could be taken by the local Jaycees in helping resolve the present status of the school budget.

Each guest was allowed to make statements in answer to questions posed by Jaycees Richard Vandervort, Jaycee governmental affairs director.

Dr. Snyder was asked to explain exactly the austerity or contingency budget and what it would mean to the Ontario School District. He explained that the state education law clearly states how it must operate under a contingency budget.

Mrs. Moscovitz was asked why the Ontario Citizens Committee was in fact circulating a petition for a vote on the defeated budget of June 13. She submitted budget out of fear of stated, "We as citizens, parents and taxpayers do not want our children to be under this type of school operation (with the curtailed activities). We want to tell the school board we are not satisfied with a contingency budget and we are petitioning now to resubmit the budget."

Two points were outstanding during the questioning. One that the taxpayer might pass a referendum on the budget and its restrictions. Two, that the tax of school operation with the about eight per cent of the total curtailed activities). We want to tell the school board we are not satisfied with a contingency budget and we are petitioning now to resubmit the budget."

The Rev. Mr. Todd served the church in Woodstock for 34 years coming into the ministry there after a term as missionary to China.

During the years of his residency in the village there was scarcely an item of village betterment in which he did not have a significant part. Despite Testimony

Fortas OK Predicted

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony during Senate committee hearings into President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments has hurt chances that Abe Fortas will be confirmed as chief justice, according to a leading supporter of the nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says opponents of the nomination picked up much ammunition during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings into the naming of Fortas, now an associate justice, to succeed retiring Earl Warren.

Hart said that Fortas' refusal to answer questions about his decisions, his acknowledged participation in White House conferences since becoming a member of the court, and testimony attacking his rulings in obscenity cases all provide grist for the opposition.

But he, nonetheless, said he stood by his earlier prediction that the committee would recommend Senate confirmation by a 10-6 margin at worst and possibly by a vote of 12-4.

What happens in the Senate, Hart said, will depend in part on whether Republican opponents decide that fighting his appointment will be "More of a plus than a minus for them politically."

The committee, called into closed session today, seems unlikely to finish its hearings in time for the full Senate to act before September on the nomination, which includes the appointment of federal Judge Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Chairman James O. Eastland,

D-Miss., said he never predicts what the committee may do, but told newsmen he could not conceive of the Fortas nomination being brought up in the Senate before September.

Congress is expected to recess at the end of next week until after Labor Day because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The committee concluded nine days of public hearings Tuesday on a sensational note when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displayed magazines with pictures of nude men and women in suggestive poses and said that distribution of such "hard-core pornography" has become much worse since Fortas has been a Supreme Court justice in 1965.

The final witness was Deputy Atty. Gen. Christopher Warren, who was called for questioning about a Justice Department memorandum reviewing Fortas' service on the Supreme Court and crediting him with "an unusual degree of judicial restraint."

Hart said he had requested the department to prepare the memorandum, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., called it an attempt at "propagandizing the committee."

Approve $153 Million More To Relieve Air Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $933.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

The traffic jams, which have mushroomed in recent weeks, are threatening to cause the cancellation of some flights, a cutback in FAA services and the possible closing of some facilities.

The controllers maintain that they are overworked, short-staffed and under-equipped to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsors said the extra money would provide for the hiring of 3,627 air-traffic controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,631 controllers.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an over-all $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 82 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the Senate bill.

Quick action in the House will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, a new union, to discuss the air tieups.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization

Negotiators Armed With Confidence Vote

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United with an overwhelming vote of thousands of the rank and their bargainers they would file, in meetings, by voice, and walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Although the negotiations are secret, no money is believed to be on the table for the big dollar items like wages, pensions, vacations and unemployment insurance.

"This will shake the money loose," said one union district director as he reported his men better than 90 per cent in favor of a strike.

Reports from 83 locals representing about 180,000 men showed that some 3,700, or just over 2 per cent, were opposed.

Figures from a dozen that took secret paper ballots showed 14 per cent opposed.

Each local was allowed to take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, yeas and nays, or standup vote.

Most meetings were attended by a third or less of the total membership but union rules allowed the vote to stand for the entire local.

Union leadership is under strong pressure to match the 6 per cent it won in the can and aluminum industries earlier this year, despite President Johnson's plea for wage restraint.

Steelworkers averaged $3.84 an hour in May, and the industry says fringe benefits added another $1.09. But the union has lost ground in recent years to other big industrial unions, especially the autoworkers, who also won a 6 per cent increase this year.

The steel industry says a 6 per cent increase each year over a three-year contract will wipe out two-thirds of its profits and put some companies out of business.

Seal City As Fumes Cover Area

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A great gray cloud hung over this chemical making center today as thousands cautiously returned to the homes they evacuated because of a deadly chlorine gas leak.

A series of small explosions Tuesday, ripped through the big FMC plant, rupturing a tank filled with the chlorine gas and sending a cloud of gas fumes over a 12-block area in the city of 20,000. Unofficial estimates of the number of evacuees ranged from 500 to 5,000.

Police sealed off the city from Charleston, the state capital across the Kanawha River. Residents sought higher ground to escape the fumes which produced smarting eyes, coughing and vomiting. Dozens were treated at Thomas Memorial Hospital, with some requiring oxygen tents, but none was considered serious.

Fire swept through a complex of buildings at the chemical plant, located on U.S. 60, which cuts through the heart of the city that calls itself "the chemical center of the world." Union Carbide and other chemical producers have installations here and employ thousands.

Capt. J. D. Baisden of the state police detachment in South Charleston said after midnight that "everything is under control now but the fire is still going strong and may burn for 24 hours."

FMC officials said the source of the chlorine leak had been located and sealed but warned that people should not return to their homes until the all clear sounded.

Atmospheric conditions in the Kanawha River Valley added to the problem. There was little or no wind to disperse the cloud and FMC officials said that the gas hovers close to the ground.

Missing Girl Found After 5-Hour Search

A nine-year-old Long Island girl missing on North Mountain near the North Lake Camp Site for nearly five hours Tuesday, was found on one of the mountain trails below Newman's Ledge by Conservation Department men at about 7:15 p. m., safe and uninjured.

The girl was identified as Grace Frasier of Rotterdam Street, Valley Stream, L. I., who with her parents had been staying at the Kaaterskill Camp, Haines Falls, Greene County.

The girl had been hiking with her family on a trail along North Mountain when she strayed away from the family. She had not been seen since 2:30 p. m. The girl was reported missing to Conservation Department authorities and State Police at Leeds about 4:45 p. m.

Victor Schrader, district forest ranger said the department used portable radios and men were sent along all the mountain trails in the area. A group of searchers finally came upon the little brown-haired youngster walking along the trail. Schrader said she did not appear to be disturbed about being lost and was unharmed.

Still Seek Signatures In Onteora

Signatures are still being solicited for a petition asking the Onteora School Board to do away with its present austerity program.

The petition, being circulated by a citizen's committee asks the Board of Education to consider submitting another budget for voter approval at the polls.

Mrs. Vivian Moscovitz, one of the citizen committee's organizers is among those procuring signatures.

Onteora voters, twice in recent months, turned down budgets proposed by the school board.

Before the last budget vote in June, the citizen's committee urged area residents to vote "yes".

Judge to Rule On Sickler's Insanity Plea

Dutchess County Judge Joseph Giudice will announce July 30 whether or not accused slayer Gary Sickler is sane enough to stand trial.

Tuesday morning, a hearing was held in the Dutchess County Courthouse before Judge Giudice who reserved decision. Sickler is a two-time escapee from Dutchess authorities.

Sickler, who escaped for the second time July 16 and was at large for 36 hours, was heavily guarded at his appearance Tuesday. He was also handcuffed to a deputy sheriff.

The only witness at the rescheduled hearing was Dr. Max Dahl, assistant director at the Hudson River State Hospital. Dr. Dahl, who was called by assistant district attorney, Albert Rosenblatt, stated that in his opinion Sickler could understand the charges against him and prepare his defense. There were no witnesses in Sickler's behalf.

Sickler, 27, is accused of the rape-murder of Kathleen Taylor, 20, of Wappingers Falls last November.

The wedge, wheel and axle, lever, inclined plane, screw and pulley are usually defined as the six "simple" machines or tools.

SEIZED — James Joseph Scully, 47, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was picked up Tuesday in a motel parking lot in Arcadia, Calif., about 20 miles east of Los Angeles. Scully was placed on the 10 most wanted list July 15 and is charged with robbing banks in Torrance and San Jose, Calif. He is also charged with violating terms of his parole from a Federal penitentiary, where he served five years of a 10-year term for bank robbery. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Mones Joins In Probe of The 10th Rats

Kingston Legislator Melvin Mones (R) has joined Tenth Ward Alderman Peter Fisher in investigating complaints about rats in the city's Tenth Ward.

Yesterday afternoon Fisher accompanied County Health Department officials on a tour of the Furnace Street-Franklin Street area of the ward.

It is expected that the report of the survey will be completed shortly, at which time recommendations for appropriate action will be taken.

"It might be noted at this time," Mones said, "that a resolution was passed at the February meeting of the County Legislature which enabled us to apply for 100 per cent state reimbursement for a rodent control program in Ulster County."

The actual amount we are to receive is $42,970. Due to certain state cutbacks in expenditures, we have yet to obtain the grant. Once these funds are available, health department officials will be able to institute the rodent extermination program throughout the county.

"The Forgotten Man" was the title of a public lecture delivered by William Sumner in 1883. The phrase was not originated by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Credit Cards And Bizarre Usage

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

All you need is a credit card. These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

Some bankers envision a nationwide system in which a single identification card would be used in place of all checks and almost all cash.

Credit cards as we know them today were pioneered in 1950 by Diners' Club, which was created with 200 members, an initial investment of $18,000 and a handful of restaurants in the New York City area. Within a year it had grown to 10,000 members who could charge at more than 1,000 establishments.

Credit cards now fall into three categories:

—Travel and entertainment. Operators in this field are American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche. These cards are held primarily by business and professional men.

Private label. Oil companies, airlines, hotels, car rental companies and department stores offer these cards primarily to promote their services or products.

—Revolving credit cards.

These cards, largely regional or local in nature, are issued mainly by banks and financial organizations and are meant primarily for use by housewives for shopping.

The credit card companies derive their revenue from discounts from establishments which accept the cards in lieu of cash and from membership fees.

Some credit card practices have come in for criticism recently, mainly because of the mailing of unsolicited cards by banks and some others in the revolving credit field.

Americans View English Homes, Fail to Visit Own

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—Americans have the strange habit of crossing the Atlantic to see England's stately homes while failing to bother much about their own.

So says Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, a man well qualified on the subject because he tops the British stately home stakes with 552,000 visitors a year to his mansion, motor museum and ruined abbey in southern England.

Lord Montagu just tops the Duke of Bedford, who has 500,000 visitors a year at Woburn Abbey.

"Down along the Mississippi, marvelous old plantation houses are falling to rack and ruin," said 41-year-old Lord Montagu. "It's strange that Americans rush over here and don't do as much as they should to preserve their own stately homes. The general public there doesn't seem as interested in their own paces as they are over here."

But he finds Americans make the more satisfying visitors because most of the English are simply interested in seeing how the other half lives.

Appreciative Americans

"The English are naturally inquisitive about other people's homes," said Lord Montagu. "American visitors are very much more serious and much more appreciative. I suppose because if they have paid to come all the way to Europe, they really want to. It is not just an afternoon out for them."

"They ask very intelligent questions on the whole and they are always amazed by the age of things. Of course, they have nothing that they can compare with and they can't visualize something standing for 700 years," as Beaulieu Abbey has. "Americans are always fascinated with ghosts and we do have some, mostly singing monks. Beaulieu is so accustomed to ghosts that we don't really think about them. We just accept them, so visitors are more surprised by them than we are."

Open to Public

Britain has more than 600 stately homes open to the public. A good many are lived in by families who have owned them for generations but would have to sell up now but for the money provided by the entrance fees.

This method of income has its drawbacks.

Lord Montagu, married with two children, said, "Once you have started to open your house to the public, it is no longer your home. You are sharing it with the public. That is the price you pay to keep the house in your family and in good condition."

"You sacrifice privacy for keeping your house. It is part of our heritage. Maybe the time will come when these houses cannot be kept, but it would be a sad day if they become state institutions. They lose a lot by not being lived in."

It is a far greater sacrifice for families to keep them than sell up and live in the Bahamas."

Some Privacy

"Well, you cut off part of the court. But I don't like ropes and garden or part of the house," notices.

said Lord Montagu. "Every house has its own problems, rule not to act in any special way just because the public are there. I wear what I like. Often I'm wearing jeans and it's quite funny because you often hear lives four miles away. We can't some very interesting things do that. We have split off a floor, kept part of the garden you should be wearing a coronet for the children and the tennis and robes."

Navajos Celebrate Their Centennial

By HOWARD GRAVES

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, are celebrating their centennial year of freedom.

Under the Treaty of 1863, signed with the U.S. government, the Navajos achieved sovereignty—the nation's only Indian tribe to hold such an agreement.

The June 1, 1868, signing by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers ended four years of captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, a specially built installation in what is now east central New Mexico.

An estimated 1,500 Navajos died during the exile. Historians say 7,304 made the famed "Long Walk" back to their reservation—in what is now eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

In late June, 165 Navajo men, women and children—all in traditional dress—participated in a reenactment of the peace treaty signing at the now abandoned fort site. Then, riding most of the way in four air-conditioned buses, the Navajos made the "Long Walk" back to Window Rock, their reservation capital.

$10 A Day

Each of them received $10 per day for the six days they were away from the 25,000-square-mile reservation which also extends into a part of Utah.

Those selected for the pageant represented a broad cross section of the reservation population of an estimated 110,000.

Martin Link, Navajo Centennial Commemoration Committee chairman, said the ceremonies meant a great deal to the Navajos, especially the older ones, many of whom don't speak or understand English.

"The big thing nowadays," Link said, "are protest marches. The Navajos marched not to Washington, but to their symbolic home, Navajoland."

He added, "We're too busy constructing and don't have time to destruct. The best way to improve life is to build, not to burn."

In issuing the Centennial proclamation, Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai said, "Our Navajo people have for more than a century struggled for the right to live according to our ways. It is appropriate that we, at this the 100th year since the Long Walk, pause to mark our lives, being thankful for the blessings of our heritage, our land and our progress."

Freedom Rings

When the Navajo marchers returned to Window Rock in a dramatic ceremony July 4, Nakai, the ninth elected tribal chairman, said, "Today, freedom rings for us, the Navajo people, even louder, even more distinctly than for the rest of America."

"Today, we stand on the threshold of achievement. We cannot stop now. We dare not. Success will be ours. We have only to live up to the legacy of courage and perseverance left to us by our ancestors."

Sign Language Used At Engineer Post

By DON REEDER

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The coffee breaks are unusually quiet affairs in one of the local offices of the Army Corps of Engineers.

That's because many of the 17 employees are clustered in a corner talking in sign language.

Johnny M. Miller is a deaf mute and has to talk with his hands, but the others are learning so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened," said Gerald Sarraatt, unit supervisor.

"Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

Miller, a husky 25-year-old graduate of the Missouri School for the Deaf at Fulton, came to the engineering office this spring. He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribing.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

"I got tired of writing notes, and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language—besides Miller—but she claims she's still clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employees are progressing to hand symbols which translate into words or phrases.

By now most of the office force can ask Miller simple questions and give brief replies to his queries. Carl Moore and Willie Godfrey at nearby desks even try an occasional joke in sign language.

It's unbelievable that the whole unit is making such an effort," Miller wrote in reply to a question. "Usually you'll find maybe one or two interested—but not everyone."

Local Drive For College

An area drive for a $30 million ten-year development program, at Hiram Scott College, Scottsbluff, Neb., is being headed by Ray W. Davis of Kingston, president of the Greater Albany Parents Club. Two Kingston boys, William Kilquist of 86 Pine Grove Avenue and Michael Davis of 49 Holiday Lane, have just completed their freshman year at the newly established liberal arts college in Nebraska.

Davis noted "it is a rare adventure for both parents and students to help pioneer the development of a new college."

Directory One Of Many MHS For the County

Located at 27 East O'Reilly Street, the Ulster County Association for Mental Health serves the whole of Ulster County with its information and referral service.

One of the many information services provided is their Directory of Mental Health Services for Ulster County.

Originally compiled in 1963, the directory was revised and enlarged early this year. It is of immense help to physicians, public health nurses, social workers, teachers, the clergy and attorneys who may need details of the many kinds of special treatment services available in the realm of mental illness and retardation.

With 28 pages, it is a concise and invaluable reference book, especially published for use in Ulster County. It is available free of charge to professional persons, and may be obtained upon request from the office of the Association.

Another activity of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health is promotion and co-operation with local treatment facilities. One of these is the Middletown Halfway House at 99 Clinton Avenue.

The Association also provides services such as the regular monthly bus to Middletown State Hospital from the Kingston-New Paltz area.

In addition, it sponsors educational programs for professional groups, clubs and organizations and schools. Films and special materials are available upon request.

State Awards Pact For County Road Job

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today the award of a contract for $1,224,818 to the Ritanga Construction Corp. of Spring Valley for improvements to 10.35 miles of combined Routes 44 and 55 in the Towns of Gardiner, Rochester and Wawarsing, Ulster County.

The firm submitted the lowest of three bids to the State Department of Transportation. The project will be financed with funds from the Transportation Bond Issue approved by the voters last fall.

The roadway will be resurfaced with asphalt from Route 299 westerly to Route 209. Shoulders will be stabilized, drainage facilities improved, and new box-beam guide railing installed. The bridges over Rondout Creek, Stony Kill and Coxing Kill will be rehabilitated.

Scheduled for completion by November 19, 1969 all work will be under the supervision of M. Nicholas Sinacori, engineer in charge of the Department of Transportation District Office at Poughkeepsie.

Public Hearing on College Budget Is Scheduled for Thursday Night

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
A public hearing on Ulster County Community College's $1,673,543 preliminary budget for next year will be held Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the county office building.

Less estimated revenues of $1,194,321 and appropriated surplus of $23,000, leaves $456,222 to be raised by taxation. In addition 50 per cent of an equipment appropriation of $65,000 brings the total to be raised by the county to $488,722.

This is an increase of $124,692 over last year's figure of $331,530. The budget report notes that the $124,692 increase represents 26 per cent of the total increase in the budget while the anticipated increase in full-time enrollment for the fall semester is 36 per cent.

Estimated revenues will total $1,194,321 which includes the surplus, student revenue of $541,970 and the same amount from state aid. Both figures indicate an increase over last year of 39.7 per cent. This compares with the 39.4 per cent increase in the total budget.

Of the total budget $1,187,643 is appropriated for personal services compared with last year's modified budget request of $889,195. The increase is $298,448 or 33.6 per cent. The increase in personal services also reflects an increase of employees benefits. The budget request is for $174,900 as compared with $122,000 in the modified budget request last year.

The increase is $52,900 or 43.4 per cent.
Under administration a total of $191,711 is listed compared with $159,679 in last year's modified figure. The increase is $32,032 or 20.1 per cent.

More for Library
The operation of the library will cost 39.6 per cent more for the coming year with a total appropriation of $89,528 over last year's figure of $64,125. The increase is $25,403.

Total maintenance shows an increase of 32.5 per cent of $17,487 over last year's cost of $33,781.
The budget received administrative approval of the State University of New York early in June. The anticipated enrollment of full-time students in the fall is 1,106 and 851 part-time students. This subsequent increase requires a full-time equivalent faculty increase of from 34.3 to 68.8 members.

Increase in the budget also reflected by the addition of new programs as well as by expanding and improving existing educational programs. During the academic year of 1968-69 funds will be required to initiate a two-year degree program in nursing.

The college will be preparing two new curricula for the fall including computer science technology and law enforcement.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The time needed to trace fingerprints of an arrested person has been reduced to 25 seconds in New York State, the result of a high-speed computer that was put into operation Tuesday.
This, coupled with the Facsimile Transmission Network that enables the New York State Identification and Intelligence System to receive sets of fingerprints from any place in the state in 14 minutes, makes it possible for law enforcement agencies to receive positive identification and the prior record of an arrested person within a half hour.

This outstanding breakthrough in fingerprint searching places New York State in the position of having the first real-time computerized fingerprint search system in the world today," said Dr. Robert R. J. Gallati, NYSIS director.

"Beginning today, we can search arrest fingerprints against our file of 1.6 million criminal prints in a matter of seconds, and respond to the inquiring agency within a matter of minutes," Gallati said.

Before installation of the computer, searches were made mechanically and often took as long as an hour.

NYSIS, an independent bureau serving the information retrieval and research needs of 3,600 agencies of criminal justice in the state on a round-the-clock basis, was established in 1966. Its budget in the current fiscal year is $5.8 million.

"The inauguration of this service today is a significant part of the overall application of science and technology to criminal justice pioneered by NYSIS," Gallati said.

"Such high-speed response time is vital to the protection of civil liberties and is indeed imperative due to the rapid arraignment requirements enunciated by the United States Supreme Court," he added.

Visitors to Observe 'New Look' At 123rd Dutchess County Fair

By LYNN MULVANEY

A new look awaits visitors to the Dutchess County Fair, Aug. 20-25 for in addition to the good, old, time-honored events which have worn so well during the fair's 123-year history, new buildings, new happenings and of course a new beauty queen will be forthcoming.

Two large metal exhibition halls will be dedicated opening day with Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets Don J. Wickham as speaker. The two large 60 by 20-foot buildings replace two narrow wood exhibition sections which have long proven unable to handle increasing crowds.

Of the fair itself, there will be something for everyone, no matter what the age or taste of the fairgoer.

Children's Days

For the children there will be two special days, Tuesday, Aug. 20 and Thursday, Aug. 22 when youngsters under the age of 12 will be admitted free.

For young and old alike there will be free grandstand shows each afternoon and evening at 2 and 8 p.m. and for those interested in animals there will be the always popular livestock, sheep and poultry division contests.

For the women, the home and horticulture competition offer cosmos, carnations, crocheting and cherry pies—plus the challenge of the contests.

For the farm-interested there will be the fruit and vegetable divisions, field crops and the Grange exhibits.

Arts and crafts too, take their place with competition in paintings, handwork, antiques and culinary concoctions.

On a day-to-day basis the following special features are planned:

TUESDAY, Family Day, harness racing, search for talent, Hall of Health, stage show, fireworks, Herriek Marionette Show, exhibition dancing, dancing water and a special feature for children, "Pennies in the Haystack."

cial feature for children, "Pennies in the Haystack," exhibition dancing and dancing, dancing waters.

Daily Shows

In addition there will be daily helicopter rides, a Chevy Cinesphere Show and daily shows with Josef Smiley as master of ceremonies.

Featured will be the Five Coronas, Europe's newest and greatest high wire family.

Also Carol and Bill Foster who will present "The Roaring 20's Revue." Shapely, vivacious Carol and her handsome partner, Bill, feature variety from acrobatics to musical instruments. The couple has toured with Bop Hope and appeared with many celebrities of the entertainment world.

Josef Smiley and Company will present "Around the World on a Magic Carpet." The entertaining magical effects and illusions are present in a mystifying and unusual demonstration in the art of fast-moving magic.

Then too, what would the fair be without the thrill and excitement of the harness races, a traditional opening day feature at the fairgrounds.

A farm machinery exhibit, 4-H and wildlife exhibits, an all-new electric home and a picnic area are additional features.

GOPers Are Named In Eugene Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two John P. Lomenzo and State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz — the latter two on the ground that the current election laws are unconstitutional.

The suit against the state Democratic committee Tuesday charged there was a failure to provide the McCarthy presidential candidacy with a fair share of at-large national convention votes.

The action, filed by the Committee for Fair Play for Voters, noted that while McCarthy won more than half the 123 delegates elected in the June primary, the state committee awarded him less than a fourth of 65 at-large delegate votes.

According to the suit, the state committee should be blocked from choosing at-large delegates. Instead, the group suggested, the 123 elected conventioners should select the other 65.

Named in the suit were State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns, New York Sec. of State

The Venezuela and Guyana Strife Has Reached New Crisis Stage

By ALAN JENKS
CARACAS (UPI)—A border dispute between Venezuela and Guyana, dating back to the nineteenth century, has reached a new crisis stage at a time when both countries are in the midst of political campaigns.

Diplomatic observers here believe that unless cool heads prevail the land dispute, over two thirds of Guyana's territory, could aid Marxist Cheddi Jagan in his campaign to oust the pro-western Guyanese government of Prime Minister Forbes Burnham.

Second Cuba
It is feared that Jagan, and his American-born wife, Janet, would create "a second Cuba in Latin America" if they were to gain power.

The "Guayana Esequibo" dispute goes back to an arbitration award made in 1899, but Venezuela's fight to get the 50,000 square miles of territory really began in the 1960's as the colony of British Guiana, headed towards independence.

The area in question involves all the land west of Georgetown and the Esequibo River to the present eastern border of Venezuela.

Attempts to peacefully settle the conflicting claims over the sparsely inhabited land have gone from bad to worse in the last 30 days.

First, the latest meetings of the mixed border commission, set up in 1966 to arbitrate the dispute, ended in failure. Apparently, the only thing the two countries could agree on was the abolition of a special subcommission set up to work out joint economic development projects between Venezuela and Guyana.

Second, just after the Guyana delegation returned to Georgetown, Venezuela unilaterally declared the waters from three to twelve miles off "Guayana Esequibo" as Venezuelan territory.

Claims Differ
Venezuela claims territorial waters of 12 miles and Guyana, three. The Venezuelan decree made clear that Venezuela was not presently claiming sovereignty over the three miles directly offshore. However, it was stated that Guyana's control of this seacoast depended on who actually controlled the disputed land area.

Prime Minister Burnham has called Venezuela's unilateral action "international piracy" and may take his country's case to the United Nations.

At Guyana's independence in May of 1966, Burnham, a Negro, became the country's first leader. But he was only able to defeat Jagan, backed by Guyana's Indian population with the aid of the Portuguese community, loyal to the conservative party of Stanislaus d'Aguiar.

New parliamentary elections must be held in less than a year. Burnham could lose his slim margin in the 53-man legislature if Jagan can score political points on the prime minister's handling of the territorial dispute.

Ulster GOP Event on Aug. 18

The seventh annual picnic of the Town of Ulster Republican Club will be held Sunday, Aug. 18 at St. Liberata's Field in East Kingston from 1 to 4 p.m.

Joseph Lohmaier, general chairman of the event announced the appointment of the following committees to assist him: refreshments, Anthony Cicoria and Stephen Maldi assisted by Salvatore Castiglione, Jack Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Atkins, Howard Hueston, Richard Nace, Mrs. Huyler Van Wagenen, Ollie Erwin, Frank Oneto, Ted Olsen and Harold Felton; Edward Callahan and Lester Elmendorf; tickets, William Costello and Mrs. Albert Wilmoth; decorations, David Bruce assisted by Mrs. Richard Nace, Marge Burger, Mrs. Alma Brayton and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayner; grounds, Edgar P. Elliott; special events, Thaddeus Musialkiewicz; traffic, James Costello, Charles McCullough or the ticket committee.

The annual picnic is one of the events sponsored by the Town of Ulster Republicans and its attendance has reached several hundred. Lohmaier advised his committees to be prepared again this year for a large attendance. Tickets may be procured from any club member or the ticket committee.

Master Mediator in Italy

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP) — Whenever things run amok in the tangled jungle of Italian politics, the president calls in Mr. Fixit, likeable Giovanni Leone.

Twice in the past five years, fast-talking Leone has accepted the premiership when all others have failed. Twice he has steered the country out of political chaos.

Yet the affable Neapolitan with the large nose plays a poignant role in Italian politics. In days of normalcy, he retires to security. He is called in for help only when all appears lost.

"Don't worry. I won't stay long," 59-year-old Leone told a party meeting last week after winning a confidence vote in the Chamber of Deputies by a margin of five votes. "I am here to keep things in order."

Before the alliance was formed five years ago Leone acted as midwife for six months, holding the premiership

until the political maneuvering was over and the center-left was born.

This summer, after the Socialists suffered an election setback and bolted the coalition, he was back at his old caretaker post, with his graying hair, black rimmed spectacles and white bristle mustache. When the Socialists meet at their October congress and presumably decide to rejoin, with a more radical platform, Leone is expected to step down without any fuss.

He will return to his lifetime Senate seat, awarded last year by President Giuseppe Saragat for peritorious services to the nation.

Leone has always shunned the party game of patronage, influence and intrigue which characterizes Italian politics. In his own Christian Democrat party, he stands at the center and has few connections.

But his reputation for utter integrity and ability to think and express himself clearly has made him the master mediator of Parliament.

His motto is "seccati, ma fallo" (do it despite the boredom), and with his cajoling smile and long conferences, he has convinced the Socialists at least to abstain in Parliament in confidence votes in order to secure some summertime stability.

Our Air Losses Dip In Viet

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. aircraft losses over North Vietnam have dropped dramatically since President Johnson limited bombing raids to the country's narrow Southern Panhandle.

An Associated Press check of daily military communiques shows 30 U.S. planes listed as shot down over North Vietnam since the President's bombing restrictions went into effect March 31.

By contrast, the United States lost 133 planes during the same time period last year when raids were conducted against most of North Vietnam.

The sharp cut in losses is even more dramatic when it is noted that missions against the North have increased substantially since last year.

U.S. pilots are now flying at the rate of 130 missions per day over the North, compared with 103 per day in 1967 and 65 in 1966.

The following breakdown shows monthly mission totals for 1968 since the bombing curb in parenthesis:

April 3,412 (2,925), May 3,593 (3,237), June 3,792 (3,607) and July (first three weeks) 2,723 (3,819).

In addition to the savings in manpower, the lower incidence in lost planes has resulted in a financial benefit.

Assuming the United States would have lost 100 more planes had countrywide raids continued as in 1967, the savings in aircraft alone amounts to at least $200 million.

Already Pentagon officials are scaling down fighter production from an originally planned 100 planes per month to 72 in accordance with the reduced losses.

Top defense officials maintain the bombing program is now more effective than it was even though enemy infiltration into South Vietnam has increased.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford told newsmen July 11 that concentration of the attacks on enemy supply lines below North Vietnam's 20th parallel probably has "produced more dividends and rewards than if the bombing were spread over a larger area."

Clifford said the enemy is expected to infiltrate 20,000 men southward in each of the summer months but "they will pay an increasingly higher cost for that as they go through the panhandle south of the 20th parallel."

Expensive Birds

NEW DELHI (AP) — The repair and maintenance of Parliament costs the taxpayers here rupees 264,000—$35,200—a year.

Part of it is cleaning the massive round structure, 560 feet in diameter, of droppings from pigeons, a sacred bird which Hindus will not kill.

The Imperial Valley of southeastern California has an annual rainfall of less than 3 1/2 inches, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Plans for a three-day ice carnival to be held in High Falls this winter will be revealed to the High Falls Civic Association at its meeting tonight.

The carnival will be part of the village's year-long 300th anniversary celebration, and will include everything from Athenian runners and skating instruction to a hockey tournament, according to Venice Karageorge, carnival chairman. Also to be discussed at the meeting are final plans for the forthcoming Aug. 23 and 24 antique show, to be held in the High Falls fire hall.

Anyone interested in skating or other community activities is urged to attend the meeting, which will be held at 8 p.m. in the old schoolhouse on School House Hill in High Falls.

Tribe Starving to Death, Victim of Nigerian War

By DAVID MAZZARELLA, Associated Press Writer
CAMP IKOT, Biafra — More than 600 members of the Ibibio tribe, caught in the middle of the Nigerian civil war, huddle in this front line refugee camp with nearly empty stomachs. Children suffering from malnutrition clutch frantically at their mothers' wizened breasts, panting on the ground, complaining in a croaking voice that she can no longer stand on her reed-thin legs.

"I can feed them for two more weeks," says the camp warden, the Rev. Lawrence Ntia, an Ibibio who became a Roman Catholic priest.

"We got 48 cans of tinned fish three days ago from Caritas (the Catholic relief organization) and today a man from the Red Cross came with six bags of milk and five bags each of egg powder and salt."

Father Ntia said this means the refugees, at least for a few days, will get a little more than their occasional cup of mashed cassava root.

Most of the refugees came to the camp from the no man's land around Ikot Ekpene, a town which has been fiercely contested by the armies of the Nigerian Federation and break-away Biafra.

The province is inhabited mainly by Ibibios, a minority tribe overshadowed by the main antagonists in the civil war—the Ibos of Biafra and the Hausas and Yorubas of the federation.

Many of the Ibibios fled into the steaming forest when the fighting got heavy and have not come out.

"They are starving," said Father Ntia. "Soldiers and civil defense workers go into the bush to try to get them out, but many of them ran farther away, afraid the soldiers will shoot them."

Nevertheless there has been a steady flow of refugees to the camp, which is now overcrowded. And Ikot Ikot is only one of many refugee camps in the area.

Full House at Tri Mount

The third week of the 1968 summer camping season at Camp Tri-Mount, BSA, saw another capacity crowd of some 180 Scouts and their leaders. Owned and operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Tri-Mount is a 525-acre tract of woodland located in East Jewett.

Troops camping in the six centrally located campsites were: North Bergen County Council's Troop 89 from Wyckoff, N. J., under the leadership of George McGuire, Floyd Groble, and assistant John Ungert; Troop 309 from Huntington, L. I., with John Shannon and Howard Armheim as their leaders; Kingston's Troops 3 and 10, and Troop 103 from Hurley under the leadership of

Raymond Simonetti and Richard Rioux; Troop 11, also from Kingston, with leaders Richard Raible, Frank Rockwell, and Robert Winne; Troop 17 of Tills with Frank Muller as their leader; Saugerties Troop 39 with Provisional Scoutmaster John Adsit; Troop 44 of Catskill with several leaders changing off during the week; and a number of boys staying as provisional campers from various other troops.

The Scouts also had the chance to put into use the many skills taught them during the past week in the weekly "Aqua Maneuvers" contest. The winner for this week was the "Seneca" campsite made up of Troop 89 from Wyckoff, N. J. In addition to being offered opportunities for advancement, the Scouts and their leaders had the chance to meet Finn Christensen, a Scout leader from the country of Denmark, and Camp Tri-Mount's foreign Scouter this year. Friday night, Finn presented a program of slides of his country.

Everything that was accomplished by each troop was announced and recognized during the Troop and Area Report segment of the Saturday night closing campfire.

The winners of this week's Honor Patrol award, which was the Moonshiners patrol of Troop 10 of Kingston was announced, and the Scouts presented with neckerchief slides at the final flag lowering ceremony Sunday, July 21. It marked the official end of the third week, and the beginning of the fourth.

Week at Scout Camp Brings Badge Bonanza

An outstanding advancement record was made recently by Boy Scout Troop 20, sponsored by the Hurley Lion's Club, while encamped for a week at the Rip Van Winkle Council's Camp Tri-Mount. The troop totaled up a score of 42 earned merit badges, 14 rank advancement awards, and 22 other miscellaneous awards. Leadership during the camp week was given to the boys by Scoutmaster Robert G. Lawton, and Assistant Scout-masters Charles Bouton and Robert A. Kurland. Work for Second Class Rank was completed by Mark Christian, Russell Voigtlander, James Ollive, Russell Burgess, William Clark, and Mark Sullivan. Completing all requirements for First Class Rank were Anthony Maneen, David Mullany, Mark Ollive, Bruce Webster, and David Sullivan. Garrett Dixon and Charles Bouton completed the Star Scout requirements and Glenn Littlefield the requirements for Life Scout.

Two different National Rifle Association awards were also won by Troop members. The Troop 20 will continue to meet during the summer months on Tuesday evenings at the Hurley Firehouse or at the Troop's own campsite off of Route 209.

Local Scouter Earns Honors At Boyhaven

Word was received today that David W. Eighmey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey of 94 Highland Avenue, Kingston, at one time Eighmey served as assistant director of Camp Tri-Mount, local Boy Scout District Scout Executive held annually by the Boy Scouts of America. This rating is the highest possible rating given by the Boy Scouts. Camp Boyhaven is in charge of District Scout Executive Miss Kathleen Jarvis of Huntington, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of bon-bon pink fashioned with an empire waist and softly shirred skirt. The cowl neckline and short sleeves featured appliques of silk flowers braids and she wore a matching crown of flowers in her hair.

Attendants were Mrs. Joseph Hronich of Amsterdam, and Mrs. David G. Becker of Schenectady. Their gowns and headpieces were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried cascade bouquets of miniature Multicolor carnations with ivy.

Joseph J. Hronich of Amsterdam, was best man. Ushers were Michael Yoger of Amsterdam, and Gary Michaelson, brother of the bride, Saugerties.

Tiny Tips

If you're about to bake a cake and the recipe calls for sour milk or buttermilk and you only have sweet milk in the house, you can still make do. Turn the sweet milk into sour by putting one tablespoon of lemon juice or white vinegar in the bottom of your measuring cup. Add sweet milk to the one-cup level and let it sit about 10 minutes so that it thickens a bit.

To get a smooth pour out of a new ketchup bottle, push a drinking straw through the ketchup to the bottom of the jar. Let it stay a moment, then remove the straw.

Do-it-yourself painters would be wise to cover door knobs, light fixtures and other immovable objects with a plastic wrap or plastic bags. This will save a messy and time-consuming job later on.

To remove stains from an aluminum pan, save squeezed out lemon halves and put them on to boil with enough water to cover. The tarnish will vanish.

Humphrey Women's Advisory Council Members Named

More than 60 distinguished women in the professions, the arts, and other fields were named this week as members of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's Women's Advisory Committee.

Their appointments were announced by Margaret Truman Daniel, national co-chairman of Women for Humphrey, in a news conference at the headquarters of New York Citizens for Humphrey, 7 East 52nd Street, New York.

Mrs. Geri Joseph, vice chairman of United Democrats for Humphrey, Women's Division, joined in the announcement.

Additional members of the advisory committee will be announced within the next couple of weeks, until a total of 100 is reached.

The first meeting of the Women's Advisory Committee is scheduled for Aug. 1 in Washington, D. C., and the Vice President is expected to attend.

Mrs. Joseph described the formation of the committee as "something new, vigorous and significant in political campaigning."

"For the first time, a candidate will be giving women—a voice in the decisions and debates which make up the core of presidential campaigning," Mrs. Joseph said.

The women listed as members of the committee all have won recognition on their own, many of them as leaders in their fields.

They will assist the Vice President's campaign by preparing position papers in their areas of expertise, concentrating on issues in which women have special concern: the role of the family; education; the future of women in professions and careers—to mention just a few.

It is anticipated that many of those named also will be leading and sponsoring discussions of the campaign issues with women around the country, so that ideas and suggestions of women at the grass roots will become known to the candidate and his advisors.

Announcement of the committee reflected the Vice President's desire that women play a key role in his campaign—not only as headquarters volunteers, doorbell ringers and telephone—but as prime intellectual resources.

Some of those announced here at a press conference at the Citizens for Humphrey Headquarters are:

Sadie T. M. Alexander, past chairman of Philadelphia Commission on Human Rights, Philadelphia, Pa.

Marcella S. Beatty, executive director, executive board, AFL-CIO National Auxiliaries, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Clarence Mitchell Jr., attorney and chairman, Maryland NAACP Legal Redress, Baltimore, Md.

Esther Murray, director, eastern area WAD—COPE—AFL-CIO, Washington, D. C.

Olga Moreno, field supervisor, Mexican-American Opportunity Foundation, Alhambra, Cal.

Mrs. Bonaro W. Overstreet, educator and author, Falls Church, Va.

Jane Morgan, New York, N.Y.

There was also a box of brass ammunition cases, expertly fashioned. One might wish for a day when these were as outmoded as the buttons. There was a large strap of melodious sleighbells, heigh-ho and a white Christmas. There was a wooden washbasin on legs, ancient tin strainers (old tin articles bring good prices these days), bone-handled knives made of the best Sheffield steel, none of your stainless steel blades that cannot be sharpened. I bought two of the old ones at a sale for a nickel apiece and they still take a razor sharp edge.

There was a pair of wooden shoes and in the same box a galosh for the right foot and a sneaker for the left. This indicates not so much a one-legged man as a forgetful one. There were many number of alarm clocks without their glass. Maybe the alarm went off too early and the frate owner, rudely awakened from his nap, hurled the offending clock at the wall. Maybe this happened again and again. There were electric irons that did not heat up, electric blankets that, according to the note attached, did not work on "high," vacuum cleaners that must have hit the half century mark some time ago; lots of rusty pots and pans and chipped plates.

Anything can be found in a box rummage. But it is not all bad. One box disclosed a handsome silver tea kettle from Tiffany's, complete with stand. It polished up beautifully and a buyer was found who was willing to pay the considerable asking price. Probably the woman who put in long hours unpacking, arranging, pricing, and often washing up the rummage did it partly for the surprises the cartons may contain.

This year one unpacker found a doll in a basket complete with clothes, blankets, ribbons, and laces. "I took it home to wash the clothes and the covers," she said. "I was going to buy it for my granddaughter. And then I decided it was too good for us. We ought to sell it for a big price."

There must be easier ways of making money, but the schools that benefit, the scholars who receive help with college fees, the church which always needs something or other, all these are grateful for the buttons and the sleighbells, the faceless clocks and the worn kitchen ware, everything that make up the rummage sale.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

What do people send to rummage sales? A day of unpacking cartons brought to light, among other articles, a large box of buttons—white pearl buttons from shirts, white bone buttons from underwear, blue metal buttons from work shirts, buttons covered with red silk, blue and gold enameled buttons, wooden and leather buttons, and many more. A whole family history lies in this box of buttons, probably going back a generation. Nobody saves buttons any more; hardly anybody used them, except for shirts. The world is held together by zippers. But it was pleasant to run fingers through those buttons and imagine that old world when they were as necessary as a buttonhook.

Comes Out of Hiding; Not Frightened Now

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Ukrainian-born Nina Paranyuk has come out of hiding after 11 years and 6 months. "I'm not frightened anymore," says 46-year-old Nina, now Mrs. Wasyk Kuzyk, of the outer suburb of Fawkner. During the 1956 Olympic Games, Nina, a stewardess, defected from the Soviet liner, the Gruzia, which had brought the Soviet Olympic team to Melbourne. She vanished at Melbourne's Zoological Gardens where she had gone with other members of the Gruzia crew on a sight-seeing tour on Nov. 18, 1956. Soviet agents, Melbourne Special Branch Police, Commonwealth Police and Immigration Department investigators searched for her in vain. Her disappearance became one of the human interest stories of the Melbourne Olympics. Although she knew no one in Melbourne and spoke only Ukrainian, she dodged police for two months, hiding in the homes of members of a Ukrainian society. Almost daily, she changed houses. The Gruzia sailed and four weeks later Victoria State Police found Nina in a house in suburban Brunswick. Australia granted her political asylum. When the word went around that the attractive Nina—then 34—was interested in marrying and settling in Australia, Wasyk Kuzyk, two years her senior, won her hand. The couple disappeared again. Nina was still afraid of Soviet agents today. Nina is no longer afraid. "I've been hiding all these years," she said. "But now I no longer care about Soviet agents. They can't touch me. I'm in a free country." Nina's husband is also Ukrainian-born, having migrated here in 1949. He became naturalized 10 years later. The pride of Nina's life is her 10-year-old son Wally, who is at a suburban school. He began teaching his mother to speak English last year.

It was his tutoring that helped her pass the English language test for naturalization, and she became an Australian citizen last Nov. 27.

Nina still expresses her hatred for the Stalin regime of the Soviet Union. She recalls that her one wish was always to seize the chance to defect.

"I still have relatives somewhere in the Ukraine—my 83-year-old mother, a married sister and a brother," she said. "I've not seen them since 1954. I hope they're all right. But I do know they have not gotten into trouble because of what I have done."

Government Studies Status of Women

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new look at the role and the rights of the American female in every area from alimony and abortion to equal job rights with men comes from a new government-sponsored study on status of women.

It no longer looks on woman as the weaker sex but as one who can carry her own physical load alongside the male. And it calls for a widening of the rights in the whole area of family life.

Divergent Fields

The study was made by the Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women, appointed by the President more than a year ago. Chairman was former Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger, D-Ore., and the others on the "task force"—men and women—came from such divergent fields as the sciences, business, education, finance, law, life insurance, labor and religion.

Criteria for alimony for instance, were suggested that would "recognize the contributions of each spouse to the family and the need of each spouse . . . alimony should not be used to redress wrongs, such as voluntary separation, should be included in grounds for divorce."

The council took a strong stand for changes in current abortion laws. It put its recommendations this way: "Convinced that the right of a woman to determine her own productive life is a basic human right, the task force recommends that laws penalizing abortion be repealed" and urges state commissions on the status of women assume responsibility for educating the public on this issue.

Recommend Equality

In the world of the working woman, the council recommended that employers, employees and unions "work to insure that the provisions of the equal pay act are honored and to eliminate the evasive practices to justify higher wage rates for men." States, it added, should adopt equal pay laws where they do not now exist.

The council's task force on health and welfare called for reinforcing community institutions and services to meet the needs of women, particularly in low income families. It called for more day care facilities, expanded homemaker services, and better consumer education on the problem of family care when the mother works outside the home.

Beauty Hides Under A Bushel of Soot

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Nearly every urban woman lives under one bushel of soot, ashes and dust.

This year what amounts to a giant airborne bushel basket will overturn more than 34 tons of aerial contaminants on each square mile of the average American city. And a substantial portion of this will fall in your eyes.

Take a long look at your polluted beauty image. How long does a pair of white gloves stay clean? Has pollution you can't see but can feel caused your eyes to water, mascara to run and fake eyelashes to become unglued?

Start your own antipollution campaign in the boudoir. Skin, eyes and hair were not built to handle these excess impurities so they need special care.

Your skin catches airborne dirt and skin moisturizers or natural oils hold the dirt on the surface. Touching and rubbing your skin during the day embeds dirt more deeply into the pores.

Cleanse your skin thoroughly and frequently to prevent a build-up of blackheads. Cleansing creams are good. But soap helps when your face is really dirty. Use a very mild soap unless your skin is excessively oily.

A facial mask two or three times a week loosens dirt clogged in pores and removes embedded dirt. Extra cleansing is drying, so add plenty of nourishing skin emollients at night.

Daily foundation make-up serves as a protective film against dirt in the air. But set your make-up job gently with a wet sponge. This holds it longer. Wash your powder puff daily since it touches your skin.

Eyes suffer from soot and polluted fumes and so does your artful job of eye make-up. Sunglasses afford some protection and they also cut down squinting which can cause wrinkles.

But smog and harsh fumes irritate eyes behind the glasses. Keep a plastic squeeze bottle of eye lotion handy to soothe stinging eyes and flush out irritants.

Natural hair oils attract and hold dirt, so polluted air covers

EYE MAKE-UP CAN BE WASHED AWAY in a flash-flood of tears produced by an errant particle of soot, an ever-present beauty problem in our polluted cities. This model protects her eye make-up by wearing sunglasses. For emergencies she includes a handy yellow plastic squeeze bottle of eye lotion in her purse.

hair more quickly with a dull layer of film. Wash your hair often to keep it clean and shiny and to prevent growth of scalp and skin bacteria.

GI's Views On the Gun Curbs

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — An informal survey among American combat troops whose lives depend on their weapons shows a strong sentiment for moderate to strong gun control laws in the United States.

But at the same time, most of the GI's interviewed on Saigon's outer defense perimeter said they thought short of confiscation controls would do little to cut down on gun deaths.

Spec. 5 Jerry Ballard of Kansas City, Mo., said, "I'm a member of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and I'm against confiscation. But I think mandatory registration of weapons is okay. A gun is as far as that from a car as far as that goes. And stopping mail order sales is a good idea."

Lt. Alfred Pick of Dallas, Tex., said proposed gun laws seemed "ridiculous. Crooks and assassins can always get a gun whether it is registered or not."

Pick said he was not opposed to reasonable gun laws.

Spec. 4 Paul Young of Burbank, Calif., said as a devoted hunter, he would not mind gun registration laws but added: "No matter what gun laws they pass, if someone really wants a gun he'll find a way to get it. And don't forget, it's the people who do the killing, not the gun. Weapons are not bad by themselves."

"A lot of guys worry about registration because they think it may eventually violate their right to bear arms," said Spec. 4 John Krumpus of Des Plaines, Ill.

"But I think it's a great idea to register and license weapons in the United States. I've seen what these things can do to people and there ought to be some sort of control."

"But if a guy is crazy enough to kill (in the United States), he'll find a way to get a weapon. If there's no pistol or rifle around, he'll use a baseball bat."

A few GI's said that when they returned home they planned to get rid of the weapons they had in the States, particularly handguns.

In the past, a few have said Vietnam had even soured them on hunting and that they would never take another life, even that of an animal, once they got out of Vietnam.

Several GI's deplored what has been called the arms race in some U.S. cities with racial unrest. A common remark was that those who had not seen what guns can do to another human couldn't fully realize the consequences of pulling a trigger in anger until it was too late.

Wappingers Falls Ions Oppose Braves Tonight

The Wappingers Falls Ions, although mired in eighth place in the Hudson Valley Rookie League's second round standings, nevertheless boast the league's top home run hitter of 1967.

Ed Bonnett, a 15-year-old that patrols the outfield for the Ions will make his first appearance before Kingston fans tonight when he and his teammates take on the league leading Kingston Braves. Starting time is 8 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

As potent a bat as Bonnett carries, having slammed eight round trippers last year as a 14-year-old in his first year of organized ball, the Braves of coach Paul Giannuzzi have one and possibly more to match.

Leading the Braves attack is Gerry Hawkins. An outfielder, Hawkins carries a .567 batting average with the team's top, 17 hits in 30 at-bats, appearing in all 10 games for the Braves. Hawkins leads the club in homers with three, runs scored with 14, and total bases with 28.

He also stroked one triple. As a team, with Hawkins the biggest stick of all, the Braves carry a .332 average into the contest. Bolstering that team average a lot is Hawkins, who, off front by himself, leads Chick Boice, the lumbering first sacker, hitting at a .414 clip on 18 of 29 and two homers. In third, keeping the team mark up is Pete Watzka, the battling infielder at .382, and tied for slots numbered four - five is Paul Valle and Joe Schabot, both at .333.

It's Possible That Hens' DiLauro May Win Forever

By United Press International
Jack DiLauro, who may not lose another game this season, snapped the slumping Toledo Mud Hens out of a four-game losing streak with an 8-6 triumph over Buffalo Tuesday night in the International League.

The 25-year-old lefthander, who was 6-5 last year with a 4.88 earned run average, went all the way for his ninth victory without a loss as the league-leading Mud Hens supported him with a four-run outburst in the fourth and four single tallies.

Buffalo's Bob Chance rocked DiLauro for a three-run homer in the third, his 21st of the year, and Hector Lopez hit a homer in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the IL, Syracuse and Rochester split a doubleheader, the Chiefs taking the opener, 3-1, and Rochester winning the nightcap, 12-4; Louisville shut out Columbus, 1-0, and Richmond whipped Jacksonville, 6-3.

Pete Magrini was the winner for Syracuse in the seven-inning opener as he yielded five hits, including Frank Peters' homer. The Red Wings scored eight runs in the last four innings to out the nightcap out of reach. Merv Rettenmund hit his 17th homer, while Dave McDonald accounted for three Syracuse runs with a fifth-inning homer off winning pitcher Gerry Herron.

Gates Brown Proves Pinch Hitter Deluxe

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

Dusty Rhodes, New York Giants, 1954; Smoky Burgess, Pittsburgh Pirates, 1960; Jerry Lynch, Cincinnati Reds, 1961.

Gates Brown, Detroit Tigers, season climaxed a two-run eighth-inning Detroit rally which boosted Denny McLain to his 19th victory of the year.

At Kaline and Bill Freehan started the uprising when reliever Phil Ortega experienced a wild streak and walked the two Tigers. Smith then went to his bench, Jim Price's pinch hit scored Kaline to tie the game at 3-3 and Brown sent Detroit in front with a looping single to right.

In other AL games, Baltimore moved into second place with an 8-6 win over Cleveland, New York topped Boston 4-1 and California beat Minnesota 3-1 before the Angels lost to the Twins 3-1 in their nightcap. Oakland at Chicago was postponed by rain.

Powell Blasts 16th

Boog Powell drove in four runs with his 16th homer and a double as Baltimore moved three percentage points in front of Cleveland. Powell's homer with two on in the fifth inning erased a 4-3 Indian lead. Reliever John Morris pitched to only two batters and won his first major league decision.

Juan Pizarro walked Frank Fernandez in the seventh inning with the bases loaded to crack a 1-1 deadlock and start New York on its way to victory. Tom Tresh produced the Yankees' first run with his eighth homer in the fifth inning. Stan Bahnsen scattered seven hits in picking up his ninth triumph.

Vic Davallo scored twice after a double and single to back George Brunet's 11th win for California in the opener of its twin bill with Minnesota. The Twins won the nightcap with three unearned runs scored on a combination of errors, wild pitches and passed balls. Jim Merritt was credited with his sixth win in 17 decisions.

Hurley Lions Stop Geanuleas

The crack Hurley Lions, who lead the American Division of the Babe Ruth League, caught up with George Geanuleas, the VFW pitching ace and beat him, 8-4, behind Don Fisher's 4-hitter.

Fisher took the spotlight away from Geanuleas by striking out 16 and slugging a two-run homer. Geanuleas allowed 8 hits and fanned 12. He was hitless in one trip. Fisher pitched shutout ball after the first inning.

Sport Shorts

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Marvin Goldberg, American manager of Argentina heavyweight, Oscar Bonavena, said Tuesday night he had received word Bonavena had injured his right hand in training.

Area sportsmen and gun enthusiasts are warned not to be carried away by the defeat of proposed gun legislation by the House. Although it is doubtful if any other legislation may be proposed, there is always tomorrow.

Despite the pressure of radio, TV and news media, we are happy to learn that there are some clear-thinking congressmen in our midst, who were not swayed by the mass hysteria.

To all clubs in the Ulster County federation that have not already done so, may we urge their support to the Committee of Area Sportsmen of Saugerties. At the present time, they are engaged in the publishing of a questionnaire for the general public. All funds going to the group are to be used for the survey which should be of utmost interest to everyone.

This group is recommending to all clubs that they support legislators who are against gun registration, come November.

In the meantime, we believe it would be well if we can implore our judges to "sock-it-to-em" for all gun toters who are convicted for illegal possession or use of a firearm in any kind of crime.

We would like to say, all the so-called, bang-bang boys are not bad.

WE'D LIKE TO SEE those in charge of pollution of streams and creeks in this area make a tour of the Rondout Creek and see for themselves what is daily being dumped into these waters.

The Eddyville sector is an excellent site for the youngsters who love to fish. Some good-sized striped bass are also taken in this area, while a fine swimming beach affords pleasure for the whole family near Callanan's.

Ever since the demolition of the Cornell building on lower Broadway, the property has become a dumping ground for everything from bottles to raw garbage. High water and heavy rains washed all the filth into the creek.

From here it looks like the city dump, real handy for the daily trash. Wanna bet it stays that way?

LOOKS LIKE THE BLUEFISH fishermen in this area have finally reached D-Day. All reports indicate the big blues are biting like crazy out of all boat basins from Sheephead Bay to Brille, N. J.

A local faithful, Lonnie Dugan had a ball aboard the Palace last week and all tackle busters. Of course, like we always say, these fish get bigger with every "mahogany ridge" story.

For fishermen who like action, we highly recommend a trip on any boat out of the above ports. Come well prepared, a good rod, 40-lb. test line and the usual 6-pack.

Although we are no pigeon lover, we salute Phil Gilen for performing his duties—picking up those pigeon traps. Perhaps, it would be well for those who rant about gun legislation to, first of all, learn the Conservation laws before doing things on their own. Perhaps the boom-boom boys could lend a helping hand.

A FEW SHORT TAKES:

Gary Cline of Olive Bridge doing real well with his Ashokan fishing. Recently, he came in with a 8½-pound walleye and 6¼ pound brown trout.

Chalk up another top spot for Bob Sperl, the Ulster County Circuit leader with 98/100 at Sunday's trapshoot. His hot gun, like the weather, stays real hot.

OLD RIP SEZ: Don't say we didn't tell you . . . you may be fishing for trout until Oct. 21 in the not too distant future.

Miss Carol U Is Feature Winner

MONTICELLO—Seldom does a horse that is passed in the homestretch coming down to the wire come back to taste victory. Last night at Monticello Raceway things were a little different. Miss Carol U, the one horse in the feature race, was passed at the one-sixteenth pole by Lucky Layne, then rallied brilliantly in the final 25-yards to win the $1,100 pace in 2:07.1, just nipping Lucky Layne in a rare and very tight finish.

Driven by Panfilio Constantino, Miss Carol U. sat third until the three-fourths pole, letting Judy Chief G. (3) and Lucky Layne cut out the mile. With Judy Chief on top, the first quarter went in :30.1 and the half in 1:02.

Coming down to the three-quarters, Constantino pulled the eventual winner outside and passed both horses. Once in the lead at the pole in 1:35, Constantino guided her back to the rail. At that time, Joe Aloy, the driver of Lucky Layne, pulled his horse outside and made a rush. When they came out of the turn, they were head and head.

Miss Carol U., a bay mare, seven-years-old by Scottish Pence out of Karen Dale by Hal Senator, watched as Lucky Layne passed her, then decided she wasn't going to be second.

As lucky Layne came down the middle of the track, Miss Carol U. roared in along the rail and took the triumph.

It was her fourth win of the year in 24 starts for owner Martin Destefano, and the clocking was a new lifetime mark.

The daily double of 8 and 7, Star Tockette and Selka Adios, returned $154.60.

Jakarta Sends 1,800 to Fight Reds in Jungle

JAKARTA (AP) — About 1,800 men of the crack Siliwangi Division have been sent to Indonesian Borneo to reinforce troops fighting Communist guerrillas in the jungle, the defense ministry said today.

The ministry said the army hopes to wipe out the "Sarawak Peoples Guerrilla Army" before the end of the year. There are now an estimated 7,000 government troops in the territory.

LONG EATON, England (UPI)—Harry Price, given only a few weeks to live when he got a disability discharge from the army in 1917, celebrated his 101st birthday today.

The American Guild of Variety Artists, which represents night club entertainers, has taken note of the situation. The union has threatened a strike unless hotel owners come forward with hefty raises for its members. Some demands are double current salaries, according to hotel sources.

An AGA negotiator declined to discuss specifics. AGA's ability to organize a strike is complicated by the moonlighting tradition among Hawaiian entertainers. "Nearly every signer, dancer

Entertainment Booming On the Hawaiian Shores

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — With the tourist invasion continuing to grow as the jets touch on these shores, entertainment is booming.

Probably nowhere else in the United States—except Las Vegas, where the gambling creates artificial salaries—could a performer get a half-million-dollars per year contract. That's the reported salary for Hawaii's biggest draw, Don Ho, who plays to packed houses at Duke Kahanamoku's thrice nightly.

Of course, Ho is the only performer who draws that kind of money—hula dancers earn as little as $5 a night at outer island hotels. But as the demand for entertainment rises, so do salaries.

One thing is certain: Gone are the days when hotel entertainment was provided by members of the staff—bus boys, chambermaids, beach boys, etc. The growing waves of tourists—1,200,000 expected this year, 1,350,000 in 1969—are seeking more sophisticated entertainment. Producing the Royal Hawaiian show was Jack Clone, a veteran of 10 years of Honolulu nightclubs.

and musician in the shows has a day job, too," explained a performer, who also works for an electronics firm. "It would be hard to achieve any solidarity to call a strike."

But the AGVA officials remain militant, seeking minimum wages that would make moonlighting less necessary. One thing is certain: Gone are the days when hotel entertainment was provided by members of the staff—bus boys, chambermaids, beach boys, etc. The growing waves of tourists—1,200,000 expected this year, 1,350,000 in 1969—are seeking more sophisticated entertainment.

"I've owned nine of them, and all have been successful," he remarked. "Now I have sold or transferred management of all of them. You used to be able to draw the tourist trade with strippers, but the topless girls ran them out of business. I've tried the topless policy, and that did well until the customers got accustomed to looking at bare bosoms. Now some of the clubs are getting by on a rock policy, with music so loud that you can't carry on a conversation. That will pass, too. I think the only future for night club entertainment in Hawaii is with the hotels. They control the guided tours, and can get customers by the busload."

May Avoid PO Cuts: Watson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster Gen. W. Marvin Watson said today action by two congressional committees has encouraged him to believe mail service will not have to be curtailed.

Sawkill Vols Planning Bake

The Sawkill Volunteer Fire Company is planning a clam-bake in August at the Sawkill Snack Bar Pavilion. Tickets for the bake and booster tickets for those who can not attend but who wish to support the company are available from fire company members.

But Watson indicated Congress will have to do still more before the Post Office Department rescinds its announced cutbacks in service, the first of which takes effect Saturday. "The support of these two committees—composed of men most knowledgeable on this complex subject—was to me further evidence of the credibility of our crisis," Watson said. "It remains now for the Congress to make its decision," he added. "But I believe there is now some light being cast into what is a somber situation."

Regular monthly meetings of the fire company are held the second Monday of the month. Fire drills are scheduled the fourth Monday.

Watson repeated arguments he made before congressional committees in the past two weeks seeking an exemption for the department from manpower cutbacks dictated by President Johnson's 10 per cent income surtax bill.

The beginning of postal cutbacks that Watson has said could lead to closing of 10,000 small branches and eventual four-day delivery in residential areas, comes this Saturday when window service will be cut to a maximum of two hours and street-box pickups will be made on Sunday schedules. Exemptions for the Post Office Department have been approved by committees in the House and Senate with the most recent action Tuesday.

The Senate Post Office Committee wrote the exemption into a minor House passed bill. This paved the way for quick actions possibly by week's end, a committee source said.

Lightning Bolt Strikes Town; Four Injured

PAVIA, Italy (AP) — A bolt of lightning struck an Italian army gasoline dump today, sending flaming gasoline down into the North Italian village of Ravanazzano. Gas pipes exploded, 25 houses were damaged and one collapsed, but only four of the 3,000 villagers were reported injured.

The gasoline dump was on a hill nearly two miles from the village, which is 22 miles from Pavia. The burning gasoline flowed down the hill, through a river and into a canal that crossed the village. As gas pipes exploded and fires broke out in the village, the panic-stricken inhabitants escaped to the nearby fields. Firemen from Pavia, Voghera and Milan rushed to the scene. It took them three hours to put out the fire.

East Can Bar Dummy Entry

By Oswald and James Jacoby

The duck play in today's column represents a more complicated safety play than the one discussed yesterday. Most declarers would have made yesterday's play. We think only a small minority would make today's.

Marshall Miles says in his article in "Popular Bridge": "Why does it help to save our high cards until later rounds? It is because as long as both hands can lead a suit it doesn't matter which hand is on lead. When only one hand has cards left in the suit it is vital for that hand to be on lead. For some reason everyone can see why that is true when the entry is an ace, but it is harder to see when the entry is a lower card."

South wins the heart lead in his own hand. He needs the queen of hearts as a later entry to dummy. Then he leads a diamond. West follows with the nine and South should play low from dummy. This play will cost him a trick in the event that West started with two or three diamonds to the ace, but he doesn't need five diamond tricks. Four will give him his contract and probably an overtrick.

Let's see what happens if he plays the king or queen. Nothing bad if East takes his ace right away, but East ducks.

South returns to his hand with a spade and leads a second diamond. This time East takes his ace and South takes a two trick set. He has only one remaining entry to dummy and he does not have the diamond suit established.

If South plays low the first time, East or West will hold the trick. Then, when South leads the second diamond and rises with one of dummy's honors it won't matter whether the ace is played or held back. Dummy will be able to set up the rest of the diamonds, with the queen of hearts as a sure entry.

business and I am busy with my house and the kids.

Lately Mike has been getting up at 5 a.m. He doesn't have to be to work until 8 and he has only a 20-minute drive to get there. Well, he rushes around getting showered, shaved and dressed and runs out of the house like he is going to be late for something. When I ask him where he is going so early he says, "Nowhere—I'm just like to ride around." I am getting suspicious and would like to know where this guy goes. Should I follow him? BERTIE

DEAR BERTIE: No, but ask him what he would think if you did the same thing for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office and have a very responsible position. My husband keeps on calling me at work and if I'm not at my desk when he calls, I go thru the third degree. "Where was I? Who was I talking to? Don't I ever do any work around there?" Then BANG goes the receiver. Abby, that leaves me a nervous wreck all day.

It so happens that I must do a lot of work in the files which are about 50 feet away from my desk, so someone has to call me to the telephone.

When I get home I am faced with more questions and insults. He accuses me of having "boy-friends" at work. Abby, I have received awards for being an outstanding secretary. Besides, I am 47 and settled down.

I can't have any friends or go to the store without him. My only pleasure is work, and now that's no pleasure anymore. I do all my own housework, laundry and the meals are always on the table when he gets home. No waiting. What else does he expect from a wife? Please tell me what to do.

TIRED OF IT ALL
DEAR TIRE: A man who is accusing and suspicious without just cause is sick. And a wife who puts up with it without attempting to get to the bottom of it is as sick as her husband.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I see a teen-age girl who can scarcely keep her hands and eyes off the boy she thinks she "loves," I feel compelled to write to you about my daughter. Hers is an old story of young passion and the price she paid for it.

She became pregnant at 16. After the first shock, we accepted it, as all parents must when they are faced with this nightmare. You hear from the

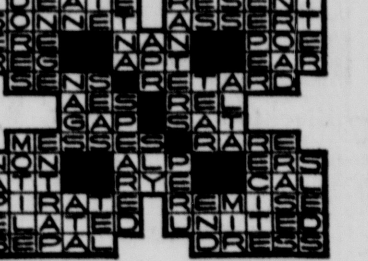

Q—Has the United States Congress ever declared war against a Western Hemisphere country? A—Only once, against Mexico in 1846.

Q—How does a sea lion differ from a true seal? A—Sea lions have small external ears; true seals do not have outside ears.

Q—What animals in the Bible are recorded as having spoken like human beings? A—The serpent in the Book of Genesis and Balaam's ass in the Book of Numbers.

Q—Which is the most abundant metal in the earth's crust? A—Aluminum.

Pat Paulsen's Testimonial

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Beautiful, famous people poured out of fancy cars. Ropes held back the celebrity-watchers. It was a lovely night in elegant, downtown Beverly Hills, and the occasion was an 89-cents-a-plate testimonial dinner (spaghetti) for presidential candidate Pat Paulsen. Dress was black tie. The setting was a cafeteria.

Outside, a young musical group tore into "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" Girls in Paulsen sweatshirts shouted "We want Pat." And the crowd was impressed by a large picture of the candidate under the sign "Tippecanoe and Paulsen too." Camp followers awaited the leader's arrival in a Pierce-Arrow. And word spread of a wire from Richard Nixon, who indicated he wouldn't mind sharing his 1960 television makeup man with Paulsen.

Inside, arrivals were greeted by the co-hosts of the Sunday affair: Tom Smothers, for whom Paulsen appears on CBS-TV when he is not running for president; and Cass Elliott, who gained fame as Mama Cass of the singing group "The Mamas and the Papas." Funds taken in for the dinner were to be paid to the cafeteria for preparing it. And a matching sum was to be sent to John Glenn and the emergency gun control committee.

Strikes Home

The fact that a television special for Paulsen is planned for the fall seemed somehow only part of the story, even amid this wildly successful promotion. Something more was in the air Sunday—a feeling that this stunt had struck just the right contemporary chord, that it wasn't too much sillier than the real affairs it was satirizing unmercifully.

"My interests, if elected," said one Paulsen poster in the cafeteria, "are with the general public, although I do have some personal goals." Another explained: "To take care of the problem of litter, I suggest legislation to provide for a woman to come in three days a week to clean your city." In an earlier announcement, Paulsen explained the cafeteria dinner: "More people eat in cafeterias than at swanky, dimly lit restaurants and posh sinbins."

He felt the surroundings would not "make the ordinary working man and woman who support me nervous."

The working men and women who showed up included Debbie Reynolds, Groucho Marx, Karl Malden, Nancy Sinatra, Martin Landau and Barbara Bain. And the dais included Carl Reiner as a hilarious master of ceremonies, Steve Allen, Bill Dana, Dick Martin, Phyllis Diller, television humorist Ralph Story and two bigwig California Democrats, Alan Cranston and Jesse Unruh, the latter sporting a pink jacket, white turtleneck shirt and pendant.

Audience Joins In

Paulsen carried his tray with spaghetti to the dais. The audience was as loose and funny as the pros. Reiner noted he was supporting another candidate, and Paulsen, sitting next to him, calmly knocked Paulsen is a man of the people.

over his microphone. A guy in the back shouted, "I want my 89 cents back."

Hilarity reached a peak when a short campaign film was to be shown and—here in the movie capital of the world—it took several minutes before anyone could get a simple motion picture projector to work. After this, Cranston praised Paulsen as being "in the tradition of dynamic leaders like Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore and Calvin Coolidge."

And Allen, as a Paulsen adviser, said that concerning the war on poverty, "Pat and I have worked out a plan to shoot about 400 beggars a week."

Finally Paulsen stepped to the microphone, receiving a standing ovation. He began, "Follow celebrities... honored guests... dishonored guests... regular cafeteria patrons..." There is no doubt that Pat

Cong Guerrillas Press Terror Campaign; Burn 200 Dwellings, 1,000 Left Homeless

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong guerrillas pressed their northern terror campaign today, invading Phu Dau village and burning 200 dwellings in an attack that left 1,000 civilians homeless, U.S. spokesmen said. They shelled the provincial capital at Hoi An three miles away with 58 mortar rounds, attacked four government positions on the outskirts and overran two of them, a war communique said. About 200 Viet Cong swarmed into Phu Dau, 15 miles southwest of Da Nang, and set the holocaust before dawn as a unit of Marines nearby was pinned down by mortar fire, unable to help. Civilian casualties were not immediately known. Four government soldiers were dead, 10 wounded and 7 missing following the 58-round mortar attack and four ground assaults at Hoi An, the second northern provincial capital attacked in two days of Communist terror in the northern provinces.

U.S. tankers and infantrymen patrolling the Phu Dau area only Tuesday killed 70 Communists against three Americans wounded, spokesmen said. The northern actions left little doubt the four-week drop-off in fighting had ended and the Communists were perhaps on the verge of launching their long-awaited nationwide offensive, expected before Sept. 1.

Allied soldiers guarding Saigon for the possible invasion attempt clashed sharply with Viet Cong regulars 18 miles southwest of the capital in the heaviest fighting there since July 16, spokesmen said.

Thirty-two Communists were killed against 10 Americans dead and 9 wounded, the announcement said. The Communists slammed about 100 mortar rounds into Loc Ninh, an outpost 70 miles north of Saigon astride Communist infiltration routes from Cambodia, killing two government soldiers and wounding two.

The U.S. command said pilots flew 122 missions into North Vietnam on Tuesday. One plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk, crashed during launch from a carrier offshore and the pilot was killed, spokesmen said.

14th Viet Session

And in Paris, Ave Protests

By LOREN JENKINS
PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today protested Viet Cong terrorism against civilians in Vietnam.

"What is disturbing is the terror action which has started against theaters in the Saigon area," Harriman said moments before the 14th session of the U.S. North Vietnam talks on Vietnam.

"People have been killed and I will call attention to this," he said.

Harriman referred to a series of bombings in Saigon and other cities in which 20 persons were killed and more than 120 injured last weekend.

Western diplomats said today North Vietnam's propaganda campaign has taken a new turn with a view to driving a wedge between Saigon and Washington. The talks have been stalemated without indication of progress.

North Vietnam has steadfastly insisted no progress can be made until the United States halts bombing of the north. The United States has maintained Hanoi must show a military de-escalation.

North Vietnam had already reacted against the weekend Honolulu meeting between President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

It denounced Johnson's statement that if Hanoi refused to cut down its war efforts, "we will be prepared for the worst." Hanoi said that was another demonstration that the United States is determined to extend its "war of aggression" in Vietnam.

The Weather

WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1968
Sun rises at 4:40 a. m.; sun sets at 7:24 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather: Showers developing.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 61 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 84 degrees.

Lower Hudson Valley:
Upper Hudson Valley:

Variable cloudiness today with scattered showers or thunderstorms developing this afternoon and continuing tonight. A chance of a few showers early Thursday, followed by clearing. Highs today and Thursday in the 80s. Lows tonight in the 60s.

Winds south to southeast, 5 to 15, today and tonight, with a chance of locally gusty winds in thundershowers, and west to northwest winds, 10 to 15, on Thursday.

Mostly fair with moderate temperatures and humidity Thursday night and Friday.

Northeastern New York:
Mostly fair with moderate temperatures and humidity Thursday night and Friday.

Nhan Dan, the North Vietnamese Communist newspaper, gave the first indication Tuesday of Hanoi's new propaganda technique. It said there were "discordant noises" after the Honolulu meeting.

"It was a very tedious meeting indeed," Nhan Dan said, adding that Johnson was not anxious to go to Hawaii to meet Thieu.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported from Paris that Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials think the possibilities of any real change are slight. They have brushed aside suggestions that his government was modifying the statement of its basic position that has stood for more than four years. Nevertheless, new language has been used and U.S. officials think that eventually it could be important.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and fourth the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for "the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs." Previously this point specified that the South Vietnamese people would settle their own affairs "in accordance with the program of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong. U.S. officials always said they could not accept that condition because it would mean acceptance of the Communist program for South Vietnam.

Early this year a new organization which claimed to include non-Communist elements, the Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Viet-

Cleveland Snipers: 10 Dead

SHOT TO DEATH — Police Lt. Leroy Jones lies mortally wounded from sniper fire. The officer standing on the right was later wounded during a gun battle. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

By DAVID SPURR

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Snipers with automatic weapons fought police through the night and dawn today, turning a major section of the city's predominantly Negro East Side into a battleground.

An assault force of 2,600 National Guardsmen, using armored personnel carriers and borrowed trucks from Brink's, Inc., moved into the area at sunrise with orders to "shoot to kill snipers."

Ten persons were killed by gunfire, including three police officers, three snipers and four Negroes apparently caught in the crossfire.

Eighteen other persons, 10 of them policemen, were wounded. Two of the wounded officers were in critical condition.

Police made 48 arrests. Firebombing, looting and assaults on civilians were widespread.

It was the nation's worst racial disorder since the destructive Washington rioting which followed the assassination of Martin Luther King in April.

Apartments, stores and cars were set afire. For two miles along both sides of Superior Avenue, a major thoroughfare, firemen braved sniper fire to battle flames ignited by Molotov cocktails.

The flames ranged from East 105th Street, in the area where the snipers were holed up, to the city limits two miles away. The shooting lasted more than five hours Tuesday night and early today. It subsided during a driving rainstorm, then erupted again at an intersection in the heart of a five-block area where the disturbances first broke out.

Sees Plot

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, the first Negro ever elected head of a major American city, believed the violence may have been planned.

Police said the snipers were using automatic carbines, at least one machinegun, M1 rifles and shotguns.

Fred "Ahmed" Evans, a black nationalist leader arrested by three policemen before dawn, told officers he and 17 others instigated the shooting. "If my carbine hadn't jammed I would have killed you three," police quoted him as saying. "I had you in my sights when my rifle jammed."

Patrolman David Hicks said Evans boasted that he and 17 others men began firing at officers because "you police have bothered us too long." When told that three snipers had been slain, Evans said, "They died for a worthy cause," according to Hicks. "We asked him where his weapon was," said Sgt. Ronald Heinz, "he pointed to buses in front of a house. We found a loaded carbine, five boxes of ammunition and a first-aid kit."

In May, 1967, Cleveland Det. Sgt. John Ungvary said black nationalists under Evans' direction were plotting a "black revolution" in the city to coincide with "a war between Red China and the United States." Ungvary said Evans predicted that once the war started, National Guard and reserve units would depart, leaving Cleveland defenseless against a black rebellion.

Gov. James A. Rhodes mobilized the state's 15,200 National Guardsmen and sent 4,000 of them to Cleveland. Stokes first requested the troops be kept from the area of violence to give the Negroes a chance "to see if they can control their community."

Elected Negro

Cleveland, the nation's eighth largest city, experienced a major riot in 1966. The election of Stokes last year had given rise to hopes the city would be spared racial disturbances during his tenure.

Police said the disturbances first began about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday with a surge of gunfire at the intersection of Lakeview and Arbondale Avenues.

Witnesses said a group of five Negroes armed with carbines and automatic rifles poured bullets into a police cruiser and a tow truck that pulled up to the intersection to pick up an abandoned car.

Within 30 minutes, the violence flared in a five-block area around the intersection. Police were pinned down by heavy fire from apartment houses ringing the intersection.

Witnesses said one of the five gunmen, who retreated into an apartment unit, shouted, "We'll shoot anything that's white."

Moments later, the sounds of gunfire rolled across the hot, sultry night and large bands of Negroes gathered at various intersections. Stores were firebombed and looted.

Police deployed their men, who were fired at as they crouched behind cars and utility poles. Gunfire was so heavy at times police could not go to the aid of wounded comrades.

street twitching as bullets whizzed over him.

"A young girl darted out and scurried over to drag him to safety," the reporter said.

Stokes was under heavy police guard when he addressed a news conference at the peak of the disturbance.

His voice choked with emotion, Stokes, told newsmen after the wild shooting had subsided "There is a definable group involved."

"Most of them have been arrested," he said. "It's not a riot. It has not reached that kind of proportions."

Stokes, under heavy security guard while he addressed a news conference, had asked the state administration to keep National Guard troops off the streets and give Negroes a chance "to see if they can control their community." But he relented moments later and the troops were summoned. "I don't intend to permit this kind of lawlessness and violence to go unchecked in this community. If we are going to bring this terrible night to an end, it will depend on the kind of cooperation we get from the citizens."

Two Men, Girl Killed In County Mishaps

Two men and a three-year-old girl met death on Ulster County highways in three separate accidents yesterday.

One occurred at 10:15 in the morning when a truck, driven by Thomas Francis Conroy, 56 of Ward Street, Montgomery, went out of control on Hansburg Road about five-tenths of a mile north of Rt. 52 in Cragmoor.

Brakes Fail

According to state police at Ellenville, the truck was traveling south down a steep hill when the brakes apparently failed causing the driver to lose control. The vehicle overturned, ejecting Conroy who was pinned between the truck and the ground.

Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson who ruled the death accidental, said Conroy died of a crushed chest, a fractured skull and laceration of the brain.

Investigator F. C. Cooper and Trooper W. E. Hubert were in charge of the investigation.

Another morning accident claimed the life of a New Jersey man who apparently suffered a heart attack while driving south on the Thruway at Mile-post 75 near New Paltz.

William W. Calvert, 72, of 124 Herbert Street, Union Beach, N. J., traveling in the driving lane, ran off the road and struck a sign. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where he was declared dead on arrival.

The accident which occurred at 9:15 a. m. was investigated by Trooper Bruno Schinkowsky of the Newburgh Barracks.

The three-year-old Town of Ulster girl, Kelly Schabot, was reportedly killed when she ran in front of a car outside her home yesterday afternoon at 4:25. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schabot, 1060 Stoll Court.

According to State Police, the accident occurred when Patricia Woelke, 24, of 1085 Stoll Court, was driving south on Stoll Court. The child reportedly ran from the left side of the road into the path of the vehicle. She was hit by the front center of the car.

Dead on Arrival

Taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance, and given oxygen enroute, the child was declared dead on arrival.

The investigation was conducted by Investigator Godfrey Grunwald and Trooper Robert Molloy.

The three deaths bring Ulster County's fatality toll to 27

so far this year. The number is slightly behind last year's record when that number was reached on Aug. 20.

The Schabot girl's death was the sixth pedestrian fatality and the third involving a child.

In January a Woodstock five-year-old boy died when he was run over by a school bus and in June, a four-year-old Ellen, a girl was killed when a truck overturned and spilled a load of bricks on her as she stood with two other girls alongside the road.

Two men and a woman also met death while walking on the highway.

Second in County

The Thruway accident was the second to occur in the county on that highway this year. In February, a New Hampshire man, a passenger in a car being driven just north of Kingston, was killed when the vehicle went out of control and flipped over. The driver survived.

One-car fatal accidents this year number 12. In all other instances, another vehicle was involved in collision.

Meanwhile, three persons were injured in a head-on collision on the Cottekill Road in the Town of Marlborough last night.

The accident occurred when the operator of one car had his view obstructed by the vehicle's open hood and the car's owner perched on the front fender adjusting the distributor cap at the time of the mishap, state police report.

Taken to Kingston Hospital in Doctors Ambulance was Larry Baney, 16 of Cottekill Road, Cottekill, driver of the car in collision with the open-hooded vehicle. He was treated for abrasions of the nose and left forearm.

Admitted to Kingston Hospital were two passengers in the Baney car: Dennis Baney, 17, lacerations of the chin and a concussion and Penny Lynn Baney, 4, with multiple lacerations of the head and a possible concussion.

Three summonses were issued the driver of the open-hooded car, Kevin Osterhoudt, 16, of RD 1, Stone Ridge. He was cited for having an obstructed view, being an unsupervised learner and for having unsafe tires.

The car's owner, Steven Bauer, 17, of High Falls, who was perched on the fender, was issued a summons for permitting unlicensed operation of his vehicle.

The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. when the car driven by Osterhoudt was traveling east on Cottekill Road and the Baney car was traveling west, according to Trooper John Kohlman who investigated.

Osterhoudt and Bauer are scheduled to appear before Justice Edmund Ruffner of the Town of Marlborough to answer the summonses.

Consider Weak Gun Resolution

By RAYMOND LAHR

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The National Governors Conference today considered a bland gun control resolution at its windup session after hearing President Johnson Tuesday call for increased cooperation between states and the federal government.

Consideration of the gun resolve came as morning newspapers told of five deaths in a raging gunbattle in Cleveland. A man was arrested here Tuesday for carrying a loaded revolver in the governors' headquarters hotel.

Johnson told the governors that state and federal governments must deal with a number of problems in partnership or the national government will be compelled to act alone.

The resolution for today's session proposed that gun laws be left to the individual states. It had the unanimous recommendation of the nine-member executive committee and the law enforcement committee headed by Gov. David Cargo of New Mexico.

Cargo told a news conference Tuesday that a sizable group of governors wanted to call for licensing of individual gun owners. After the executive committee action, however, he said he doubted that there would be much dispute today over the resolution.

Gov. John Chafee of Rhode Island was reported to have withdrawn a resolution calling on the major political parties to agree to support the high man among presidential nominees if George C. Wallace's American Independent party candidacy drains away enough votes to deny anyone a majority of the Electoral College vote.

The President flew from Texas Tuesday night to accept a plaque applauding him for doing more than any president to improve relations between state and federal governments. He spoke while Gov. James A. Rhodes was getting a report on the five deaths from gunfire in Cleveland.

Johnson said the Constitution and traditions gave state and local government responsibility for law and order but that many citizens look to the federal government when the crime rate rises. He said the federal government had never sought the responsibility for policing the streets and he hoped it would never accept it. He also urged the governors to review their state tax systems and employment services.

Demand Federal Action

The President said people will demand action by the federal government unless it and the states work together to provide jobs, carry out the model cities program, protect infants against disease and provide higher education for all who want it. "The answer must never lie with the federal government alone," he said.

Of Vietnam, he said all Americans wanted peace but that some of them ignored the presence of an irreconcilable enemy.

"We are doing everything we can to get the enemy to meet us at least half way," he said. "Up to now they have shown no disposition to do that. We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go. But we are not going to impose a coalition government or any kind of government on the people of South Vietnam. . . . And with all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it regardless of the pressures and strains of this political year."

DEATH TRAP—The rear of a school bus that was carrying 38 farm workers and their children was torn completely off by a Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines train. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Bus Stalls on Tracks

9 Migrants Killed by Train

BUENA VISTA, N.J. (UPI)—Mrs. Mary Howell and three of her 10 children had earned a total of $10.10 for a 12-hour day of picking blueberries Tuesday.

At day's end, they wearily boarded a rickety yellow schoolbus with 36 other migrant farm laborers for the journey back to their home in Wilmington, Del. The Howells excitedly discussed plans for spending their wages at a church picnic Thursday.

"Suddenly, the bus seemed to stall at the railroad tracks," Mrs. Howell recalled. In the next instant, a passenger train taking commuters from Philadelphia to their Atlantic shore homes slammed the bus broadside.

the air, overturning it several times. Bodies flew out the torn sides of the vehicle, some landing as far as 200 feet from the railroad crossing. Nine of the migrant laborers were killed, 23 others injured. None of the 100 passengers aboard the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore line train was injured.

Mrs. Howell, 50, was knocked out of her shoes but escaped injury. So did her daughter, Yvonne, 12.

"But I didn't see my boys right away, so I went looking—up the track," she sobbed in the emergency room of Kessler Memorial Hospital. "Yes, I saw them lying there. 'Oh, Lord, my boys,' I thought. I screamed. I turned around. I couldn't stand it."

Mrs. Howell's two sons who picked berries with her Tuesday, Eugene, 15, and Andre, 13, were among the nine dead.

The accident occurred at 6:25 p.m. EDT at a quiet crossing in this small community halfway between Philadelphia and Atlantic City in the heart of the lush New Jersey farmland, where approximately 8,000 migrant farm laborers are working this season.

The bus in which Mrs. Howell and her family was riding was owned by Charles Bradley of Chester, Pa., a "crew leader" for the Crescent properties at Mays Landing, N.J., where Mrs. Howell and the others worked.

The bus driver Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, was among the injured and was under sedation at the hospital.

State police said the bus recently had passed safety inspection after two successive failures.

Soviet Leaders Ready For Showdown With Czechs

Through the maneuvering troops went the 11 rulers of Russia, the Soviet Communist party presidium bound for a showdown meeting in Czechoslovakia with the party reformers in the former satellite.

East European sources here said the world would learn of the meeting and what it accomplished probably only when it is over. On the other hand, the Soviet press trumpeted the massing of troops and called up civilian reservists along the 1,000 miles of this nation's western frontier.

The maneuvers were not routine. The Kremlin made that clear when it commandeered farm vehicle for the troops despite the current harvest work. Further, the Soviet press stressed both the size of the exercises and the nearness of the war games to Czechoslovakia.

nonsense stance in demanding Czech party leaders roll back their drive for more freedom and independence—a drive the Soviets say they fear will end in the strategic central European nation returning to capitalism.

A barrage of Soviet notes, speeches and editorials underlined the threat of the Red army marching to put down the Czechs unless the Soviet presidium comes back triumphant.

The fact that for the first time in history—the presidium was going abroad en masse suggested the Soviets were agreeable to compromise. In public they did not discuss this. But experienced observers here said the Soviets probably would be pleased to bring back to Moscow.

—A promise by the Czechs to which has enraged the Soviets muzzle their newly freed press with its criticism.

—The firing by the Czech comrades of some of the more prominent reform spokesmen. These could include two men now under heavy fire in the Soviet press—Lt. Gen. Vackav Prchlik, the Czech central committee military leader, and Interior Minister Josef Pavel.

Soviet announcements said the frontier war games would continue until Aug. 10 by which time one solution or another presumably would have been found for the Soviet woes in Czechoslovakia.

Israeli Prisoners, Jet Still Being Held

PARIS (AP)—The Algerian government still held a hijacked Israeli jetliner and 21 or 22 Israeli citizens today after releasing 23 non-Israeli passengers.

The El Al Boeing 707 was diverted to Algiers on a flight from Rome to Israel early Tuesday by three members of the Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab sabotage organization. The front asked the Algerian government to hold the Israelis aboard the plane as hostages for Arab combatants held prisoner in Israel, but there was no public response from Algiers and no demand for a swap.

Twenty of the released passengers were flown to Paris. They included two Americans, Rina Uziel, 23, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Gabriel Gaiz, 17, a student from Long Beach, Calif., who finally arrived in Tel Aviv today with four other passengers.

Three Jewish passengers who were not Israeli citizens, were flown to Marseille.

Reports of the number of Israelis held in Algiers differed. El Al, the Israeli national airline, said 10 crew members and 12 passengers were detained. The Algerians said they were holding 11 passengers along with the 10 crew members.

The three hijackers also apparently were in Algiers.

The Israeli government asked U.N. Secretary General U Thant and the Italian government to intercede with the Algerians for release of the $6 million jetliner.

Over Newburgh Housing Project

NAACP Head, City in Disagreement

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—The city of Newburgh will "create a ghetto" if it goes through with plans to build a low-income housing project in the city's market area, the chairman of the Newburgh chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged Tuesday.

Samuel A.T. Hodge Jr., whose organization has been conducting a running battle with city officials over the location of the proposed Diebold project, made his charge in telegrams sent to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and State Housing Commissioner James E. Gaynor.

Hodge said the city had been enjoined some time ago by the commission from building on Water Street because it would constitute a ghetto. He said Dixon street, where construction is now planned, "would be the same."

Wants Different Site
Hodge said he and the NAACP want the project constructed at a site on Lake Street. The City Council prefers the market area because it feels that the project should be an industrial asset.

"Gov. Rockefeller has created a billion-dollar corporation, called the State Urban Development Corp., designed to bypass adamant city councils who have failed in low-income housing," Hodge said.

"Newburgh is a prime example of a 13-year delay. We feel that if he (the governor) comes here or sends his experts to make an analysis, the city of Newburgh will be enjoined from building on Dixon Street—and Lake Street would be the only other choice."

Mayor George F. McKneally said of Hodge's comments: "We are convinced that the regional market site is the only logical one and we are proceeding on this without delay."

"I think the real answer to Mr. Hodge is that he's been given entirely too much attention," the mayor said.

"Now he has convinced himself that his opinion makes or breaks the location of a project, and that if he doesn't get his way he'll punish anyone that he can. And I think it's about time that people stood up to be counted and put Mr. Hodge in his proper place."

Hodge announced Monday that the NAACP was extending a Negro boycott of local stores and would picket selected stores. The boycott, which he calls "selective buying," began Saturday.

Extending Boycott
Hodge said Tuesday that the boycott "will proceed," but added: "We are not making an analysis at this point because we have not escalated it to the point where it will really show its fangs."

Reagan, Rocky In Tune

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ronald Reagan and Nelson A. Rockefeller found themselves in agreement today on a surprising point: Both saw growing support for Reagan's unannounced presidential candidacy. Rockefeller, governor of New York, told newsmen at the National Governors Conference at Cincinnati Tuesday that he knows of 55 delegates, most of them in the South, who have switched from support of Richard M. Nixon as the Republican presidential candidate. Rockefeller said 37 have lined up behind Reagan and the rest behind his own, announced candidacy. No Specific Figures
Despite conceding this shift to Reagan, Rockefeller insisted that only he can win for the Republicans in November. Reagan, appearing at a separate news conference, didn't have any specific figures. But the California governor said "rather sizeable movements" have sprung up designed to make him a candidate. "I can't ignore them. It's there," Reagan said. At the same time he reaffirmed his intention to lead the California delegation to the GOP convention as a favorite son and not as announced national candidate. The governors conference provided a focal point for Tuesday's nationwide political doings which included a demonstration-marched visit by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to New York City, a pitch for Maryland delegates by Eugene J. McCarthy and agreement in electrical workers disputes that had threatened both national conventions. McCarthy and Humphrey are fighting for the Democratic presidential nomination. State chief executives trooped into a Cincinnati hotel ballroom for statements and comments throughout a day that was capped with a speech by President Johnson in which he reviewed world and national problems.

Convention Highlights
Among the convention highlights: —Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, Nixon's Western regional chairman, said Nixon "has the strength in the key states from coast to coast" to win in November.

He said their time and devotion to firemanic study many times is not recognized. A resolution for a similar proclamation was unanimously approved at the July meeting of the County Legislature. The County Vols' annual dinner will be held Thursday at the Legion Hall in New Paltz. Election of officers will be held Friday night at the annual meeting and the convention will culminate in the annual firemen's parade beginning at 4 p.m. in New Paltz.

Markes, who presently is completing his studies for a doctorate degree in administration and supervision at New York University, has had leadership positions in education for the last 20 years. ## Moral Support for Czechs

The United States has told Russia in the form of a protest that it is not guilty of Soviet charges of interfering in the Czechoslovakian affair or other East European matters. Secretary of State Rusk has filed objections to the continuing series of allegations that the United States has involved itself in events in Czechoslovakia.

While our sympathies are with the Czechs and their struggle to gain greater freedom it would be imprudent for Washington to go further than to indicate our moral support.

There are two reasons for not getting entangled. First: Any support by the United States of the Czechs will be used by the Soviets to build an argument that the liberal movement is inspired by Washington. The thrust of the movement for democratizing Czech communism is from within and to taint this with the suspicion of outside influence would be just what the Russians want. Second: After our performance, or rather lack of performance, during the abortive Hungarian uprising of 1956 the natural question to ask is, just what would we do—or perhaps more appropriately, could we do—about it if the Russians did use tanks and troops to eliminate the Dubcek regime? Militarily the Russians hold all the trump cards—Czechoslovakia is surrounded by Soviet satellites and the United States straining to meet the demands of the Vietnam conflict, can be of little help. To make any military support commitment, implied or otherwise, would not help the Czechs and our inability to deliver would be disastrous to our image.

Washington can and should continue to carefully endorse and applaud the Czech's courageous determination to gain a more democratic form of government. But to do more would serve no constructive purpose and very likely be harmful to the interests of both countries.

The Traffic Toll

After registering a gain in the Independence Day four-day holiday weekend, it is sad to find that the first five months this year saw a thousand more traffic deaths than the similar period last year. We seem to fall back a step every time we gain one.

The holiday weekend killed 619 persons, final figures of the National Safety Council showed. Insofar as this fell below the council's estimate that 700 to 800 Americans might lose their lives in those days, the report was good.

It compared with 553 deaths in a nonholiday weekend of equal length. It seems we don't have to wait for long holidays, and the pressure of covering a lot of space in a short time, to see highway fatalities rise. We destroy an average of 134 persons a day, any day, now.

Through May 31, the council counted 20,380 deaths this year as against 19,270 during the first five months of 1967. That was a rise of 6 per cent in one year. The Vietnam war losses, so greatly deplored, amount to a mere 3,000 a year (average) by comparison.

Nor are we elated that, because there are more vehicles, the number of fatalities per 100 million miles had dropped slightly from 5.1 per cent to an even 5 per cent at present.

Traffic continues to be the nation's worst killer. We are spending $1.5 billion a month on the war in Vietnam, where one object is to save the lives of American fighting men. We hope and pray the day will come when we can and will spend the money needed to save the lives of Americans fighting their way through traffic on the highways. That will be worth while.

Discipline on Campus

The rash of rebellions on college campuses across the country were not protected by the First Amendment and are subject to normal university discipline, it may be deducted from a Federal court decision refusing to enjoin Columbia University from disciplining students who took part in campus disorders last spring.

The plaintiffs seeking the injunction claimed that their "non-violent occupation of five university buildings was fully protected by the First Amendment guarantee of the right to petition government for redress of grievances and to assemble and speak. They argued that the rhetoric and tactics of the American Revolution were the guides by which the First Amendment must be construed.

U.S. Judge Marvin E. Frankel dismissed this plea with the statement that "It is nonsense of the most literal kind that a court of law should subordinate the 'rule of law' in favor of more 'fundamental principles' of revolutionary action designed to forcibly oust governments, courts and all."

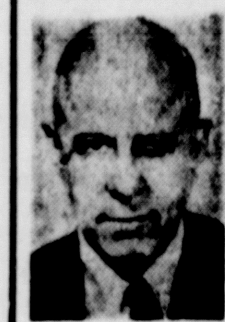

With this judgment, everyone interested in maintaining the educational system of the country against insensitive attack must agree. Now, let's get back to classes and get an education, the reason for going to college in the first place.

The Greatest Show on Earth

'Separation of Powers' Doctrine Is Fuzzy

WASHINGTON — There is more confusion than ever now as to what is meant by "separation of powers" in our constitutional system of government. The two nominees for the Supreme Court of the United States who have just appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee have refused to answer many questions asked of them concerning past decisions.

Judge Homer Thornberry, who has been nominated by the President to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, did answer a question about his delay in taking office five years ago even though he had been confirmed by the Senate. His reply leaves an air of mystery.

Thus, Mr. Thornberry, while serving as a member of the House Rules Committee, was appointed by President Kennedy to become a judge of the U.S. District Court. He was confirmed in July 1963, but he remained in the House of Representatives five months while the White House withheld his commission. Senator Robert Griffin, Republican of Michigan, last week called the attention of the Judiciary Committee to reports that the move was "designed to insure Mr. Thornberry's vote on legislative issues during the interim."

Mr. Thornberry now says that he decided to remain a congressman for those five months because he "had the hope Congress would soon adjourn," but that, when it became apparent the session would drag on for the rest of the year, he felt it was his duty to continue serving the people of his district, rather than leave them without representation. It is not unusual, however, for vacancies in congressional districts to remain unfilled for intervals before special or regular elections are held.

Mr. Thornberry's failure in 1963 to take the oath of office as a federal judge caused the postponement of action on many pieces of legislation and cases then pending in court. The question is whether the administration or Mr. Thornberry was responsible for the delay. There has never been any explanation as to why the White House held up the commission.

So it appears that the doctrine of "separation of powers" is a bit fuzzy in that a member of Congress can sometimes continue to serve in the legislative branch even though he has been confirmed as a judge of the U.S. District Court.

But when it comes to answering questions about opinions participated in by members of the Supreme Court or of the lower courts, both Justice Fortas and Judge Thornberry took the position that they have a right not to discuss before congressional committees the decisions which they have rendered.

The executive branch of the government, through the Department of Justice, on the other hand, has just taken an unusual step by issuing a memorandum backing up the opinions of Justice Fortas and defending him against the criticisms of his decisions made by members of the Senate Judiciary Committee when he testified last week.

Congress has the power to limit the authority of the Supreme Court as to the jurisdiction of cases that may be handled by the high court. Yet when a congressional committee today seeks to discuss with nominees to the high court the viewpoints of prospective judges, a refusal to testify is supported by an executive department of the present administration.

This is not so much a question of "separation of power" as of "application of power" by Congress. For the legislative body has the right to determine for itself whether a nominee for the federal bench has shown — by his record — the ability, judgment and impartiality necessary to deal fairly with the cases that may come before him. As matters stand today, the nominee for the post of chief justice has conceded that, while serving on the high court during the last three years, he has continued to act as a personal adviser to the President of the United States. No "separation of powers" has been recognized in that instance.

So Congress sooner or later will have to define the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in its interpretations of the Constitution as well as the obligations of its new justices to respect the doctrine of a "separation of powers." The legislative branch may find it necessary, moreover, to draw a line prohibiting any participation by members of the Judiciary — including the Supreme Court of the United States — in the activities or operations of the executive branch of the government.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The man I watch with fascination lives at 1142 South Perry Street in Montgomery, Alabama. He is, of course, George Corley Wallace — the poor man's Huey Long. Mr. Wallace is going to surprise a lot of people on election night. He won't win anything, and he knows it. But, if he can take 10 per cent of the electoral vote — 54 votes — the ex-governor may decide who will be President.

He can do more than take 10 percent. Mr. Wallace can cut Nixon just enough in some states, like California, to dump the Golden Gate into Humphrey's lap. This man flies around in a seedy-looking DC-6 making one night stands. He's a demagogue out of the old Chautauqua circuit, roaring invective through flashing teeth, dredging old venom from the bottom of hearts and asking one and all to spread the Wallace gospel.

America tends to forget that it has a Democratic vote, a Republican vote and a Hate vote. It is probable that one out of every 20 votes is cast against someone. To freeze them in one bloc, a candidate must be shrill in his opposition to such things as the United States Supreme Court, desegregation, spending, Vietnam, foreign aid, centralization of federal government and, conversely, heartily favor expansion of state's rights.

Five years ago, George Wallace came on the American scene almost timidly, as the newly elected governor of Alabama. He was forbidden by law from succeeding himself and, in 1966, successfully sponsored a subterfuge in running Mrs. Wallace as his successor. She died in office, but Wallace remains the biggest man in a politically unhappy state.

It was in Birmingham, on July 17, 1948, that the opponents of Harry Truman's civil rights program met in a rump convention and nominated J. Strom Thurmond and Fielding L. Wright on a States' Rights ticket. Of 525 electoral votes, Thurmond got 39, seven and a half percent, although only 2.4 per cent of the people voted for him.

In 1960, when Kennedy was running against Nixon, electors of the states of Alabama and Mississippi gave Harry F. Byrd 15 electoral votes although less than one percent of the people espoused his cause. The military are fond of using a word "polarized." It means to magnetize into a solid bloc. I would surmise that George Wallace has "polarized" those who oppose the Republican and Democratic parties.

If the nominees are to be Humphrey versus Nixon, Mr. Wallace is prepared to say that they could be placed on the same ticket — that the people are not being given a choice. The election does not have to be as close as the Kennedy-Nixon photofinish in 1960 for Wallace to become the balance of power.

He is almost certain to round up a majority of the conservative wing of the Republican Party — the 1964 Goldwater votes. If so, Wallace stands an excellent chance of nailing down Alabama's 10 votes; Georgia's 12; Mississippi's 7; Carolina's 8, and possibly Florida's 14. (Goldwater lost Florida by 906,000 to 948,000.) That is 61 out of 538 votes.

No one can buy the little man off. Ideologically, no one would approach him from either major party. The damage he can do is not limited to electoral votes. The ex-governor is going to take a couple of million anti-Administration votes which would go to the Republican nominee. Many will be in states where, if Wallace wasn't siphoning the cream from the top, the Republican Party could expect to win.

Ironically, on a recent trip east and midwest, I spoke to politicians from both major parties and they worry about Rockefeller and Eugene McCarthy. Or they wonder what happened to all those Bobby Kennedy people.

I asked what the politicians thought of that Alabama ambush called Wallace. Not much. Some shrugged. Some laughed.

Drew Pearson Says Sen. Ellender's Movie-Taking Costs Taxpayers $20,687

WASHINGTON — The Senate's most indefatigable sightseer, 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has worked out a unique scheme for letting the taxpayers pay for his amateur movies.

Ellender totes a movie camera around the world and takes dozens of reels for the wonderment of those at home who, out of respect for his Senate seniority, let themselves be collared into attending his illustrated lectures. He also packs a supply of little black notebooks, in which he jots his most trivial impressions, later to be published at the taxpayers' expense as official Senate reports.

It had always been thought that Ellender's movie-making was a personal hobby paid out of his own pocket. But the secret has now leaked out that the taxpayers also help foot the bill for "Ellender's Productions."

As Senate Agriculture chairman, Ellender has enormous influence over the destiny of the Agriculture Department. It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that one of the Agriculture Department's unmentioned services for the nation's farmers is to process Ellender's movies.

The Agriculture Department splices Ellender's fascinating footage, and adds a sound track featuring the voice of none other than Allen Ellender narrating his own travelogue. For three films this has now cost the taxpayers $20,687.

The Agriculture Department is prohibited from doing work for individuals, so Ellender arranged for the department to bill the Senate Recording Studio. This is a technicality which saves the taxpayers exactly nothing.

Ellender's first effort to make a travelogue out of his home movies, back in 1963, cost the taxpayers $7,840. The taxpayers paid $11,000 last year for a lengthier Ellender Production. And he has just completed a short documentary of his latest trip for $1,847. He expropriated the Senate caucus room the other day for a preview, which was attended by dutiful Senate employees, a few Senators who couldn't think of an alibi and one or two devoted Ellender fans.

New Protection in Miami.

The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in a crowded hotel has caused secret security reappraisals at the Miami Beach hotels where the Republican candidates will be staying. Both the Hilton Plaza Hotel, where Richard Nixon has reservations, and the Americana Hotel, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will stay, have arranged elaborate new security precautions. The entire floors where the candidates' rooms are located will be sealed off. Both hotels have also given their employees a thorough new screening since the Kennedy assassination.

Congressional Vacations

What most people don't know is that Senators and Congressmen are absent from Washington much of the time — for holiday, long weekends and foreign junkets at the taxpayers' expense. The only group which does more vacationing is the international "jet set."

Industrious members object to this gold-bricking, which has become a way of life to most of their senior colleagues. Hard-working, young Reps. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, circulated a petition some time back for a five-day work week. They got nowhere. Scheuer and Mink wanted to outlaw the "Tuesday-Thursday Club," whose members, chiefly from New York and the East, leave town on Thursday and return Tuesday.

Result is that work which should be done early in the year piles up near adjournment. Senate and House members are now complaining about the backlog of legislation that is holding up adjournment. But the truth is that they themselves created the backlog by neglecting their duties earlier in this session.

Official holidays, as distinct from long weekends, begin in February, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Many go home again for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners in the spring. Then there is Easter, when Congress takes a recess, followed by a long weekend on Memorial Day and another on the Fourth of July.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, who foot the bills for all this, the political conventions, which bring the longest vacation of all, occur only once every four years.

HHH's Empty Chest

Lack of campaign funds has slowed down Hubert Humphrey's campaign for President. He was unable to come up with the down payment that his New York advertising agency, Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, had required to start an advertising barrage. As a result, the campaign is already three weeks behind schedule.

At first, the money poured into Humphrey's campaign chest, largely from businessmen who were afraid of Robert Kennedy and not enthusiastic about Richard Nixon. Since Kennedy's death this money has dried up. Businessmen are bank-rolling Rockefeller instead.

Humphrey's treasurer, Sidney Weinberg, who raised funds for the Eisenhower campaign and is now supposed to be tapping Wall Street for Humphrey, is coming up almost empty-handed. Incidentally, Humphrey has told friends that he definitely intends to speak to Sen. Ted Kennedy about the vice presidential nomination. Humphrey didn't want to rush matters after Bobby's death. But the Vice President is on warm terms with Ted Kennedy and thinks Kennedy would add the most strength to his ticket. The man he would really prefer as his running mate, however, is Sen. Ed Muskie of Maine.

Honolulu Talks Offered Little Hope of Early Peace

By PETER LISAGOR

WASHINGTON — Neither the peace advocates in this country nor the Hanoi negotiators in Paris could find comfort in the Honolulu conference between Presidents Johnson and Thieu.

If their official statements were a reliable guide to the private conversations, unattended by interpreters or advisers, an early peace in Vietnam was dismissed as wishful and impractical unless Hanoi has a dramatic change of heart.

The two presidents, who met for 10 hours or so on Friday and Saturday, seemed far more interested in Nguyen Ban Thieu's political problems in Saigon than in the fortunes of the Democratic Party this November.

In domestic political terms, the Honolulu talks could only have dismayed those in Vice President H. Humphrey's camp searching for a more moderate line on which to base his presidential bid. On the other hand, the mutually firm, near-defiant positions reflected in the communique gave GOP aspirant Richard M. Nixon little to shoot at.

The unusually long and often ambiguous communique ruled out an imposed "coalition government" on Saigon; dealing with the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong political instrument, as an entity; any cease-fire not fully and effectively safeguarded.

Moreover, it was written as if to refute earlier press accounts of a contemplated bombing halt and other conciliatory moves by President Johnson in his eagerness to break the impasse of the Paris talks.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese officials, to a man, agreed at Honolulu that the present lull in the fighting is more ominous than encouraging, saying the enemy is simply being rested, refitted and re-supplied for the President himself, whose obnoxious dislike of advance speculation about his moves often leads him to switch signals and do the opposite, felt obliged to appear before the press at Camp Smith in the hills above Pearl Harbor, and to describe the "big rumors" as "just pure absolute tommyrot and fiction."

Nobody had a chance to ask him why his defense secretary, Clark Clifford, in denying a published report that he discussed a bombing halt and the question of negotiating with the NLF with Thieu during his Saigon visit, said those matters were "particularly omitted" in the Thieu talks so the two presidents could take them up at Honolulu.

While both Mr. Johnson and Thieu denied the issues were discussed, other officials on both sides insisted that they were, in the context of the "important elements of mutual de-escalation" which, according to the communique, the United States "is attempting to discover in Paris."

Behind the uncompromising tone of the Honolulu meeting, officials say, was the negative response from Hanoi thus far to the partial reduction in bombing to the limits of the 20th parallel. Attempts in Paris and other capitals as well as brought no clear "signal" for the North Vietnamese.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese officials, to a man, agreed at Honolulu that the present lull in the fighting is more ominous than encouraging, saying the enemy is simply being rested, refitted and re-supplied for other "major offensives" in the coming weeks and months.

An example of the hardened attitude of the allies was Thieu's remark that if Hanoi plans to match U.S. bombing restraints on the ground, it must declare its plan and purpose. Heretofore, the United States has said, among other vague conditional responses, that it would "assume" the enemy would not take advantage of a complete bombing halt.

The man who emerged as a bona fide spokesman for his fragmented, war-torn, intrigue-ridden government was Thieu, who had no reason to be abashed, upon his return to Saigon, when he faced the South Vietnamese hawks and those "unscrupulous politicians," as he identified them, who said he swam embarked upon a "sell out."

Previously overshadowed by the more assertive and colorful Nguyen Cao Ky, whose eclipse in the vice presidency has been marked, Thieu came into his own in Hawaii. He yielded nothing to the Americans, missed no nuance at his news conference, and obtained assurances no less firm than those given by the United States in February, 1966, at the first Honolulu conference, when both sides still thought the war could be won on the ground.

The outcome at Honolulu this time suggested no early end to the fighting, no lessening of the U.S. burden in manpower and money for at least a good year — unless, of course, Hanoi forces the peace issue with a clear-cut concession to meet the U.S. bombing halt condition.

Soviet Stands to Lose Czech

By GEORGE WELLER

ROME — Joseph Stalin captured Czechoslovakia 20 years ago without a single soldier on Czech soil. Today's Soviet leaders are losing the lizard-shaped country with 20,000 soldiers on the ground.

This intolerable contrast is what puts the old guard of Russian leaders, Leonid Brezhnev and Alexander Kosygin, in such a vulnerable position internally in Russia. They dare not fail in an enterprise where Stalin triumphed with no bayonets.

New young Russians are waiting to brush the two Soviet leaders aside, in a showdown before the Soviet party's Central Committee, if they fail to "save" Czechoslovakia. The whole Red Belt of the East, fractured by the defections of Yugoslavia and Romania, is in peril.

The urgent, repeated insistence of the Soviet leaders

on immediate meetings, with the Czechs on Soviet soil reflects an anxiety that they may be humiliated before Communist history as the men who lost Central Europe. They may become even lower "non-men" than Khrushchev, who lost power though he "saved" Hungary with tanks.

In 1948 Stalin prepared minutely and beautifully the plan to deliver Czechoslovakia into the hands of the Communist Party, skillfully exploiting the trust and fear of Russia in ailing President Edward Benes. Benes was paralyzed by guilt, he had innocently sent Stalin, a gastaop hoax that caused Stalin to butcher scores of Red Army generals.

The man who might carry out today, once more, the Benes role, ex-president Antonin Novotny, has been expelled from power. He controls less than 20 members of the Central Committee. His trigger man, ex-minister of interior Rudolf Barak, is up for trial.

Stalin's base of power, substituting for the lack of Red Army troops on Czech soil, was the "people's militia." It was these Communist-organized factory guards who bypassed the Czech Army and police, and arrested all resistance, even cabinet members.

But the "people's militia" have gone over from Novotny to the new party secretary Alexander Dubcek. So they cannot be used again.

And the Czech Army command is boldly exposing the Soviet failure even to give them accounts of their evacuation.

Believe War Likely in 5 Years

PRINCETON, N. J., July
23—Six in every 10 Ameri-

war between the Israelis and Arabs is likely to occur during the next five years.

Although most observers
see few signs of a major outbreak of fighting between now and our November election, it should be pointed out that similar crises in the past
have had a measurable impact on Presidential races.
Surveys showed that the Suez crisis and the Hungarian revolt, occurring just ten days before the 1956 election, increased Eisenhower's vote by about 3 million.

Main Causes of Trouble
In order to see how well-informed the American people are about the situation and to see what they think should be done in case
of a full-scale war in the Middle East, a series of questions was asked of 1537
people in personal interviews
between June 29 and July 3.

The first question, which sought to find out what people think are the main causes of trouble between the Arabs and Israelis, revealed that few Americans are informed about the situation.

Only a small proportion,
for example, mention as causes the present difficulty over ownership of land or the recognition of Israel as a nation. As many as 4 in 10 could offer no explanation of the conflict.

Here is the first question

Strangely, only a small pro-

What Should U. S. Do?
While the present survey

at the time of the fighting

overwhelmingly on the side of Israel, most Americans hope
we will not become involved with either side in the Mid-

The Vietnam war has led many people to believe that the U. S. should no longer try to be the "policeman of the

asked to get at public think-

ignorant Negro, it was a brilliant one.

—Lerone Bennett Jr.

The history of Reconstruction has been viewed largely through Southern-made glasses
—ignorant blacks, abetted by carpetbaggers
(Northern white opportunists) and scalawags
(Southern white traitors), lording it over whites in the statehouses, wasting the people's money on such things as gold-plated spittoons
and making a mockery of Western parliamentary law.

The facts speak otherwise.

There was some corruption, to be sure, but
no worse than the South knew before and not as bad as it was to know later. It could not compare with the graft-ridden government of post-Civil War New York or the federal government during the Grant administration.

Once given the chance, Negroes took to politics on local, state and national levels with alacrity and an amazing ability to learn. Between 1869 and 1901, 20 Negroes served in the U. S. House of Representatives and two in the Senate. One of the latter, Blanche Kelso Bruce, occupied the seat of ex-president of the Confederacy Jefferson Davis.

Among many other important posts, Negroes
served as lieutenant governors in Mississippi,
South Carolina and Louisiana. P.B.S. Pinch-back briefly held the office of governor of Louisiana.

Although the freedmen had a saying—"the bottom rail is on top"—in no state did Negroes

control the government, although in South
Carolina they had a majority in the house.
There was a notable lack of desire for revenge
against the whites. Senator Bruce, for one, championed the re-enfranchisement of former rebels.

It was in their remaking of the state constitutions that the black politicians left their lasting mark. Voting qualifications and imprisonment for debt were abolished, free public schools for both races were established, the rights of women were enhanced.

Ironically, it was the white population that was to benefit from all this when Reconstruction was finally overthrown. Except for Negro rights, white supremacy governments were to retain many of the advances made during this short period of experimentation with democ-

Move Towards Peace Talks

By BRUCE OUDES
(Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

NIAMEY, Niger—Nigeria
and Biafra moved a cautious
step closer yesterday to the resumption of a full-scale
peace conference with the brief announcement that they have agreed on an agenda for
the talks.

A communique issued after three and a half hours of preliminary discussions under
the auspices of the Organization of African Unity
said the two sides had studied
"concrete proposals" for civilian relief.

Biafran leader Lieut. Col.
Odumegwu Ojukwu agreed
during a dramatic 10-hour
visit here Friday to resume
the formal peace talks broken
off June 1 by the Biafrans.
The conference is to be held in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, "as soon as possible."

Ojukwu, meanwhile, has spent at least two nights in the Ivory Coast, which has recognized Biafra, keeping in close touch with the officially
low level talks here, according to reports from Abidjan.

He is understood to have refused to stay longer in Niger, a country he considers hostile territory.

Niger—which has not recognized Biafra—has a large percentage of Muslim Hausas, the people who also
ern Nigeria.

Conflicting reports about Ojukwu's plans to return home were thought possibly
to be an attempt to keep the Nigerians off balance and unable to intercept his plane
as he heads into Biafra.

Meanwhile, soldiers who said they have orders to shoot
anyone, including newsmen
who try to approach the Biafran delegation's quarters
here, have helped considerable to impose a tight
talks.

A three-man delegation
from the World Council of Churches yesterday presented a message to the conference
calling for an early peace.

After yesterday's talks,
Allison Ayida, leader of the Nigerian delegation, took an executive jet back to Lagos
for consultations with the Federal leader, Maj. Gen.

Yabuku Gowon, before the talks resume here today.

The jets, modern telecommunications and the increasing pressure of world
public opinion for a settlement
of the war blended incon-
gruously with the languid flow
of the Niger River and life
through the isolated capital of this landlocked Saharan country.

The Biafran delegates wore
red and green badges, which
said "Save Biafra" as the French-speaking Niger
government as host manfully
struggled with the problems of servicing discussions taking place in English, Nigeria's
language.

Among those who have arrived in town to apply
moral pressures are two British representatives of a London-based "Biafra Aid
Group" who hope to launch
a large-scale airlift of starving Biafran babies to Britain.

This contrasted with a report from a Red Cross
official that only one
plane-load of relief supplies
has gone into Biafra from the Spanish island of Fernando Poo
in the past three weeks.

New Jersey Bugle Corps At POW WOW

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps is happy and proud to announce that the Garfield Cadets will be competing for the $600 first prize and the championship flag at the 4th annual POW WOW of Junior Champions to be held at Dietz Stadium on Saturday evening, Aug. 10. This drum and bugle corps contest, which has filled the stadium with enthusiastic spectators each year, will this year have seven corps from the United States and Canada in competition, and both the Kingston Indians and their feeder unit, the Troop 12 Indians will give exhibitions.

The Garfield Cadets of Garfield, N. J., have been in continuous operation for a period of thirty-four years, making them one of the oldest junior drum and bugle corps in the country. Organized in 1934 as the Holy Name Cadets, they reorganized as the Garfield Cadets in 1958. Winning titles too numerous to mention, it should be noted that the Cadets have been the American Legion Junior National Champions on ten separate occasions, a record still unmatched in junior competition. They have the distinct honor of being the first junior drum and bugle corps to be elected to the National Drum Corps Hall of Fame.

Resplendent in West Point inspired uniforms of maroon, white and gold, the Cadets were completely refitted last season. They are as famous for their discipline, traditions and esprit de corps, as for their field accomplishments. The Cadets are known throughout the drum corps world as the "model corps." Many times imitated, they have never been duplicated.

The 1968 musical repertoire includes: "March of the Olympians," "French National Debut," "American Salute," "It's Today," "Take Five," "Mission Impossible," "My Blue Heaven," "March Bravura," "Going Out of My Head," and "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You."

Instructors are Jimmy Costello on drill, Ray Capicille on color guard, Danny Raymond on drums, and James D'Amico on bugles, who is also Corps Director. The two Drum Majors are Bobby Knapp and Danny Panessa.

Hearing Set for Ulster Dog Law

An amendment is under consideration for the newly enacted dog ordinance of the Town of Ulster and a public hearing for that purpose has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. in Lake Katrine Grange Hall. The dog ordinance was enacted June 28.

The proposed amendment to Section 3—Owner's responsibility should read as follows: "No person shall own or harbor a dog within the Town of Ulster unless licensed pursuant to the provisions of Article 7 of the

Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York.

"Licenses shall not be required for dog under the age of six months which are not at large. It is further provided that the clerk of the Town of Ulster at the time of issuing the license shall require the applicant to present a certificate certified by a duly licensed veterinarian showing that the dog has been vaccinated to prevent rabies, provided however that in lieu thereof, the applicant may present a certificate duly certified by a licensed veterinarian stating that because of old age or other reasons, the life of the dog would be endangered by the administration of vaccine.

"The town clerk shall make or cause to be made from the certificate a record of such information and file the same with the application."

At the public hearing, an opportunity will be given to all interested persons to speak in favor or against said proposed amendment.

Nixon Appears Shoo-In But Others Are Making Inroads

By DE VAN L. SHUMWAY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — From the Rockies to the Hawaiian Islands, the Republican presidential nomination drive of Richard M. Nixon is harvesting GOP National Convention votes.

But Gov. Ronald Reagan of California is growing some grassroots of his own from his power base in the nation's most populous state.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York must depend on a dramatic, almost monumental mistake by Nixon to make any substantial inroads.

Geographic Domination

Geographically speaking, Nixon as Reagan surrounded. He dominates all the Western state delegations to the Miami Beach convention except those from California and Utah.

But on the basis of votes—for at least the first ballot—the former vice president and the California governor are at almost a Western standoff. Rockefeller has only two certain votes.

The biggest single Western vote bloc is California's 86—and they're all committed to Reagan as a favorite son. Nixon has nearly all the votes in eight of the nine other Western states—Alaska, Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon and Washington.

Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska is a favorite son too but he's also Western co-chairman of Nixon's campaign, and all 12 members of the states' delegation are pro-Nixon. They can be expected to vote for Nixon.

Depending on who's assessing it, Utah is either split evenly or Reagan has a 5-3 edge for that state's eight voters.

Reagan's backers hope for a convention tie-up that denies a first ballot victory to Nixon. Then, they believe, Nixon's strength will begin to scuff off and Reagan will show strength on the second and subsequent ballots.

Supports Nixon

Hawaii's delegation, 14 members, is committed to Sen. Hiram Fong as a favorite son on the first ballot although Fong is a strong Nixon supporter and estimates 12 of the 14 delegates favor Nixon. State Sen. D. G. Anderson, state coordinator for Rockefeller, believes at least 9 of the delegates favor the New York governor.

Former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, the party's 1964 nominee, holds the key to the Arizona delegation, although the he's not even a member of the slate. He favors a Nixon-Reagan ticket. Of 10 Western states, Nixon has legally firm commitments on veep should be up to the presidential candidate. One exception is Utah. That

The vice presidential nominee eight-man delegation reportedly unanimously favors Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who has close religious ties to Utah as a member of the Mormon Church and would help the GOP ticket carry the state.

Despite his repeated denials, Reagan probably would accept the vice presidential nomination if it came to him as a way of helping the party win in November. But his current strategy must be to say he wouldn't accept it.

Unquestionably GOP leaders in many Western states would like to see Reagan in the No. 2 spot. Other possibilities raised include Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Ted Kennedy Future-- Question of the Hour

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)

— What the future holds for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the last surviving brother of the Kennedy clan, is one of the major political questions of the hour. The question grows as the time draws near for the Democratic National Convention. There has been speculation whether he will become a candidate for vice president, or even whether he will remain in the Senate.

A meeting Monday at the Kennedy compound overlooking Nantucket Sound brought together some of the leading figures in the campaign and administration of the late President John F. Kennedy, and in the brief campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy which ended with an assassin's bullet June 5.

Gathering to discuss creation of a memorial to Robert Kennedy were such men as Robert S. McNamara, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Theodore C. Sorensen, and Kenneth P. O'Donnell. There were about a dozen others for the meeting on the memorial plans.

McNamara was secretary of defense in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations until his appointment as president of the World Bank.

Schlesinger, former Harvard historian, and now at City College of New York, was a White House staff member.

Sorensen was a White House aide to President Kennedy and had been on his Washington staff when Kennedy was a senator.

O'Donnell has been a Kennedy campaigner for years, and also was in the White House.

Also at the meeting was Frank Mankiewicz who was on the Robert Kennedy's staff. He said on his return to Washington that the meeting was the second of a series to plan a "living" memorial to the senator.

Colgate Prexy Slates Feb. 1 For Retirement

HAMILTON, N.Y. (UPI)

Vincent M. Barnett Jr., will resign Feb. 1, 1969 as president of Colgate University, the school's board of trustees announced Tuesday.

Chairman of the Board Wellington Powell said that "Dr. Barnett has accepted a distinguished chair in political science at another institution." A spokesman for Colgate said the announcement of where Barnett will be teaching will come later from the institution itself.

Powell said the board accepted the resignation "with deep regret."

Barnett became Colgate's tenth president on Feb. 1, 1963. Under his administration the university embarked on a long range fund campaign which is now beyond the $20 million mark.

Academic innovations under Barnett included a new calendar, featuring two 14-week semesters; a pass-fail grading option for upperclassmen and expanded opportunities for off-campus study.

Barnett, 54, is a native of Whittier, Calif., and earned his degrees from UCLA and Harvard.

"A committee of the trustees has been appointed to begin the search for President Barnett's successor and will be in consultation with committees of the faculty and alumni and other members of the Colgate community," Powell said.

"I was only away for a minute..."

A minute is long enough, lady. More than enough to steal your car when it's sitting there, unlocked, keys in the ignition. (76% of stolen cars were left unlocked—nearly half also had ignition keys.) The worst that may happen to you is to have to walk home carrying the groceries. But remember this, stolen cars have 200 times more accidents. Most cars are stolen by teen-agers less than 18. Your carelessness is their temptation. Your car might be the stolen car that doesn't stop at the school crossing.

CP Summer Fund Campaign Launch

A summer campaign for funds to support services for handicapped children in the Ulster-Greene County area will get underway immediately according to Edward deGroff, president of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County. The agency hopes to raise $9,000 in the drive which will take place in the townships outside the Community Chest area. Townships included are: Denning, Gardiner, Hardenburgh, Lloyd, Marlboro, Olive, Plattekill, Rochester, Shandaken, Shawangunk, Wawarsing, and all of Greene County. This money completes the annual budget for the treatment center.

DeGroff named Paul Modjeska and William Klein, both of Kingston as co-chairmen for the drive. The chairmen said that the success of the drive would depend greatly on attaining the volunteers to work in the fund raising. Anyone interested in offering their services may telephone the center at 400 Broadway, Kingston. "By investing just a little time to help us gain the full support of the community, volunteers will make an important contribution toward helping UCP secure the funds needed to continue and expand services for the handicapped children. No investment could bring greater return," deGroff said. United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County treats children for cerebral palsy, birth defects, speech and hearing defects and muscular disorders. The center offers a part-time nursery for pre-schoolers, physical therapy, speech and hearing therapy, brace and orthopedic fittings for adults as well as children, psychological testing and counseling. Children from Ulster and Greene Counties attend the center, some as many as 5 times a week for treatment, as it is the only qualified center in the area which provides these much needed services.

Send More Police To Lower East Side

NEW YORK (AP) — Police reinforcements were called to the Lower East Side Thursday for the fourth consecutive night after a residents' parade against use of Tactical Patrol Force units in their neighborhood dissolved into a bottle-throwing attack on police.

Some 250 members of the TPF, which is specially trained in riot and crowd control, cleared the streets adjoining Avenue C and 6th Street at 10 p.m.

After several hours of relative quiet, another bottle-throwing spree led plainclothes detectives to sweep along 6th Street telling people to get inside the tenements that fill the predominantly Puerto Rican area.

At one point, plainclothesmen entered a tenement with guns drawn and arrested six persons, including one woman. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Seven other arrests were made, including two for burglary at a local supermarket. No injuries were reported.

Earlier, two policemen were struck by thrown bottles in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn, hours after Mayor John V. Lindsay walked through the tense neighborhood, which had suffered three straight nights of unrest.

"It's very discouraging," Lindsay said. "We thought we had been able to bring them together — the whites, the Puerto Ricans, the blacks. I hope we can cool it."

Neither policemen were seriously injured and the Brooklyn neighborhood was quiet for the rest of the night.

The Lower East Side parade began with several hundred residents gathered at 4th Street near Avenue C to protest against TPF units.

A leaflet announcing the parade read: "We are not animals. We do not need the TPF force in this neighborhood. To show our human dignity, come to 4th Street at Avenues C and D at 6:30 p.m. tonight."

As the parade began to disband, many youths began to hurl bottles at pairs of TPF patrolmen along Avenue C. The

UCCC Prof Studies Desert Flora, Fauna

Richard Glazier, a biology professor at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge, is among the 41 college teachers from all over the country who are participating in a summer institute on Desert Biology, in session June 24 to Aug. 3 at Arizona State University at Tempe, Ariz.

Supported by the National Science Foundation, the institute is headed by Dr. Gordon L. Bender, ASU professor of zoology. Dr. James McCleary, California State College professor of botany, is associate director.

Emphasis at the institute is on plants and animals of the Southwestern deserts. Two five-day field trips are undertaken. The southern trip includes visits to the Arizona Sonora Desert Museum, Walnut Gulch and Santa Rita Experiment Stations, Saguaro and Organ Pipe National Monuments, all in Arizona, and the Algodones Sand Dunes in California.

The northern trip includes visits to Arizona's Joshua Tree Forest and Mohave Desert, Utah's Desert Experimental Range and Great Basin area, and Lake Powell. Several short field trips also are undertaken each week.

Tokyo Reds Won't Be Seduced by Soviet

By LEON DANIEL

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japan Communist Party (JCP) was beginning to look like a tired old woman before the recent upper house elections, but now the Japanese Reds are batting their eyelashes at the Kremlin—and vice versa.

The JCP, showing increasing signs that it is not unwilling to be "seduced" by the Soviets, announced it will send a delegation to Moscow later this month to discuss "normalization" of relations between the party and the Soviet Communists.

Relations Better

Actually, those relations have been improving for some time, particularly since February when Mikhail Suslov, secretary of the Soviet Central Committee, came to Tokyo for a series of closed-door conferences with JCP leaders.

The ideological dispute between Communist China and the Soviet Union played a key role in separating and later bringing together the Japanese and Russian Communist parties.

In 1963 the JCP was firmly being Peking in the Sino-Soviet war of polemics. The JCP broke off its relations with the Russians when the Soviets signed the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

But the JCP realized in 1967, after Mao Tse-tung launched his Cultural Revolution, it could not go along with Peking's hardline policy. Peking now lists the JCP as one of its major "enemies" behind "U.S. imperialism, Soviet modern revisionism and reactionary Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato."

During his visit, it is known that Suslov attempted to persuade the JCP to send representatives to the international conference of Communist parties in Budapest last February. The JCP turned him down.

But the Soviet and Japanese Communists found areas of agreement in the Tokyo meeting and those talks led to the forthcoming meeting in Moscow.

The most powerful political force in Japan is the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), which after the July 7

upper house elections appears to have a firm grip on the reins of power. Its major opposition is the Peking-oriented Japan Socialist Party (JSP), which dropped seven seats in the balloting for the 250-member House of Councillors.

Way down there among the minor parties is the JCP, which wins a few and loses a few but in the long haul seems to be gaining.

Jaycee Swim Meet Planned For Youngsters

Plans are now complete for the 1968 Woodstock "Junior Olympic Swim Meet" slated for "Swim-O-Links" Saturday, Aug. 3 from 9 to noon.

The Jaycee meet features three swim events: breast stroke, back stroke and free style, and a diving competition for age groups 9-11, 12-14 and 15-17.

Co-sponsored by "Swim-O-Links," the Jaycee event is designed to promote physical fitness among pre-Olympic-age youngsters.

Kings Daughters Annual Roast Beef Dinner

The annual roast beef dinner, sponsored by the Kings Daughters at Shady Church Hall, will be Saturday, July 27.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or advance reservations may be made by calling Miss Evelyn Stone.

Rugs and other items not sold at the recent fair will be displayed at the time of the supper.

Jaycees Investigating School District Problems

A special meeting of the Woodstock Jaycees was held recently at Deanes Restaurant, Woodstock, to learn the facts concerning the present Ontario School Budget problem. Speakers were: Dr. Harold Snyder, Ontario Central Schools; Mrs. Vivian Moscovitz, Ontario Citizens Committee; Walter Schuman, president, Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association; W. Jack Kahn, Ontario School Board; Richard Nixdorf, Ontario Teachers Association.

The purpose of the meeting was to determine what action, if any, could be taken by the local Jaycees in helping resolve the present status of the school budget.

Each guest was allowed to make statements in answer to questions posed by Jaycees Richard Vandervort, Jaycee governmental affairs director.

Dr. Snyder was asked to explain exactly the austerity or contingency budget and what it would mean to the Ontario School District. He explained that the state education law clearly states how it must operate under a contingency budget.

Mrs. Moscovitz was asked why the Ontario Citizens Committee was in fact circulating a petition for a vote on the defeated budget of June 13. She stated, "We as citizens, parents and taxpayers do not want our children to be under this type of school operation (with the curtailed activities). We want budget."

The Woodstock Jaycees feel they now have enough authoritative information to take possible action.

Dies of Injuries

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Isadore Braiman, 70, of Rochester, died Monday at a Watertown hospital of injuries received Sunday in the collision of two automobiles northwest of Watertown.

Former Pastor Speaker At Dutch Church

So much identified with the Dutch Reformed Church of Woodstock that many residents of the village still call it "Dodd's Church," the Rev. Harvey I. Todd will be back in the pulpit of the church next Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Todd served the church in Woodstock for 34 years coming into the ministry there after a term as missionary to China.

During the years of his residency in the village there was scarcely an item of village betterment in which he did not have a significant part. Even the present undertaking this season of the building of a new center for Christian Life and Work adjoining the old church was a part of his dream for Woodstock.

Trucker Killed

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — John A. Spodotta, 22, of Syracuse, was killed Tuesday when a forklift truck he was driving struck a culvert and overturned.

ELUDED DEATH — Ottawa lawyer John Nelligan eluded death by scant inches when an 8 foot "jack post" pipe plunged 14 stories from a building under construction and knifed through the roof of his car. Nelligan's briefcase, beside him on the front seat, was crushed. A second pipe hit the roof broadside shattering a window. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Despite Testimony

Fortas OK Predicted

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony during Senate committee hearings into President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments has hurt chances that Abe Fortas will be confirmed as chief justice, according to a leading supporter of the nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says opponents of the nomination picked up much ammunition during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings into the naming of Fortas, now an associate justice, to succeed retiring Earl Warren.

Hart said that Fortas' refusal to answer questions about his decisions, his acknowledged participation in White House conferences since becoming a member of the court, and testimony attacking his rulings in obscenity cases all provide grist for the opposition.

But he, nonetheless, said he stood by his earlier prediction that the committee would recommend Senate confirmation by a 10-6 margin at worst and possibly by a vote of 12-4. What happens in the Senate, Hart said, will depend in part on whether Republican opponents decide that fighting his appointment will be "More of a plus than a minus for them politically."

The committee, called into closed session today, seems unlikely to finish its hearings in time for the full Senate to act before September on the nomination, which includes the appointment of federal Judge Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Chairman James O. Eastland

D-Miss., said he never predicts what the committee may do, but told newsmen he could not conceive of the Fortas nomination being brought up in the Senate before September.

Congress is expected to recess at the end of next week until after Labor Day because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The committee concluded nine days of public hearings Tuesday on a sensational note when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displayed magazines with pictures of nude men and women in suggestive poses and said that distribution of such "hard-core pornography" has become much worse since Fortas has been a Supreme Court justice in 1965.

The final witness was Deputy Atty. Gen. Christopher Warren, who was called for questioning about a Justice Department memorandum reviewing Fortas' service on the Supreme Court and crediting him with "an unusual degree of judicial restraint."

Approve $153 Million More To Relieve Air Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety," it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $933.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

The controllers maintain that they are overworked, short-staffed and under-equipped to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsors said the extra money would provide for the hiring of 3,627 air-traffic controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,631 controllers.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an over-all $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 82 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the bill.

Quick action in the House will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, a new union, to discuss the air tieups.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization

Negotiators Armed With Confidence Vote

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United with an overwhelming vote of thousands of the rank and their bargainers they would file, in meetings, by voice, and walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Thousands of the rank and their bargainers they would file, in meetings, by voice, and walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Although the negotiations are secret, no money is believed to be on the table for the big dollar items like wages, pensions, vacations and unemployment insurance.

"This will shake the money loose," said one union district director as he reported his men better than 90 per cent in favor of a strike.

Reports from 83 locals representing about 180,000 men showed that some 3,700, or just over 2 per cent, were opposed. Figures from a dozen that took secret paper ballots showed 14 per cent opposed.

Each local was allowed to take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, yeas and nays, or a standup vote.

Most meetings were attended by a third or less of the total membership but union rules allowed the vote to stand for the entire local.

Union leadership is under strong pressure to match the 6 per cent it won in the can and aluminum industries earlier this year, despite President Johnson's plea for wage restraint.

Steelworkers averaged $3.84 an hour in May, and the industry says fringe benefits added another $1.09. But the union has lost ground in recent years to other big industrial unions, especially the autoworkers, who also won a 6 per cent increase this year.

The steel industry says a 6 per cent increase each year over a three-year contract will wipe out two-thirds of its profits take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, yeas and nays, or a standup vote.

Among the guests were Mart Eckert, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kaufman, who were celebrating their 23rd wedding anniversary. Attending with them was their daughter, Mrs. Lois Wilbur.

The new playhouse fully modernized and attached to the rear of the Larry Kelder barn is near completion.

Albert Fox Sr., of Tongore Farms called on West Shokan Heights friends last week.

The R. Zenko family is now occupying the former Thor Krogh property at West Shokan Heights. Zenko is a driver for the Davenport.

Fall Fatal

SIGNS MARRIAGE BOOK—Dressed in a white ultra-mini outfit with a white ribbon in her hair, Jane Harries, 16, smiles as hairdresser Gavin Hodge, 24, signs a book during their marriage at the Registry Office in Gibraltar. The bride's parents, millionaire banker William Harries and his wife, had bitterly opposed the marriage because of the girl's age, but they consented in the end and attended the wedding reception. Miss Harries had been the youngest and most publicized debutante of the London season. (UPI TELE- PHOTO).

Seal City As Fumes Cover Area

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A great gray cloud hung over this chemical-making center today as thousands cautiously returned to the homes they evacuated because of a deadly chlorine gas leak.

A series of small explosions Tuesday, ripped through the big FMC plant, rupturing a tank filled with the chlorine gas and sending a cloud of gas fumes over a 12-block area in the city of 20,000. Unofficial estimates of the number of evacuees ranged from 500 to 5,000.

Police sealed off the city from Charleston, the state capital across the Kanawha River. Residents sought higher ground to escape the fumes which produced smarting eyes, coughing and vomiting. Dozens were treated at Thomas Memorial Hospital, with some requiring oxygen tents, but none was considered serious.

Fire swept through a complex of buildings at the chemical plant, located on U.S. 60, which cuts through the heart of the city that calls itself "the chemical center of the world." Union Carbide and other chemical producers have installations here and employ thousands.

Capt. J. D. Baisden of the state police detachment in South Charleston said after midnight that "everything is under control now but the fire is still going strong and may burn for 24 hours."

FMC officials said the source of the chlorine leak had been located and sealed but warned that people should not return to their homes until the all clear sounded.

Atmospheric conditions in the Kanawha River Valley added to the problem. There was little or no wind to disperse the cloud and FMC officials said that the gas hovers close to the ground.

Missing Girl Found After 5-Hour Search

A nine-year-old Long Island girl missing on North Mountain near the North Lake Camp Site for nearly five hours Tuesday, was found on one of the mountain trails below Newman's Ledge by Conservation Department men at about 7:15 p. m., safe and uninjured.

The girl was identified as Grace Frasier of Rotterdam Street, Valley Stream, L. I., who with her parents had been staying at the Kaaterskill Camp, Haines Falls, Greene County.

The girl had been hiking with her family on a trail along North Mountain when she strayed away from the family. She had not been seen since 2:30 p. m. The girl was reported missing to Conservation Department authorities and State Police at Leeds about 4:45 p. m.

Victor Schrader, district forest ranger said the department used portable radios and men were sent along all the mountain trails in the area. A group of searchers finally came upon the little brown-haired youngster walking along the trail.

Schrader said she did not appear to be disturbed about being lost and was unharmed.

Signatures are still being solicited for a petition asking the Ontario School Board to do away with its present austerity program.

The petition, being circulated by a citizen's committee, asks the Board of Education to consider submitting another budget for voter approval at the polls.

Mrs. Vivian Moscovitz, one of the citizen committee's organizers is among those procuring signatures.

Ontario voters, twice in recent months, turned down budgets proposed by the school board.

Before the last budget vote in June, the citizen's committee urged area residents to vote "yes".

Judge to Rule On Sickler's Insanity Plea

Dutchess County Judge Joseph Giudice will announce July 30 whether or not accused slayer Gary Sickler is sane enough to stand trial.

Tuesday morning, a hearing was held in the Dutchess County Courthouse before Judge Giudice who reserved decision. Sickler is a two-time escapee from Dutchess authorities.

Sickler, who escaped for the second time July 16 and was at large for 36 hours, was heavily guarded at his appearance Tuesday. He was also handcuffed to a deputy sheriff.

The only witness at the rescheduled hearing was Dr. Max Dahl, assistant director at the Hudson River State Hospital. Dr. Dahl, who was called by assistant district attorney, Albert Rosenblatt, stated that in his opinion Sickler could understand the charges against him and prepare his defense. There were no witnesses in Sickler's behalf.

Sickler, 27, is accused of the rape-murder of Kathleen Taylor, 20, of Wappingers Falls last November.

The wedge, wheel and axle, lever, inclined plane, screw and pulley are usually defined as the six "simple" machines or tools.

SEIZED — James Joseph Scully, 47, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was picked up Tuesday in a motel parking lot in Arcadia, Calif., about 20 miles east of Los Angeles. Scully was placed on the 10 most wanted list July 15 and is charged with robbing banks in Torrance and San Jose, Calif. He is also charged with violating terms of his parole from a Federal penitentiary, where he served five years of a 10-year term for bank robbery. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Mones Joins In Probe of The 10th Rats

Kingston Legislator Melvin Mones (R) has joined Tenth Ward Alderman Peter Fisher in investigating complaints about rats in the city's Tenth Ward.

Yesterday afternoon Fisher accompanied County Health Department officials on a tour of the Furnace Street-Franklin Street area of the ward.

It is expected that the report of the survey will be completed shortly, at which time recommendations for appropriate action will be taken.

"It might be noted at this time," Mones said, "that a resolution was passed at the February meeting of the County Legislature which enabled us to apply for 100 per cent state reimbursement for a rodent control program in Ulster County."

The actual amount we are to receive is $42,970. Due to certain state cutbacks in expenditures, we have yet to obtain the grant. Once these funds are available, health department officials will be able to institute the rodent extermination program throughout the county.

"The Forgotten Man" was the title of a public lecture delivered by William Sumner in 1883. The phrase was not originated by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Credit Cards And Bizarre Usage

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

All you need is a credit card. These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

Some bankers envision a nationwide system in which a single identification card would be used in place of all checks and almost all cash.

But American Express, a big name in the credit card industry, says, "The single-card system couldn't be further from reality today. The most striking feature of our present system of transferring money is the multiplicity of credit cards."

Credit cards as we know them today were pioneered in 1950 by Diners' Club, which was created with 200 members, an initial investment of $18,000 and a handful of restaurants in the New York City area. Within a year it had grown to 10,000 members who could charge at more than 1,000 establishments.

Credit cards now fall into three categories:

—Travel and entertainment. Operators in this field are American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche. These cards are held primarily by business and professional men.

Private label. Oil companies, airlines, hotels, car rental companies and department stores offer these cards primarily to promote their services or products.

—Revolving credit cards. These cards, largely regional or local in nature, are issued mainly by banks and financial organizations and are meant primarily for use by housewives for shopping.

The credit card companies derive their revenue from discounts from establishments which accept the cards in lieu of cash and from membership fees.

Some credit card practices have come in for criticism recently, mainly because of the mailing of unsolicited cards by banks and some others in the revolving credit field.

Albania Boots 8 Bulgarians

VIENNA (AP) — The Bulgarian ambassador, six embassy officials and a journalist of the Bulgarian news agency BTA have been expelled from Albania for "hostile activities," the Albanian Radio reported today.

Presumably the expulsion was in retaliation for the earlier expulsion of the Albanian ambassador and five embassy officials from Bulgaria. They were charged with having incited citizens to carry out antistate activities.

The broadcast from Tirana, the Albanian capital, rejected this charge and said it was only pretence to divert the "Bulgarian people's attention from the serious situation in the country."

The Bulgarian news agency had said despite the expulsion of the Albanian diplomats, diplomatic ties between the two countries would not be broken. Albania goes all the way with Red China in the feud between Peking and Moscow.

Long Distance

TOKYO (UPI)—Police said they have arrested Susumu Masuda, 25, on charges of taking $3,333 in coin from public telephones throughout northern, central and western Japan.

Americans View English Homes, Fail to Visit Own

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—Americans have the strange habit of crossing the Atlantic to see England's stately homes while failing to bother much about their own.

So says Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, a man well qualified on the subject because he tops the British stately home stakes with 552,000 visitors a year to his mansion, motor museum and ruined abbey in southern England.

Lord Montagu just tops the Duke of Bedford, who has 500,000 visitors a year at Woburn Abbey.

"Down along the Mississippi, marvelous old plantation houses are falling to rack and ruin," said 41-year-old Lord Montagu.

"It's strange that Americans rush over here and don't do as much as they should to preserve their own stately homes. The general public there doesn't seem as interested in their own places as they are over here.

But he finds Americans make the more satisfying visitors because most of the English are simply interested in seeing how the other half lives.

Appreciative Americans

"The English are naturally inquisitive about other people's homes," said Lord Montagu. "American visitors are very much more serious and much more appreciative. I suppose because if they have paid to come all the way to Europe, they really want to. It is not just an afternoon out for them."

"They ask very intelligent questions on the whole and they are always amazed by the age of things. Of course, they have nothing that they can compare with and they can't visualize something standing for 700 years," as Beaulieu Abbey has.

"Americans are always fascinated with ghosts and we do have some, mostly singing monks. Beaulieu is so accustomed to ghosts that we don't really think about them. We just accept them, so visitors are more surprised by them than we are."

Open to Public

Britain has more than 600 stately homes open to the public. A good many are lived in by families who have owned them for generations but would have to sell up now but for the money provided by the entrance fees.

This method of income has its drawbacks.

Lord Montagu, married with two children, said, "Once you have started to open your house to the public, it is no longer your home. You are sharing it with the public. That is the price you pay to keep the house in your family and in good condition.

"You sacrifice privacy for keeping your house. It is part of our heritage. Maybe the time will come when these houses cannot be kept, but it would be a sad day if they become state institutions. They lose a lot by not being lived in."

"I think the public recognizes it is a far greater sacrifice for families to keep them than sell up and live in the Bahamas."

Some Privacy

One of the rooms open to the public at Beaulieu is Lord Montagu's dining room, but he said wryly, "They don't walk through when we are eating."

How is it possible to retain any privacy?

"Well, you cut off part of the court. But I don't like ropes and garden or part of the house," notices.

said Lord Montagu. "Every I've always had a very firm house has its own problems, rule not to act in any special Lord Bath, the Marquess who way just because the public are there, I wear what I like. Often keeps lions roaming his estate I'm wearing jeans and it's quite does not live at Longleat. He funny because you often hear lives four miles away. We can't some very interesting things do that. We have split off a from visitors who seem to think floor, kept part of the garden you should be wearing a coronet for the children and the tennis and robes."

Navajos Celebrate Their Centennial

By HOWARD GRAVES

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, are celebrating their centennial year of freedom.

Under the Treaty of 1863, signed with the U.S. government, the Navajos achieved sovereignty—the nation's only Indian tribe to hold such an agreement.

The June 1, 1968, signing by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers ended four years of captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, a specially built installation in what is now east central New Mexico.

An estimated 1,500 Navajos died during the exile. Historians say 7,304 made the famed "Long Walk" back to their reservation—in what is now eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

In late June, 165 Navajo men, women and children—all in traditional dress—participated in a reenactment of the peace treaty signing at the now abandoned fort site. Then, riding most of the way in four air-conditioned buses, the Navajos made the "Long Walk" back to Window Rock, their reservation capital.

$10 A Day

Each of them received $10 per day for the six days they were away from the 25,000-square-mile reservation which also extends into a part of Utah.

Those selected for the pageant represented a broad cross section of the reservation population of an estimated 110,000.

Martin Link, Navajo Centennial Commemoration Committee chairman, said the ceremonies meant a great deal to the Navajos, especially the older ones, many of whom don't speak or understand English.

"The big thing nowadays," Link said, "are protest marches. The Navajos marched not to Washington, but to their symbolic home, Navajoland."

In issuing the Centennial proclamation, Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai said, "Our Navajo people have for more than a century struggled for the right to live according to our ways. It is appropriate that we, at this the 100th year since the Long Walk, pause to mark our lives, being thankful for the blessings of our heritage, our land and our progress."

Freedom Rings

When the Navajo marchers returned to Window Rock in a dramatic ceremony July 4, Nakai, the ninth elected tribal chairman, said, "Today, freedom rings for us, the Navajo people, even louder, even more distinctly than for the rest of America."

"Today, we stand on the threshold of achievement. We cannot stop now. We dare not. Success will be ours. We have only to live up to the legacy of courage and perseverance left to us by our ancestors."

Sign Language Used At Engineer Post

By DON REEDER

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The coffee breaks are unusually quiet affairs in one of the local offices of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Godparents Help Retards In New Mexico

LOS LUNAS, N.M. (AP) —

Some of New Mexico's mentally retarded children are gaining confidence, trust and better health through dedicated service of some proxy grandparents.

The Foster Grandparents program at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School south of Albuquerque is one of 63 such programs in the nation.

It has proved a "huge, huge success" in New Mexico, says the program's director, Gilbert Baca.

The children, ranging in age from infancy to 16 years, are termed "severely and profoundly retarded" by hospital authorities. Each foster grandparent is assigned two children and they spend 20 hours per week—10 hours per child—with the children.

The "grandparents" play with the children, help them in therapy work, act as companions and provide someone on whom the children can grow to depend. Baca said in the first 10 months of the program the children gained weight, responded better and were more aware of their environment.

The foster grandparents, in a different way, also need help. They are classified as poverty stricken.

Under the federally financed anti-poverty program, the foster grandparents must be 60 and have an income of less than $1,600 annually if single or $2,000 if married.

"This is doing a service to the elderly," Baca said. "It brings them out of the homes, gets them out of isolation." It also adds to their income as they are paid an average of $128 per month.

The foster grandparents in New Mexico range in age from the minimum 60 to 83. Baca said they have grown dedicated to the program, so much so there have been only five vacancies in the group in 10 months and there is a waiting list of 60 persons.

hands, but the others are learning so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened," said Derald Sarratt, unit supervisor.

"Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

Miller, a husky 25-year-old graduate of the Missouri School for the Deaf at Fulton, came to the engineering office this spring. He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribbling.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

"I got tired of writing notes, and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language—besides Miller—but she claims she's still clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employees are progressing to hand symbols which translate into words or phrases.

By now most of the office force can ask Miller simple questions and give brief replies to his queries. Carl Moore and Willie Godfrey at nearby desks even try an occasional joke in sign language.

"It's unbelievable that the whole unit is making such an effort," Miller wrote in reply to a question. "Usually you'll find maybe one or two interested—but not everyone."

Local Drive For College

An area drive for a $30 million ten-year development program, at Hiram Scott College, Scottsbluff, Neb., is being headed by Ray W. Davis of Kingston, president of the Greater Albany Parents Club.

Two Kingston boys, William Kilquist of 86 Pine Grove Avenue and Michael Davis of 49 Holiday Lane, have just completed their freshman year at the newly established liberal arts college in Nebraska.

Davis noted "it is a rare adventure for both parents and students to help pioneer the development of a new college."

Public Hearing on College Budget Is Scheduled for Thursday Night

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

A public hearing on Ulster County Community College's $1,673,543 preliminary budget for next year will be held Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the county office building.

Less estimated revenues of $1,194,321 and appropriated surplus of $23,000, leaves $456,222 to be raised by taxation. In addition 50 per cent of an equipment appropriation of $65,000 brings the total to be raised by the county to $488,722.

This is an increase of $124,692 over last year's figure of $331,530. The budget report notes that the $124,692 increase represents 26 per cent of the total increase in the budget while the anticipated increase in full-time enrollment for the fall semester is 36 per cent.

Estimated revenues will total $1,194,321 which includes the surplus, student revenue of $341,970 and the same amount from state aid. Both figures indicate an increase over last year of 39.7 per cent. This compares with the 39.4 per cent increase in the total budget.

Of the total budget $1,187,643 is appropriated for personal services compared with last year's modified budget request of $889,195. The increase is $298,448 or 33.6 per cent. The increase in personal services also reflects an increase of employees benefits. The budget request is for $174,900 as compared with $122,000 in the modified budget request last year.

The increase is $52,900 or 43.4 per cent.

More for Library

The operation of the library will cost 39.6 per cent more

for the coming year with a total appropriation of $89,528 over last year's figure of $64,125. The increase is $25,403.

Total maintenance shows an increase of 32.5 per cent of $17,487 over last year's cost of $53,781.

The budget received administration approval of the State

University of New York early in June. The anticipated enrollment of full-time students in the fall is 1,106 and 851 part-time students. This subsequent requires a full-time equivalent faculty increase of from 54.3 to 68.8 members. Increase in the budget are also reflected by the addition of new programs as well as by expanding and improving existing educational programs. During the academic year of 1968-69 funds will be required to initiate a two-year degree program in nursing. The college will be preparing two new curricula for the fall including computer science technology and law enforcement.

Tracing Fingerprints in State Made Quicker Through Computer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —

The time needed to trace fingerprints of an arrested person has been reduced to 25 seconds in New York State, the result of a high-speed computer that was put into operation Tuesday.

This, coupled with the Facsimile Transmission Network that enables the New York State Identification and Intelligence System to receive sets of fingerprints from any place in the state in 14 minutes, makes it possible for law enforcement agencies to receive positive identification and the prior record of an arrested person within a half hour.

This outstanding breakthrough in fingerprint searching places New York State in

real-time computerized fingerprint search system in the world today," said Dr. Robert R. J. Gallati, NYSIS director.

"Beginning today, we can search arrest fingerprints against our file of 1.6 million criminal prints in a matter of seconds, and respond to the inquiring agency within a matter of minutes," Gallati said.

Before installation of the computer, searches were made mechanically and often took as long as an hour.

NYSIS, an independent bureau serving the information retrieval and research needs of 3,600 agencies of criminal justice in the state on a round-the-clock basis, was established in 1966. Its budget in the current fiscal year is $5.8 million.

"The inauguration of this service today is a significant part of the overall application of science and technology to criminal justice pioneered by NYSIS," Gallati said.

"Such high-speed response time is vital to the protection of civil liberties and is indeed imperative due to the rapid advancement of requirements enunciated by the United States Supreme Court," he added.

Directory One Of Many MHS For the County

Located at 27 East O'Reilly Street, the Ulster County Association for Mental Health serves the whole of Ulster County with its information and referral service.

One of the many information services provided is their Directory of Mental Health Services for Ulster County.

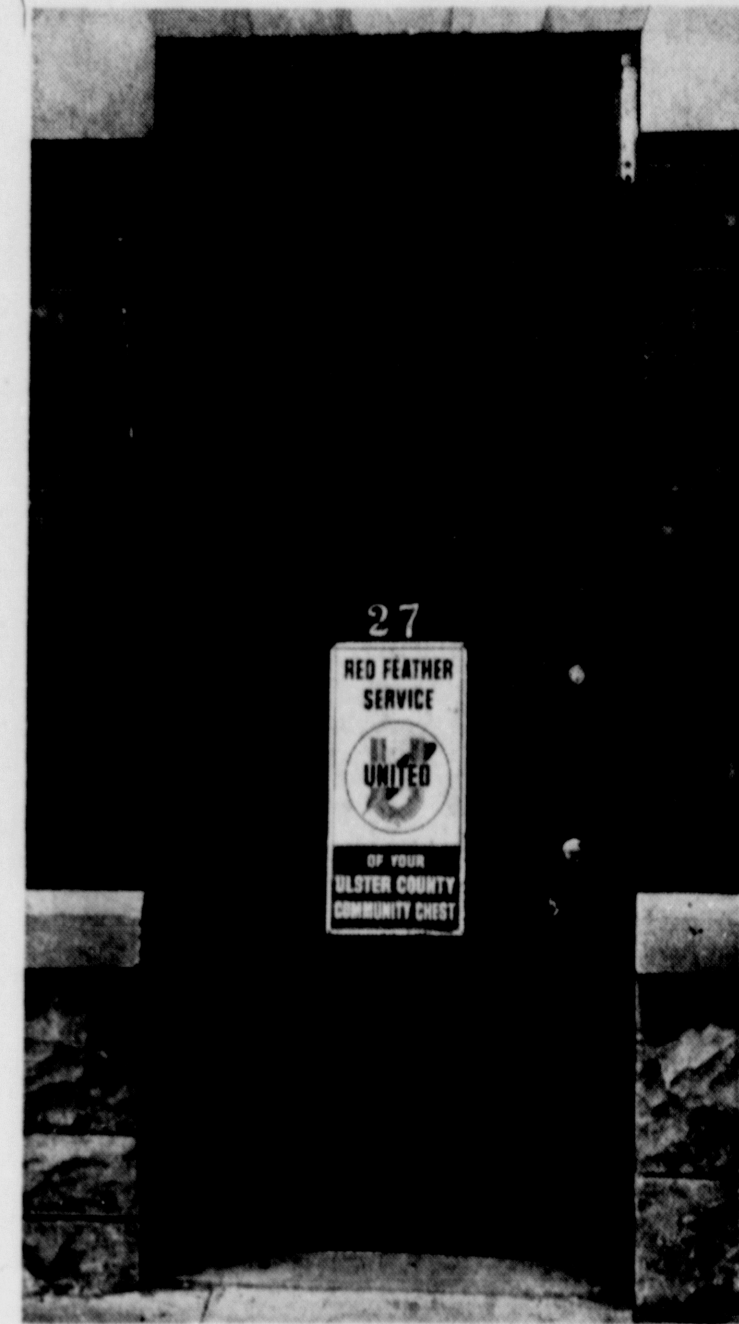

Originally compiled in 1963, the directory was revised and enlarged early this year. It is of immense help to physicians, public health nurses, social workers, teachers, the clergy and attorneys who may need details of the many kinds of special treatment services available in the realm of mental illness and retardation.

With 28 pages, it is a concise and invaluable reference book, especially published for use in Ulster County. It is available free of charge to professional persons, and may be obtained upon request from the office of the Association.

Another activity of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health is promotion and co-operation with local treatment facilities. One of these is the Middletown Halfway House at 99 Clinton Avenue.

The Association also provides services such as the regular monthly bus to Middletown State Hospital from the Kingston-New Paltz area.

In addition, it sponsors educational programs for professional groups, clubs and organizations and schools. Films and special materials are available upon request.

GOPers Are Named In Eugene Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two top state administrators, both Republicans, have been named in a suit filed in Manhattan federal court by backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

The suit against the state Democratic committee Tuesday charged there was a failure to provide the McCarthy presidential candidacy with a fair share of at-large national convention votes.

The action, filed by the Committee for Fair Play for Voters, noted that while McCarthy won more than half the 123 delegates elected in the June primary, the state committee awarded him less than a fourth of 65 at-large delegate votes.

According to the suit, the state committee should be blocked from choosing at-large delegates. Instead, the group suggested, the 123 elected conventioners should select the other 65.

Named in the suit were State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns, New York Sec. of State

The Venezuela and Guyana Strife Has Reached New Crisis Stage

By ALAN JENKS
CARACAS (UPI)—A border dispute between Venezuela and Guyana, dating back to the nineteenth century, has reached a new crisis stage at a time when both countries are in the midst of political campaigns.

Diplomatic observers here believe that unless cool heads prevail the land dispute, over two thirds of Guyana's territory, could aid Marxist Cheddi Jagan in his campaign to oust the pro-western Guyanese government of Prime Minister Forbes Burnham.

Second Cuba
It is feared that Jagan, and his American-born wife, Janet, would create "a second Cuba in Latin America" if they were to gain power.

The "Guayana Esequibo" dispute goes back to an arbitration award made in 1899, by which Venezuela gave to Britain 50,000 square miles of territory really began in the 1960's as Guyana, then the colony of British Guiana, headed towards independence.

The area in question involves all the land west of Georgetown and the Essequibo River to the present eastern border of Venezuela.

Attempts to peacefully settle the conflicting claims over the sparsely inhabited land have gone from bad to worse in the last 30 days.

First, the latest meetings of the mixed border commission, set up in 1966 to arbitrate the dispute, ended in failure. Apparently, the only thing the two countries could agree on was the abolition of a special subcommission set up to work out joint economic development projects between Venezuela and Guyana.

Second, just after the Guyana delegation returned to Georgetown, Venezuela unilaterally declared the waters from three to twelve miles off "Guayana Esequibo" as Venezuelan territory.

Claims Differ
Venezuela claims territorial waters of 12 miles and Guayana, three. The Venezuelan decree made clear that Venezuela was not presently claiming sovereignty over the three miles directly offshore. However, it was stated that Guyana's control of this seacoast depended on who actually controlled the disputed land area.

Prime Minister Burnham has called Venezuela's unilateral action "international piracy" and may take his country's case to the United Nations.

At Guyana's independence in May of 1966, Burnham, a Negro, became the country's first leader. But he was only able to defeat Jagan, backed by Guyana's Indian population with the aid of the Portuguese community, loyal to the conservative party of Stanislaus d'Aguiar.

New Parliamentary elections must be held in less than a year. Burnham could lose his slim margin in the 53-man legislature if Jagan can score political points on the prime minister's handling of the territorial dispute.

Ulster GOP Event on Aug. 18

The seventh annual picnic of the Town of Ulster Republican Club will be held Sunday, Aug. 18 at St. Liberata's Field in East Kingston from 1 to 4 p.m.

Joseph Lohmaier, general chairman of the event announced the appointment of the following committees to assist him: refreshments, Anthony Cicoria and Stephen Maidi assisted by Salvatore Castiglione, Jack Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Atkins, Howard Hueston, Richard Nace, Mrs. Huyler Van Wagenen, Ollie Erwin, Frank Oneto, Ted Olsen and Harold Felton; Edward Callahan and Lester Elmendorf; tickets, William Costello and Mrs. Albert Wilmoth; decorations, David Bruce assisted by Mrs. Richard Nace, Marge Burger, Mrs. Alma Brayton and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayner; grounds, Edgar P. Elliott; special events, Thaddeus Musialkiewicz; traffic, James Costello, Charles McCullough or the ticket committee.

The annual picnic is one of the events sponsored by the Town of Ulster Republicans and its attendance has reached several hundred. Lohmaier advised his committees to be prepared again this year for a large attendance. Tickets may be purchased from any club member or the ticket committee.

Master Mediator in Italy

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP) — Whenever things run amok in the tangled jungle of Italian politics, the president calls in Mr. Fixit, like Giovanni Leone.

Twice in the past five years, fast-talking Leone has accepted the premiership when all others have failed. Twice he has steered the country out of political chaos.

Yet the affable Neapolitan with the large nose plays a poignant role in Italian politics. In days of normalcy, he retires to security. He is called in for help only when all appears lost.

"Don't worry, I won't stay long," 59-year-old Leone told a party meeting last week after winning a confidence vote in the Chamber of Deputies by a margin of five votes. "I am here to keep things in order."

Before the alliance was formed five years ago Leone acted as midwife for six months, holding the premiership

until the political maneuvering was over and the center-left was born.

This summer, after the Socialists suffered an election setback and booted the coalition, he was back at his old caretaker post, with his graying hair, black rimmed spectacles and white bristle mustache. When the Socialists meet at their October congress and presumably decide to rejoin, with a more radical platform, Leone is expected to step down without any fuss.

He will return to his lifetime Senate seat, awarded last year by President Giuseppe Saragat for meritorious services to the nation.

Leone has always shunned the party game of patronage, influence and intrigue which characterizes Italian politics. In his own Christian Democrat party, he stands at the center and has few connections.

But his reputation for utter integrity and ability to think and express himself clearly has made him the master mediator of Parliament.

His motto is "seccati, ma fallo" (do it despite the boredom) and with his cajoling smile and long conferences, he has convinced the Socialists at least to abstain in Parliament in confidence votes in order to secure some summertime stability.

Our Air Losses Dip In Viet

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. aircraft losses over North Vietnam have dropped dramatically since President Johnson limited bombing raids to the country's narrow Southern Panhandle.

An Associated Press check of daily military communiques shows 30 U.S. planes listed as shot down over North Vietnam since the President's bombing restrictions went into effect March 31.

By contrast, the United States lost 133 planes during the same time period last year when raids were conducted against most of North Vietnam.

The sharp cut in losses is even more dramatic when it is noted that missions against the North have increased substantially since last year.

U.S. pilots are now flying at the rate of 130 missions per day over the North, compared with 103 per day in 1967 and 65 in 1966.

The following breakdown shows monthly mission totals for 1968 since the bombing curbs in parenthesis:

April 3,412 (2,925), May 3,593 (3,237), June 3,792 (3,607) and July (first three weeks) 2,723 (3,819).

In addition to the savings in manpower, the lower incidence in lost planes has resulted in a financial benefit.

Assuming the United States would have lost 100 more planes had countrywide raids continued as in 1967, the savings in aircraft alone amounts to at least $200 million.

Already Pentagon officials are scaling down fighter production from an originally planned 100 planes per month to 72 in accordance with the reduced losses.

Top defense officials maintain the bombing program is now more effective than it was even though enemy infiltration into South Vietnam has increased.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford told newsmen July 11 that concentration of the attacks on enemy supply lines below North Vietnam's 20th parallel probably has "produced more dividends and rewards than if the bombing were spread over a larger area."

Clifford said the enemy is expected to infiltrate 20,000 men southward in each of the summer months but "they will pay an increasingly higher cost for that as they go through the panhandle south of the 20th parallel."

Expensive Birds

NEW DELHI (AP) — The repair and maintenance of Parliament costs the taxpayers here rupees 264,000—$35,200—a year. Part of it is cleaning the massive round structure, 560 feet in diameter, of droppings from pigeons, a sacred bird which Hindus will not kill.

The Imperial Valley of southeastern California has an annual rainfall of less than 3½ inches, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Tribe Starving to Death, Victim of Nigerian War

By DAVID MAZZARELLA, middle of the Nigerian civil war, huddle in this front line. A 30-year-old woman lies on the ground, com- panting on the ground, com- blaining in a croaking voice that she can no longer stand on her reedthin legs. "I can feed them for two more weeks," says the camp warden, the Rev. Lawrence Ntia, an Ibibio who became a Roman Catholic priest. "We got 48 cans of tinned fish three days ago from Caritas (the Catholic relief organiza- tion) and today a man from the Red Cross came with six bags of milk and five bags each of egg powder and salt."

Father Ntia said this means the refugees, at least for a few days, will get a little more than their occasional cup of mashed cassava root. Most of the refugees came to the camp from the no man's land around Ikot Ekpene, a town which has been fiercely contested by the armies of the Nigerian Federation and break-away Biafra. The province is inhabited mainly by Ibibios, a minority tribe overshadowed by the main antagonists in the civil war—the Ibos of Biafra and the Hausas and Yorubas of the federation. Many of the Ibibios fled into the steaming forest when the fighting got heavy and have not come out. "They are starving," said Father Ntia. "Soldiers and civil defense workers go into the bush to try to get them out, but many of them ran farther away, afraid the soldiers will shoot them." Nevertheless there has been a steady flow of refugees to the camp, which is now overcrowded. And Ikot Ekpene is only one of many refugee camps in the area.

Full House at Tri Mount

The third week of the 1968 summer camping season at Camp Tri-Mount, BSA, saw another capacity crowd of some 180 Scouts and their leaders. Owned and operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Tri-Mount is a 525-acre tract of woodland located in East Jewett.

Troops camping in the six centrally located campsites were: North Bergen County Council's Troop 89 from Wyckoff, N. J., under the leadership of George McGuire, Floyd Groble, and assistant John Ungert; Troop 309 from Huntington, L. I. with John Shannon and Howard Armheim as their leaders; Kingston's Troops 3 and 10, and Troop 103 from Hurley under the leadership of

Raymond Simonetti and Richard Rioux; Troop 11, also from Kingston, with leaders Richard Raible, Frank Rockwell, and Robert Winne; Troop 17 of Tillsen with Frank Muller as their leader; Saugerties Troop 39 with Provisional Scoutmaster John Adsit; Troop 44 of Catskill with several leaders changing off during the week; and a number of boys staying as provisional campers from various other troops.

The Scouts also had the chance to put into use the many skills taught them during the past week in the weekly "Aqua Maneuvers" contest. The winner for this week was the "Seneca" campsite made up of Troop 89 from Wyckoff, N. J. In addition to being offered opportunities for advancement

the Scouts and their leaders had the chance to meet Finn Christensen, a Scout leader from the country of Denmark, and Camp Tri-Mount's foreign Scouter this year. Friday night, Finn presented a program of slides of his country.

Everything that was accomplished by each troop was announced and recognized during the Troop and Area Report segment of the Saturday night closing campfire.

The winners of this week's Honor Patrol award, which was the Moonshiners patrol of Troop 10 of Kingston was announced and the Scouts presented with neckerchief slides at the final flag lowering ceremony Sunday, July 21. It marked the official end of the third week, and the beginning of the fourth.

Week at Scout Camp Brings Badge Bonanza

An outstanding advancement record was made recently by Boy Scout Troop 20, sponsored by the Hurley Lion's Club, while encamped for a week at the Rip Van Winkle Council's Camp Tri-Mount. The troop totaled up a score of 42 earned merit badges, 14 rank advancements, and 22 other miscellaneous awards. Leadership during the camp week was given to the boys by Scoutmaster Robert G. Lawton, and Assistant Scout-

Tiny Tips

If you're about to bake a cake and the recipe calls for sour milk or buttermilk and you only have sweet milk in the house, you can still make do. Turn the sweet milk into sour by putting one tablespoon of lemon juice or white vinegar in the bottom of your measuring cup. Add sweet milk to the one-cup level and let it sit about 10 minutes so that it thickens a bit.

To get a smooth pour out of a new ketchup bottle, push a drinking straw through the ketchup to the bottom of the jar. Let it stay a moment, then remove the straw.

Do-it-yourself painters would be wise to cover door knobs, light fixtures and other immovable objects with a plastic wrap or plastic bags. This will save a messy and time-consuming job later on.

To remove stains from an aluminum pan, save squeezed out lemon halves and put them on to boil with enough water to cover. The tarnish will vanish.

Ilgner - Barringer Wedding Told

Miss Eleanor R. Ilgner of 164 Henry Street, Kingston, daughter of Mrs. Kathy Schiefer of Route 5, Box 264, Kingston, and Gerhard Ilgner of Maiden Lane, Kingston, became the bride of Thomas T. Barringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barringer, 166 Henry Street, Kingston, on Sunday, June 23, at the Flatbush Reformed Church.

The Rev. Robert A. Hess officiated at the double ring ceremony. Helen Chen Ling was organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Gunther E. Ilgner, the bride wore a white gown of imported silk organza over bridal taffeta. The gown featured a scoop neckline, abbreviated sleeves, fitted empire bodice and a cathedral back. A coronet set of seed pearls held her veil and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis.

Mrs. Joyce Ilgner, sister-in-law of the bride, of Route 1, Box 38, Kingston, served as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of green rayon sheer over taffeta with satin waistline and matching head piece and chapel veil. She carried a basket of daisies with ribbons to match her gown.

Attendants were Miss Mary Lynn Demski of Kingston, and Miss Delores Scofield of West Shokan. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the matron of honor in pastel shades of blue and pink, respectively and they carried baskets of daisies with ribbons dyed to match their gowns.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sorensen, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College. She is now employed at the Benedictine Hospital as a registered medical secretary.

Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and attended Ulster County Community College. He is a veteran of Vietnam having served in the U. S. Navy, and is employed by Rondout Marine, Inc.

Humphrey Women's Advisory Council Members Named

More than 60 distinguished women in the professions, the arts, and other fields were named this week as members of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's Women's Advisory Committee.

Their appointments were announced by Margaret Truman Daniel, national co-chairman of Women for Humphrey, in a news conference at the headquarters of New York Citizens for Humphrey, 7 East 52nd Street, New York.

Mrs. Geri Joseph, vice chairman of United Democrats for Humphrey, Women's Division, joined in the announcement.

Additional members of the advisory committee will be announced within the next couple of weeks, until a total of 100 is reached.

The first meeting of the Women's Advisory Committee is scheduled for Aug. 1 in Washington, D. C., and the Vice President is expected to attend.

Mrs. Joseph described the formation of the committee as "something new, vigorous and significant in political campaigns."

"For the first time, a candidate will be giving women—as women—a voice in the decisions and debates which make up the core of presidential campaigning," Mrs. Joseph said.

The women listed as members of the committee all have won recognition on their own, many of them as leaders in their fields.

They will assist the Vice President's campaign by preparing position papers in their areas of expertise, concentrating on issues in which women have special concern: the role of the family; education; the future of women in professions and careers—to mention just a few.

It is anticipated that many of those named also will be leading of the campaign issues with women around the country, so that ideas and suggestions of women at the grass roots will become known to the candidate and his advisors.

Announcement of the committee reflected the Vice President's desire that women play a key role in his campaign—not only as headquarters volunteers, doorbell ringers and telephone—but as prime intellectual resources.

Some of those announced here at a press conference at the Citizens for Humphrey Headquarters are:

Sadie T. M. Alexander, past chairman of Philadelphia Commission on Human Rights, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

What do people send to rummage sales? A day of unpacking cartons brought to light, among other articles, a large box of buttons—white pearl buttons from shirts, white bone buttons from underwear, blue metal buttons from work shirts, buttons covered with red silk, blue and gold enameled buttons, wooden and leather buttons, and many more. A whole family history lies in this box of buttons, probably going back a generation. Nobody saves buttons any more; hardly anybody used them, except for shirts. The world is held together by zippers. But it was pleasant to run fingers through those buttons and imagine that old world when they were as necessary as a buttonhook.

There was also a box of brass ammunition cases, expertly fashioned. One might wish for a day when these were as outmoded as the buttons. There was a large strap of melodious sleighbells, heigh-ho and a white Christmas. There was a wooden washtub on legs, ancient tin strainers (old tin articles bring good prices these days), bone-handled knives made of the best Sheffield steel; none of your stainless steel blades that cannot be sharpened. I bought two of the old ones at a sale for a nickel apiece and they still take a razor sharp edge.

There was a pair of wooden shoes and in the same box a galosh for the right foot and a sneaker for the left. This indicates not so much a one-legged man as a forgetful one. There were any number of alarm clocks without their glass. Maybe the alarm went off too early and the irate owner, rudely awakened from his nap, hurled the offending clock at the wall. Maybe this happened again and again. There were electric irons that did not heat up, electric blankets that, according to the note attached, did not work on "high," vacuum cleaners that must have hit the half century mark some time ago; lots of rusty pots and pans and chipped plates.

Anything can be found in a box rummage. But it is not all bad. One box disclosed a handsome silver tea kettle from Tiffany's, complete with stand. It polished up beautifully and a buyer was found who was willing to pay the considerable asking price. Probably the woman who put in long hours unpacking, arranging, pricing, and often washing up the rummage do it partly for the surprises the cartons may contain.

This year one unpacker found a doll in a basket, complete with clothes, blankets, ribbons, and laces. "I took it home to wash the clothes and the covers," she said. "I was going to buy it for my granddaughter. And then I decided it was too good for us. We ought to sell it for a big price."

There must be easier ways of making money, but the schools that benefit, the scholars who receive help with college fees, the church which always needs something or other, all these are grateful for the buttons and the sleighbells, the faceless clocks and the worn kitchen ware, everything that make up the rummage sale.

Government Studies Status of Women

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new look at the role and the rights of the American female in every area from alimony and abortion to equal job rights with men comes from a new government-sponsored study on status of women.

It no longer looks on woman as the weaker sex but as one who can carry her own physical load alongside the male. And it calls for a widening of the rights in the whole area of family life.

Divergent Fields
The study was made by the Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women, appointed by the President more than a year ago. Chairman was former Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, D-Ore., and the others on the "task force"—men and women—came from such divergent fields as the sciences, business, education, finance, law, life insurance, labor and religion.

Criteria for alimony for instance, were suggested that would "recognize the contributions of each spouse to the family and the need of each spouse . . . alimony should not be used to redress wrongs . . . non-fault bases for divorce, such as voluntary separation, should be included in grounds for divorce."

The council took a strong stand for changes in current abortion laws. It put its recommendations this way: "Convinced that the right of a woman to determine her own productive life is a basic human right, the task force recommended that laws penalizing abortion be repealed" and urged state commissions on the status of women assume responsibility for educating the public on this issue.

Recommend Equality
In the world of the working woman, the council recommended that employers, employees and unions "work to insure that the provisions of the equal pay act are honored and to eliminate the evasive practices to justify higher wage rates for men." States, it added, should adopt equal pay laws where they do not now exist.

The council's task force on health and welfare called for reinforcing community institutions and services to meet the needs of women, particularly in low income families. It called for more day care facilities, expanded homemaker services, and better consumer education on the problem of family care when the mother works outside the home.

Comes Out of Hiding; Not Frightened Now

MELBOURNE, Australia

(AP) — Ukrainian-born Nina Paranyuk has come out of hiding after 11 years and 6 months.

"I'm not frightened anymore," says 46-year-old Nina, now Mrs. Wasyl Kuzyk, of the outer suburb of Fawkner.

During the 1956 Olympic Games, Nina, a stewardess, defected from the Soviet liner, the Gruzia, which had brought the Soviet Olympic team to Melbourne.

She vanished at Melbourne's Zoological Gardens where she had gone with other members of the Gruzia crew on a sight-seeing tour on Nov. 18, 1956. Soviet agents, Melbourne Special Branch Police, Commonwealth Police and Immigration Department investigators searched for her in vain.

Her disappearance became one of the human interest stories of the Melbourne Olympics. Although she knew no one in Melbourne and spoke only Ukrainian, she dodged police for two months, hiding in the homes of members of a Ukrainian society. Almost daily, she changed houses.

The Gruzia sailed and four weeks later Victoria State Police found Nina in a house in suburban Brunswick.

Australia granted her political asylum. When the word went around that the attractive Nina—then 34—was interested in marrying and settling in Australia, Wasyl Kuzyk, two years her senior, won her hand.

The couple disappeared again. Nina was still afraid of Soviet agents today. Nina is no longer afraid.

"I've been hiding all these years," she said. "But now I no longer care about Soviet agents. They can't touch me. I'm in a free country."

Nina's husband is also Ukrainian-born, having migrated here in 1949. He became naturalized 10 years later.

The pride of Nina's life is her

10-year-old son Wally, who is at a suburban school. He began teaching his mother to speak English last year.

It was his tutoring that helped her pass the English language test for naturalization, and she became an Australian citizen last Nov. 27.

Nina still expresses her hatred for the Stalin regime of the Soviet Union. She recalls that her one wish was always to seize the chance to defect.

"I still have relatives somewhere in the Ukraine—my 83-year-old mother, a married sister and a brother," she said. "I've not seen them since 1954. I hope they're all right. But I do know they have not gotten into trouble because of what I have done."

Beauty Hides Under A Bushel of Soot

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Nearly every urban woman lives under one bushel of soot, ashes and dust.

This year what amounts to a giant airborne bushel basket will overturn more than 34 tons of aerial contaminants on each square mile of the average American city. And a substantial portion of this will fall in your eyes.

Take a long look at your polluted beauty image. How long does a pair of white gloves stay clean? Has pollution you can't see but can feel caused your eyes to water, mascara to run and fake eyelashes to become unglued?

Start your own antipollution campaign in the boudoir. Skin, eyes and hair were not built to handle these excess impurities so they need special care.

Your skin catches airborne dirt and skin moisturizers or natural oils hold the dirt on the surface. Touching and rubbing your skin during the day embeds dirt more deeply into the pores.

Cleanse your skin thoroughly and frequently to prevent a build-up of blackheads. Cleansing creams are good. But soap helps when your face is really dirty. Use a very mild soap unless your skin is excessively oily.

A facial mask two or three times a week loosens dirt clogged in pores and removes embedded dirt. Extra cleansing is drying, so add plenty of nourishing skin emollients at night.

Daily foundation make-up serves as a protective film against dirt in the air. But set your make-up job gently with a wet sponge. This holds it longer. Wash your powder puff daily since it touches your skin.

Eyes suffer from soot and polluted fumes and so does your artful job of eye make-up. Sunglasses afford some protection and they also cut down squinting which can cause wrinkles.

But smog and harsh fumes irritate eyes behind the glasses. Keep a plastic squeeze bottle of eye lotion handy to soothe stinging eyes and flush out irritants.

Natural hair oils attract and hold dirt, so polluted air covers

EYE MAKE-UP CAN BE WASHED AWAY in a flash-flood of tears produced by an errant particle of soot, an ever-present beauty problem in our polluted cities. This model protects her eye make-up by wearing sunglasses. For emergencies she includes a handy yellow plastic squeeze bottle of eye lotion in her purse.

hair more quickly with a dull layer of film. Wash your hair often to keep it clean and shiny and to prevent growth of scalp and skin bacteria.

Frequent washing dries out hair, however. So use a good hair conditioner lavishly after each washing. An occasional oil treatment also helps damaged, dried-out hair.

GIs' Views On the Gun Curbs

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — An informal survey among American combat troops whose lives depend on their weapons shows a strong sentiment for moderate to strong gun control laws in the United States.

But at the same time, most of the GIs interviewed on Saigon's outer defense perimeter said they thought short of confiscation controls would do little to cut down on gun deaths.

Spec. 5 Jerry Ballard of Kansas City, Mo., said, "I'm a member of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and I'm against confiscation. But I think mandatory registration of weapons is okay. A gun is no different from a car as far as that goes. And stopping mail order sales is a good idea."

Lt. Alfred Pick of Dallas, Tex., said proposed gun laws seemed "ridiculous. Crooks and assassins can always get a gun whether it is registered or not."

Spec. 4 Paul Young of Burbank, Calif., said as a devoted

hunter, he would not mind gun registration laws but added: "No matter what gun laws they pass, if someone really wants a gun he'll find a way to get it. And don't forget, it's the people who do the killing, not the gun. Weapons are not bad by themselves."

"A lot of guys worry about registration because they think it may eventually violate their right to bear arms," said Spec. 4 John Krumpus of Des Plaines, Ill.

"But I think it's a great idea to register and license weapons in the United States. I've seen what these things can do to people and there ought to be some sort of control."

"But if a guy is crazy enough to kill (in the United States), he'll find a way to get a weapon. If there's no pistol or rifle around, he'll use a baseball bat."

A few GIs said that when they returned home they planned to get rid of the weapons they had in the States, particularly hand guns.

In the past, a few have said Vietnam had even soured them on hunting and that they would never take another life, even that of an animal, once they got out of Vietnam.

Several GIs deplored what has been called the arms race in some U.S. cities with racial unrest. A common remark was that those who had not seen what guns can do to another human couldn't fully realize the consequences of pulling a trigger in anger until it was too late.

Roosevelt Grier Quits Football

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer

From the violent world of pro football to the world of promoting peace among the races.

That's the task facing mammoth Roosevelt Grier, the 6-foot-5, 287 pound defensive tackle of the Los Angeles Rams who announced his retirement Tuesday, after 12 seasons in the National Football League.

Grier was sidelined for the entire 1967 season with a ruptured achilles tendon and when the injury failed to respond to treatment, he decided to call it quits as a player.

Grier, 36, a participant in the civil rights movement, said he plans to devote his time to a theatrical career in addition to promoting peace among the races.

Started With Giants
Grier, a third round draft choice of the New York Giants in 1955 after attending Penn State, played on five Eastern Conference championship teams with New York and twice was selected to play in the pro bowl. He was traded to the Rams in 1963.

It's Possible That Hens' DiLauro May Win Forever

By United Press International

Jack DiLauro, who may not lose another game this season, snapped the slumping Toledo Mud Hens out of a four-game losing streak with an 8-6 triumph over Buffalo Tuesday night in the International League.

The 25-year-old left-hander, who was 6-5 last year with a 4.88 earned run average, went all the way for his ninth victory without a loss as the league-leading Mud Hens supported him with a four-run outburst in the fourth and fourth single tallies.

Buffalo's Bob Chance rocked DiLauro for a three-run homer in the third, his 21st of the year, and Hector Lopez hit a homer in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the IL, Syracuse and Rochester split a doubleheader, the Chiefs taking the opener, 3-1, and Rochester winning the nightcap, 12-4; Louisville shut out Columbus, 1-0, and Richmond whipped Jacksonville, 6-3.

Pete Magrini was the winner for Syracuse in the seven-inning opener as he yielded five hits, including Frank Peters' homer. The Red Wings scored eight runs in the last four innings to out the nightcap out of reach. Merv Rettenmund hit his 17th homer, while Dave McDonald accounted for three Syracuse runs with a fifth-inning homer off winning pitcher Gerry Herron.

John Thibodeau won his fifth game for the Colonels, although he needed relief help in the eighth. Louisville scored its run in the sixth off hard-luck loser Jim Shellenback, now 3-6.

Richmond exploded for three runs in the second inning as Skip Guinn recorded the triumph with Conrad Noessel's support in the eighth. Don Dyer accounted for two Jacksonville runs in the sixth with a two-run homer, his 11th of the year.

Gates Brown Proves Pinch Hitter Deluxe

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

Dusty Rhodes, New York Giants, 1954; Smoky Burgess, Pittsburgh Pirates, 1960; Jerry Lutch, Cincinnati Reds, 1961.

Gates Brown, Detroit Tigers, 1968, is 10 for 17 for .588 as a pinch-hitter. His latest effort Tuesday night drove in the winning run as the American League leaders defeated the Washington Senators 6-4 and Brown, batting .227 on 5-for-22 in regular appearances this season climaxed a two-run

Kranepool Wants No Part of Expansion

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

If you don't think baseball and baseball players have changed, take the case of Eddie Kranepool.

At the ripe old age of 23, Kranepool is threatening to retire.

Kranepool has announced that if the Mets don't protect him in the expansion draft and he's picked by an expansion team, he'll quit the game.

Apparently, though, Kranepool has finally decided he may try to manage with baseball. He has raised his average from .183 last month to .259. And he continued his recent surge with a homer Tuesday night and Ron Swoboda added a homer to give the New York Mets and Tom Seaver a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The Atlanta loss, combined with the St. Louis' 11-5 frolic over Philadelphia left the Cards 12 1/2 games ahead in the National League non-race.

Likes Winning

Kranepool, who suffered through all those losses with the old Mets who were a baseball joke, insists he won't go through it again if the Mets don't keep him.

"I don't want to start off with another expansion club and go another five years losing. Winning is fun. I'm getting to like it. Can you imagine me playing on a team like the old Mets again?"

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 7-6, in 12 innings, San Francisco nipped Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings and Los Angeles edged Houston 3-1.

Maris Scores Four

Roger Maris collected three hits and drove in four runs to lead a 14-hit attack as the Cards drubbed the Phils. Orlando Cepeda collected two hits, scored three runs and knocked in one.

Tony Perez single, his fifth hit, scored Lee May to start a two-run 12th inning rally that gave Cincinnati the win over Pittsburgh. Tommy Helms followed Perez' single with another single that ended the game after Willie Stargell gave Pittsburgh a 6-5 lead in the top

Two Ex-Champs Rated Favorites

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Two former state champions emerged as favorites today in the second round of the State Men's Amateur Golf Championship.

Nick Raasch of DeWitt, who won the title two years ago, and Bill Tryon of Elmira, who won in 1962 and 1965, each carved out comfortable victories Tuesday in the tournament's opening round at the 6,900-yard Yahnundus Golf and Country Club.

Only half of the original 128 entries remained in contention for today's match.

Raasch, a 19-year-old College sophomore, proved equal to the rolling course—still soggy from thundershowers Monday night—as he overpowered Burt Nash of Lakeview, 5 and 3.

Tryon, who carded a birdie and 12 pars, had little trouble disposing of Mike Slipko of Niagara Falls, 6 and 5.

A dark horse threat for the title, state junior champion Neil Spiltany of Loudonville, remained in contention with a 5 and 3 victory over Donald Paige of Rochester.

Two pre-tournament favorites were upset in Tuesday's match play.

Jack McCabe of Syracuse bowed to Steve Barker of Lewiston and John Kempf of Whitesboro was upset by Robert Bird of Stafford. Both McCabe and Barker were medalists in their sectional qualifying tournaments.

Other medalist survivors were George Pacheco of Poughkeepsie, who narrowly escaped with a one up, 19-hole victory over Jeff Bowen of East Aurora; James Ueltschi of Plandome, who defeated Douglas White of Rochester, 3 and 2; George Dillon Jr. of Briarcliff Manor, who won 4 and 7 over Ronald Jay of Kenmore, and Bob Veigel of Rochester, who defeated Emil Gasnik of Buffalo, 2 and 1.

The tournament's 36-hole final will be played Saturday.

Powell Blasts 16th

Boog Powell drove in four runs with his 16th homer and a double as Baltimore moved three percentage points in front of Cleveland. Powell's homer with two on in the fifth inning erased a 4-3 Indian lead.

Reliever John Morris pitched to only two batters and won his first major league decision.

Juan Pizarro walked Frank Fernandez in the seventh inning with the bases loaded to crack a 1-1 deadlock and start New York on its way to victory. Tom Tresh produced the Yanks' first run with his eighth homer in the fifth inning. Stan Bahnsen scattered seven hits in picking up his ninth triumph.

Vic Davallillo scored twice after a double and single to back George Brunet's 11th win for California in the opener of its twin bill with Minnesota. The Twins won the nightcap with three unearned runs scored on a combination of errors, wild pitches and passed balls. Jim Merritt was credited with his sixth win in 17 decisions.

Area sportsmen and gun enthusiasts are warned not to be carried away by the defeat of proposed gun legislation by the House. Although it is doubtful if any other legislation may be proposed, there is always tomorrow.

Despite the pressure of radio, TV and news media, we are happy to learn that there are some clear-thinking congressmen in our midst, who were not swayed by the mass hysteria.

To all clubs in the Ulster County federation that have not already done so, may we urge their support to the Committee of Area Sportsmen of Saugerties. At the present time, they are engaged in the publishing of a questionnaire for the general public. All funds going to the group are to be used for the survey which should be of utmost interest to everyone.

This group is recommending to all clubs that they support legislators who are against gun registration, come November.

In the meantime, we believe it would be well if we can implore our judges to "sock-it-to-em" for all gun toters who are convicted for illegal possession or use of a firearm in any kind of crime.

We would like to say, all the so-called, bang-bang boys are not bad.

WE'D LIKE TO SEE those in charge of pollution of streams and creeks in this area make a tour of the Rondout Creek and see for themselves what is daily being dumped into these waters.

The Eddyville sector is an excellent site for the youngsters who love to fish. Some good-sized striped bass are also taken in this area, while a fine swimming beach affords pleasure for the whole family near Callanan's.

Ever since the demolition of the Cornell building on lower Broadway, the property has become a dumping ground for everything from bottles to raw garbage. High water and heavy rains washed all the filth into the creek.

From here it looks like the city dump, real handy for the daily trash. Wanna bet it stays that way?

LOOKS LIKE THE BLUEFISH fishermen in this area have finally reached D-Day. All reports indicate the big blues are biting like crazy out of all boat basins from Sheephead Bay to Brille, N. J.

A local faithful, Lonnie Dugan had a ball aboard the Palace last week and all tackle busters. Of course, like we always say, these fish get bigger with every "mahogany ridge" story.

For fishermen who like action, we highly recommend a trip on any boat out of the above ports. Come well prepared, a good rod, 40-lb. test line and the usual 6-pack.

Although we are no pigeon lover, we salute Phil Gilen for performing his duties—picking up those pigeon traps. Perhaps, it would be well for those who rant about gun legislation to, first of all, learn the Conservation laws before doing things on their own. Perhaps the boom-boom boys could lend a helping hand.

A FEW SHORT TAKES:

Gary Cline of Olive Bridge doing real well with his Ashkan fishing. Recently, he came in with a 8½-pound walleye and 6¼ pound brown trout.

Chalk up another top spot for Bob Sperl, the Ulster County Circuit leader with 98/100 at Sunday's trapshoot. His hot gun, like the weather, stays real hot.

OLD RIP SEZ: Don't say we didn't tell you . . . you may be fishing for trout until Oct. 21 in the not too distant future.

Miss Carol U Is Feature Winner

MONTICELLO—Seldom does a horse that is passed in the homestretch coming down to the wire come back to taste victory. Last night at Monticello Raceway things were a little different. Miss Carol U, the one horse in the feature race, was passed at the one-sixteenth pole by Lucky Layne, then rallied brilliantly in the final 25-yards to win the $1,100 pace in 2:07.1, just nipping Lucky Layne in a rare and very tight finish.

Driven by Panfilio Constantino, Miss Carol U. sat third until the three-fourths pole, letting Judy Chief G. (3) and Lucky Layne cut out the mile. With Judy Chief on top, the first quarter went in :30.1 and the half in 1:02.

Coming down to the three-quarters, Constantino pulled the eventual winner outside and passed both horses. Once in the lead at the pole in 1:35, Constantino guided her back to the rail. At that time, Joe Aloy, the driver of Lucky Layne, pulled his horse outside and made a rush. When they came out of the turn, they were head and head.

Miss Carol U., a bay mare, seven-years-old by Scottish Pence out of Karen Dale by Hal Senator, watched as Lucky Layne passed her, then decided she wasn't going to be second.

As lucky Layne came down the middle of the track, Miss Carol U. roared in along the rail and took the triumph.

It was her fourth win of the year in 24 starts for owner Martin Destefano, and the clocking was a new lifetime mark.

The daily double of 8 and 7, Star Tockette and Selka Adios, returned $154.60.

On the Hawaiian Shores

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — With the tourist invasion continuing to grow as the jets touch on these shores, entertainment is booming.

Probably nowhere else in the United States—except Las Vegas, where the gambling creates artificial salaries—could a performer get a half-million-dollars per year contract. That's the reported salary for Hawaii's biggest draw, Don Ho, who plays to packed houses at Duke Kahanamoku's thrice nightly.

Of course, Ho is the only performer who draws that kind of money—hula dancers earn as little as $5 a night at outer island hotels. But as the demand for entertainment rises, so do salaries.

Some Asking Double
The American Guild of Variety Artists, which represents night club entertainers, has taken note of the situation. The union has threatened a strike unless hotel owners come forward with hefty raises for its members. Some demands are double current salaries, according to hotel sources.

An AGVA negotiator declined to discuss specifics. AGVA's ability to organize a strike is complicated by the moonlighting tradition among Hawaiian entertainers.

"Nearly every signer, dancer and musician in the shows has a day job, too," explained a performer, who also works for an electronics firm. "It would be hard to achieve any solidarity to call a strike."

But the AGVA officials remain militant, seeking minimum wages that would make moonlighting less necessary. One thing is certain: Gone are the days when hotel entertainment was provided by members of the staff—bus boys, chambermaids, beach boys, etc. The growing waves of tourists—1,200,000 expected this year, 1,350,000 in 1969—are seeking more sophisticated entertainment.

Producing the Royal Hawaiian show was Jack Cline, a veteran of 10 years of Honolulu theaters.

"I've owned nine of them, and all have been successful," he remarked. "Now I have sold or transferred management of all of them. You used to be able to draw the tourist trade with strippers, but the topless girls ran them out of business. I've tried the topless policy, and that did well until the customers got accustomed to looking at bare bottoms."

"Now some of the clubs are getting by on a rock policy, with music so loud that you can't carry on a conversation. That will pass, too. I think the only future for night club entertainment in Hawaii is with the hotels. They control the guided tours, and can get customers by the busload."

Planning Bake

The Sawkill Volunteer Fire Company is planning a clam-bake in August at the Sawkill Snack Bar Pavilion. Tickets for the bake and booster tickets for those who can not attend but who wish to support the company are available from fire company members.

Regular monthly meetings of the fire company are held the second Monday of the month. Fire drills are scheduled the fourth Monday.

George Spoonhauer, vols president reminds fire district residents that fire permits are required for any open burning. Permits may be obtained from Commissioner Herbert Dixon or Fire Chief George Leedecke.

The only burning permitted without application is in a covered metal receptacle.

The Boy Scout Troop sponsored by the fire company is currently engaged in the annual fund raising bulb sale. Scouts will be calling on local residents during the next few weeks.

Lightning Bolt
Strikes Town;
Four Injured

PAVIA, Italy (AP) — A bolt of lightning struck an Italian army gasoline dump today, sending flaming gasoline down into the North Italian village of Ravanazzano. Gas pipes exploded, 25 houses were damaged and one collapsed, but only four of the 3,000 villagers were reported injured.

The gasoline dump was on a hill nearly two miles from the village, which is 22 miles from Pavia. The burning gasoline flowed down the hill, through a river and into a canal that crossed the village.

As gas pipes exploded and fires broke out in the village, the panic-stricken inhabitants escaped to the nearby fields. Firemen from Pavia, Voghera and Milan rushed to the scene. It took them three hours to put out the fire.

East Can Bar Dummy Entry

By Oswald and James Jacoby

The duck play in today's column represents a more complicated safety play than the one declared yesterday. Most declarers would have made yesterday's play. We think only a small minority would make today's.

Marshall Miles says in his article in "Popular Bridge": "Why does it help to save our high cards until later rounds? It is because as long as both hands can lead a suit it doesn't matter which hand is on lead. When only one hand has cards left in the suit it is vital for that hand to be on lead. For some reason everyone can see why that is true when the entry is an ace, but it is harder to see when the entry is a lower card."

South wins the heart lead in his own hand. He needs the queen of hearts as a later entry to dummy. Then he leads a diamond. West follows with the nine and South should play low from dummy. This play will cost him a trick in the event that West started with the ace, but he doesn't need five diamond tricks. Four will give him his contract and probably an overtrick.

Let's see what happens if he plays the king or queen. Nothing bad if East takes his ace right away, but East ducks.

South returns to his hand with a spade and leads a second diamond. This time East takes his ace and South takes a two trick set. He has only one remaining entry to dummy and he does not have the diamond suit established.

If South plays low the first time, East or West will hold the trick. Then, when South leads the second diamond and rises with one of dummy's honors it won't matter whether the ace is played or held back. Dummy will be able to set up the rest of the diamonds, with the queen of hearts as a sure entry.

business and I am busy with my house and the kids.

Lately Mike has been getting up at 5 a.m. He doesn't have to be to work until 8 and he has only a 20-minute drive to get there. Well, he rushes around getting showered, shaved and dressed and runs out of the house like he is going to be late for something. When I ask him where he is going so early he says, "Nowhere—I just like to ride around." I am getting suspicious and would like to know where this guy goes. Should I follow him?

DEAR BERTIE: No, but ask him what he would think if you did the same thing for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office and have a very responsible position. My husband keeps on calling me at work and if I'm not at my desk when he calls, I go thru the third degree. "Where was I? Who was I talking to? Don't I ever do any work around there!" Then BANG goes the receiver. Abby, that leaves me a nervous wreck all day.

It so happens that I must do a lot of work in the files which are about 50 feet away from my desk, so someone has to call me to the telephone.

When I get home I am faced with more questions and insults. He accuses me of having "boy-friends" at work. Abby, I have received awards for being an outstanding secretary. Besides, I am 47 and settled down.

I can't have any friends or go to the store without him. My only pleasure is work, and now that I do all my own housework, laundry, and the meals are always on the table when he gets home. No waiting. What else does he expect from a wife! Please tell me what to do.

TIRED OF IT ALL
DEAR TIRE: A man who is accusing and suspicious without just cause is sick. And a wife who puts up with it without attempting to get to the bottom of it is as sick as her husband.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I see a teen-age girl who can scarcely keep her hands and eyes off the boy she thinks she "loves," I feel compelled to write to you about my daughter. Hers is an old story of young passion and the price she paid for it.

She became pregnant at 16. After the first shock, we accepted it, as all parents must when they are faced with this nightmare. You hear from the girls who describe what they go thru at such a time, but have you ever heard from mothers who tell what THEY go thru?

The lies when taking their daughter out of school. The long miserable hours she must spend indoors for fear a neighbor will see her condition. Then the final break, when a mother must leave her half-child half-woman in a home for unwed women to endure alone what should be a woman's most beautiful experience—giving life. But in giving life, to know only shame.

I know it takes two to tango. But after the dance is finished, the girl is left to find her way back alone. Sign me A BROKEN HEARTED MOTHER

Pat Paulsen's Testimonial

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Beautiful, famous people poured out of fancy cars. Ropes held back the celebrity-watchers. It was a lovely night in elegant, downtown Beverly Hills, and the occasion was an 89-cents-a-plate testimonial dinner (spaghetti) for presidential candidate Pat Paulsen. Dress was black tie. The setting was a cafeteria.

Outside, a young musical group tore into "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" Girls in Paulsen sweatshirts shouted "We want Pat." And the crowd was impressed by a large picture of the candidate under the sign "Tippecanoe and Paulsen too." Camp followers awaited the leader's arrival in a Pierce-Arrow. And word spread of a wire from Richard Nixon, who indicated he wouldn't mind sharing his 1960 television makeup man with Paulsen.

Inside, arrivals were greeted by the co-hosts of the Sunday affair: Tom Smothers, for whom Paulsen appears on CBS-TV when he is not running for president; and Cass Elliott, who gained fame as Mama Cass of the singing group "The Mamas and the Papas." Funds taken in for the dinner were to be paid to the cafeteria for preparing it. And a matching sum was to be sent to John Glenn and the emergency gun control committee.

Strikes Home
The fact that a television special for Paulsen is planned for the fall seemed somehow only part of the story, even amid this wildly successful promotion. Something more was in the air Sunday—a feeling that this stunt had struck just the right contemporary chord, that it wasn't too much sillier than the real affairs it was satirizing unmercifully.

"My interests, if elected," said one Paulsen poster in the cafeteria, "are with the general public, although I do have some personal goals." Another explained: "To take care of the problem of litter, I suggest legislation to provide for a woman to come in three days a week to clean your city." In an earlier announcement, Paulsen explained the cafeteria dinner: "More people eat in cafeterias than at swanky, dimly lit restaurants and posh sinbins."

The working men and women who showed up included Debbie Reynolds, Groucho Marx, Karl Malden, Nancy Sinatra, Martin Landau and Barbara Bain. And the dais included Carl Reiner as a hilarious master of ceremonies, Steve Allen, Bill Dana, Dick Martin, Phyllis Diller, television humorist Ralph Story and two bigwig California Democrats, Alan Cranston and Jesse Unruh, the latter sporting a pink jacket, white turtleneck shirt and pendant.

Audience Joins In
Paulsen carried his tray with spaghetti to the dais. The audience was as loose and funny as the pros. Reiner noted he was supporting another candidate, and Paulsen, sitting next to him, calmly knocked over his microphone. A guy in the back shouted, "I want my 89 cents back."

Hilarity reached a peak when a short campaign film was to be shown and—here in the movie capital of the world—it took several minutes before anyone could get a simple motion picture projector to work. After this, Cranston praised Paulsen as being "in the tradition of dynamic leaders like Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore and Calvin Coolidge."

And Allen, as a Paulsen adviser, said that concerning the war on poverty, "Pat and I have worked out a plan to shoot about 400 beggars a week."

Finally Paulsen stepped to the microphone, receiving a standing ovation. He began: "Fellow celebrities... honored guests... dishonored guests... regular cafeteria patrons..." There is no doubt that Pat Paulsen is a man of the people.

Cong Guerrillas Press Terror Campaign; Burn 200 Dwellings, 1,000 Left Homeless

By JACK WALSH

attack that left 1,000 civilians homeless, U.S. spokesmen said. They shelled the provincial capital at Hoi An three miles away with 58 mortar rounds, attacked four government positions on the outskirts and overran two of them, a war communique said. About 200 Viet Cong swarmed into Phu Dau, 15 miles southwest of Da Nang, and set the holocaust before dawn as a unit of Marines nearby was pinned down by mortar fire, unable to help. Civilian casualties were not immediately known. Four government soldiers were dead, 10 wounded and 7 missing following the 58-round mortar attack and four ground assaults at Hoi An, the second northern provincial capital attacked in two days of Communist terror in the northern provinces. U.S. tankers and infantrymen patrolling the Phu Dau area only Tuesday killed 70 Communists against three Americans wounded, spokesmen said. The northern actions left little doubt the four-week drop-off in fighting had ended and the Communists were perhaps on the verge of launching their long-awaited nationwide offensive, expected before Sept. 1. Allied soldiers guarding Saigon for the possible invasion attempt clashed sharply with Viet Cong regulars 18 miles southwest of the capital in the heaviest fighting there since July 16, spokesmen said. Thirty-two Communists were killed against 10 Americans dead and 9 wounded, the announcement said.

14th Viet Session

And in Paris, Ave Protests

By LOREN JENKINS
PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today protested Viet Cong terrorism against civilians in Vietnam.

"What is disturbing is the terror action which has started against theaters in the Saigon area," Harriman said moments before the 14th session of the U.S. North Vietnam talks on Vietnam.

"People have been killed and I will call attention to this," he said.

Harriman referred to a series of bombings in Saigon and other cities in which 20 persons were killed and more than 120 injured last weekend.

Western diplomats said today North Vietnam's propaganda campaign has taken a new turn with a view to driving a wedge between Saigon and Washington.

The talks have been stalled without indication of progress.

North Vietnam has steadfastly insisted no progress can be made until the United States halts bombing of the north. The United States has maintained Hanoi must show a military de-escalation.

North Vietnam had already reacted against the weekend Honolulu meeting between President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

It denounced Johnson's statement that if Hanoi refused to cut down its war efforts, "we will be prepared for the worst."

Hanoi said it was another demonstration that the United States is determined to extend its "war of aggression" in Vietnam.

Nhan Dan, the North Vietnamese Communist newspaper, gave the first indication Tuesday of Hanoi's new propaganda technique. It said there were "discordant noises" after the Honolulu meeting.

"It was a very tedious meeting indeed," Nhan Dan said, adding that Johnson was not anxious to go to Hawaii to meet Thieu.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported from Paris that Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials think the possibilities of any real change are slight. They have brushed aside suggestions that his government was modifying the statement of its basic position that has stood for more than four years. Nevertheless, new language has been used and U.S. officials think that eventually it could be important.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and fourth the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for "the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs." Previously this point specified that the South Vietnamese people would settle their own affairs "in accordance with the program of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong. U.S. officials always said they could not accept that condition because it would mean acceptance of the Communist program for South Vietnam.

Early this year a new organization which claimed to include non-Communist elements, the Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Viet-
